Judge Wilkinson, in a few happy remarks, made the presentation, saying that a number of gentlemen who had, in different ways, been the recipients of the hospitality or thoughtful acts of kindness on excursions or otherwise of Mrs Tweedie and her household; and who were also admirers of the ability, industry and courage by which Mr Tweedie had attained to the positions which he held at the bar and as the leader of the government of his native province, desired to mark this twenty-fifth anniversary of Mr and Mrs Tweedie's marriage by presenting the cabinet and its contents as a mark of their good will and esteem.

Manager F. F. Proctor, who controls seven beautiful theatres, including the one formerly known as "Her Majesty's," on Guy Street, Montreal, is enjoying a season of unusual prosperity. This is undoubtedly due to the confidence the public has in him, as a caterer of high class amusements.

Having a very large circuit of theatres, he is enabled to secure the very best talent in the market, which he presents in a most attractive form at his various houses. The entertainments he has been giving at the Montreal theatre, have caused an unmitigated comment, of the most favorable character.

There are a dozen theatres in Montreal, but Proctor's is the only one devoted to high class vaudeville. Comedy is always the feature of the bills, and those who enjoy a good hearty laugh, are always well repaid by a visit to Proctor's.

Unlike many other theatres, Proctor's has a following of its own, and the same happy faces may be seen in the auditorium week after week, as the regular patrons go to Proctor's with the fullest confidence that they will see a good bright entertainment.

These regular patrons are the best advertisement that a theatre can have, as they invariably tell their friends about the quality of the shows, and they in turn become steady visitors. The comfort of women and children is always carefully attended to, and that is why the daily matinees attract crowds. The fact that ladies are admitted to all parts of the theatre every afternoon except Saturday, has brought the theatre into even greater popularity than it has ever known.

Unusually strong bills have been arranged for the remainder of the season. The most celebrated acts on the vaudeville stages of America and Europe have been booked, and they will appear in due course of time, to the astonish and delight the residents of Montreal and vicinity. Among the celebrities already engaged are Jacques Inaudi, the most marvellous mental wonder-worker in the world; Paul Spadoni, a juggler of wonderful dexterity; The Kuffan troupe of bicyclists; The Flory trio; Esa Bertoldi, a celebrated hand-balancer; Trentonvi Sisters; Remora-Riley troupe; Canfield and Carleton, a great comedy duo; The English pony ballet, made up of eight charming girls; O'Brien and Havel; The Carmen Sisