PERSONAL:-Mr. M. T. Monahan, superintendent of the Municipal Printing Plant, Boston, and a graduate of the ADVANCE office, paid a short visit to his home in Nelson the past week. His vacation was taken up in making a tour of the principal cities of the Dominion, visiting Toronto, Ostawa, Montreal and Quebec.

The many friends of Hon. Mr. Justice Barker were glad to welcome him to Chatham this week, where he held a session of the Equity Court.

Our Returning Heroes.

Up to last evening no word of the arrival of the returning South African troops at Halifax was received here. They may come to-day. The Chatham men, if they arrive in the day time, will be received at the station here by the Mayor, military officers in uniform and citizens, with the Cit zens' Band. They will repair to the Town Hall and receive an address. The school children will be massed on the grammar school grounds and sing a patriotic air as the procession passes bells will ring and whistles be sounded.

In the evening there will be a torchlight procession by members of the 73rd, firemen and citizens and a public reception in the curling rink.

Let everybody join in giving the boys a true British reception.

The Lightship Floated.

The lightship, which was ashore on the lower end of Bay du Vin Island, was taken off on Wednesday last, although it was not until Friday that she was finally affeat. The work of getting the vessel off was intrusted by Lighthouse Inspector Kelly to Mr. James Desmond of Chatham, who is Mr. Desmond attached a decked scow to each side of her as she lay on the shore in about 19 inches of water at low tide. The scows were kept in position by truss work so as to secure their full lifting power upon the vessel as the tide rose. Oa Wednesday afternoon the tide rose sufficiently to float the craft, and there being no steamer on hand Mr. Desmond and his men warped her off by hand a distance of 250 yards. On Friday afternoon the steamers St. Isidore and St. Andrew were on hand. The former towed the lightship off and the latter brought her up river. She is now stripped for the winter and lying at Call's wharf, Newcastle. She will be taken out of the water during the fall and blocked up for thorough repairs.

It seems about time that a properly modelled and constructed vessel were provided for the Miramichi lightship station, where several second hand schooners have, in turn, been made to do duty since confederation. We do not think that there is such a miserable provision made in any British port in the world for so important a light station as that at the Horseshoe Bar.

Referring to the Waragraph exhibition which is to be given at Masonic Hall, Chatham, to-morrow and Saturday evenings, under the auspices of the Citizens' Band, the Hamilton Spectator says :

"The Waragraph surprised and delighted a good-sized audience at the H. J. C. Park last night, providing an entertainment as enjoyable as it was unusual. Too much can hardly be said of this wonderful machine, and to those who had already seen several other picture machines, as well as those to whom it was a first experience, the where exhibition was an unexpected pleasure. The pictures are of the very best ever shown in this city. That is the least that can be said of them. They are very clear and steady, and so life-like that in some of the most stirring military scenes the spectator is in a perpetual state of surprise that the figures in the pictures do not actually walk on the platform.'

On the merits of the entertainment, as well as in recognition of the enterprise of the Band, the patronage should be large. Reserved seats are for sale at Mackenzie's and also at Hickey's drug store

Re-Opening of St. Luke's Church.

St. Luke's Methodist Church was reopened

last Sunday after having been closed for five weeks undergoing repairs and being repainted. The outside has been pointed and otherwise repaired and the roof painted. The greatest improvement, however, is to be found in the main auditorium. The ceiling has been painted a sky blue, the rafters, tracery and beads, cll rose, and the chamfer maroon, and the walls, salmon pink. The colors are nicely blended and make a very pretty effect, and reflect much credit on Mr. Wm. Jackson and Mr. John Bell, who did the work. The main entrance, hallway, stairs and the church aisles have been recarpeted. The basement walls, also the walls of the halls and class rooms have been sheathed, which much improve this portion of the church. An artistic black and gold shield has been placed on the tower announn the city about 11 o'clock. The happy young couple whose lives were joined by the sacred tie at that hour were Miss Mae Cassady, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Cassady, of Burraid street, and Mr. Frederick Fowlie Burns, son of Mr. John Burns, and a member of the firm of Messrs. Boid, Burns & Company, the well-known metal merchants. The ceremony was performed by the pastor of the church, Rev. E.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion, by the members of the Kings' Daughters, who made a floral bell under which the young couple stood during the wedding service.

Precisely at the appointed hour the bride entered the church, leaning on the arm of her father. She looked handsome in a gown of white organdie over white silk. ### CAYNOR - MORRISSEY MEETING.

The political convention which the ADVANCE referred to la t week, as being about to assemble in Masonic Hall, Chat ham, on Wednesday evening, was held a stated. It was not a party convention in any proper sense. It was an assemblage called for the alleged purpose of making a nomination, but its managers took good care not to trust it. There was the usual assortment of people, young and old St. Andrew's was the chief point of interest | most of whom assembled out of curiosity and to be entertained or amused. And as spectators, realising that they were allowed to attend a free show, they were good-natured and prepared to be easily pleased.

> ter seriously were some es imable gentle men from outside districts who had been induced to attend on account of having received private calls especially en joining them to do so as friends of Mr. John Morrissey. They had also received the circulars of Mr. Myit Gaynor as secretary of one of the Liberal clubs which formed several years ago by persons who were dissatisfied with the County Liberal Association. The president of these clubs of Mr. Gaynor's had publicly protested against Mr. Gaynor's usurpation authority in making the call, and the president and secretary of the Northumberland County Liberal Association were outspoken against it and neither they no

The only persons who treated the mat-that Mr. Hennessey, who had named Mr. Loggie, would make a better candidate than Mr. Loggie. Then, without further "nonsense," it was plainly said that Mr. Morrissey was the man they wanted, and he must be the candidate. Without more ado it was unanimously and confidentially determined that no other name but Mr. Morrissey's was to be considered at "the convention," to which the little party now repaired.

"THE PUBLIC CONVENTION." It was well past the time for the "convention" in Masonic Hall to open before it was called to order by Mr. Myrt. Gaynor, who read his advertisement calling the meeting. Ald. Eiwd. Gallivan was appointed chairm in and Mr. Gaynor secretary. Chairman Gallivan stated that the object of the meeting was to select a candidate of the Liberal party to contest the pending election in Northumberland, and after delivering what was evidently a well considered little speech, suggested that it was in order for the meeting to both he and Mr. Gaynor work their political take steps nominate the man.

This, after the decision which had been here, led to a general discrediting, from a arrived at in the River View Hotel conclave, was, no doubt, considered by Mr. Gaynor a bad break, and he at once sat upon it by asking "the delegates" to retire to the room above the hall to consider the matter and select the party's candidate.

The gentlemen who had already arranged the matter at the River View Hotel, together with a few others, were invited by one or other of them from the body of the hall-altho' some who were thus sked declined to go-went up stairs to the banqueting room of the hall. Here circle, which was marked on the floor, and had been used in connection with former kind raarten assemblage, seemed to be a source of perplexity to certain he "delegates" but they were reassured by Mr. Gaynor telling them it was merely to stand around. When they had formed in the hope that it will do some good. Evans up around the circle, Mr. Hennessy acted Blair, G. T. R. News agent, Union station as chairman. Certain 'Six boxes of Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills formally nominate him, but Mr. Patk. of torture." Clancey took the plunge, accorded by Mr. Joseph Savoy.

Taen they left the room to go down stairs, and when some of them were nearly down they were recalled by Mr, Gaynor, who said they ought to appoint a committee to visit Mr. Morrissey where he was awaiting the honor, and formally tender him the nomination. Someone proposed Mr. Wm. Clff as one of the committee, but that gentleman declined to for $1.00. serve and Messrs. Dan'i Sullivan of Redbink and M. wanted Mr. George Watt, but he held himself down for the time, as did also Mr. W. S. Loggie, and even Mr. Nicholas Cunningham failed to respond.

In a few minutes Mr. Bannon entered th hall and made his way to the platform, where he announced that the committee had waited upon Mr. Morrissey and tendered him the nomination, which he had accepted, and that he would be with them in hve minutes.

Some of the audience averred that Mr. Bannon did not say "five" and perhaps our reporter misunderstood the word he used; at all events, Mr. Morrissey did not keep the meeting waiting five minutes or half a minute, for he immediately entered the hall and was well received.

He addressed the meeting, thanking it for the nomination. He said that four years ago he had tried to make political speeches, but was now a little rusty at the busines; if he were asked to talk about carriages or horses he could do so all right. He was proud to be the candidate of the party presided over by Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his able lieutenant, Mr. Blair. He hoped, later on in the canvass, to see and address them at greater length on the fiscal policy of the party and other matters, and also to meet the other candidate on the platform. He would do all he could to win the election.

Mayor W. S. Loggie and others were now called for and finally Mr. Loggie responded. He reminded the meeting that the proceedings which had led up to the nomination of Mr. Morrissey were irregular from a party standpoint. The candidate had, however, been selected and he thought that they all ought to vote for him, Mr. Loggie proceeded to say that neither Mr. Blair nor anyone else had the right to tell the people here who they should support or how they should Burr appearing to be the favorite, but he declined to make a speech.

Other speakers were now called for, ald.

Ald. Watt's name was next most prominent in the calls, and he responded. After a few opening words, he declared that he had not intended to take any active part in this election but to give a silent vote. but they all knew what that vote would be He had been active in elections in this County and it had not benefit ed him

A voice :- "Nor some other people."

Mr. Watt said when he saw the names on Mr. Robinson's nomination paper-the names of prominent Liberals with whom he had acted on the Liberal side in former contests-he made up his mind that he must come out and oppose them. Mr. Watt proceeded to condemn Hon. Mr. Blair with all his old time vim over the matter of "The Northumberland Deal", and he intimated that the nomination of Mr. Robinson by so many old time Liberals was proof that Mr. Blair had made another deal. Without mentioning any names, he referred to people who had no back bone and worked himself up into quite a show of indignation, until a youngster declared that a certain respected Liberal leader was "no good" and Mr. Patk. Clancey shouted that he had "no sand in him". He was determined to assist in giving the people a chance to say whether that there would be no other person there was to be any other power in Northumberland save spruce deals and logs, and if they were to continue to rule the country.

After Mr. Watt had continued in this Mr. Hennessey also spoke, callingupon the Liberals to support Mr. Morrissey: This seemed to have exhausted the proand also with the counter proposition gramme of speakers, but the youngsters wanted to hear more, so they called for several persons, some of whom were present Finally, Mr. Gaynor seemed to realise that the meeting was getting a little tedious and noisy, and he moved an adjournment, which was carried.

The net result of the scheme to nominate Mr. Morrissey, and the manifest hostility of the speakers at his meeting to Hop. Mr. Blair, together with the tone of the letter which Mr. Gaynor, the organiser of the meeting above reported, published in the Conservative organ of the County, had the effect on Thursday last of cau ing hundreds of electors who recegnise Mr. Blair as the Liberal leader of the Province, to join the ranks of Mr. Robinson's supporters; for Mr. Robinson-although a Liberal-Conservative -has never shown the hostility to Mr. Blair which was expressed by Messrs. Loggie and Watt, who profess to be Liberals. Every body, of course, knows that Mr. Watt, who was a rank Conservative until 1887, was always, before and since, a vindictive opponent of Mr. Bair, while the fact that

Others, who had understood, from the first, that Mr. Morrissey had been determined upon as their candidate by Mr. Gaynor and those in his confidence, refused to go to the public meeting until they were assured

> THE PRIVATE CAUCUS. To satisfy these, Mr. Gaynor was obliged to hold a preliminary caucus of pretty near the whole of those who were serious in the business, in the River View hotel. When they were duly assembled there one of those who thought that a letter published by the convener of the meeting was calculated to alarm some of their friends, and was a "very rash act," suggested the problem as to whether a nomination of Mr. W. S. Loggie would
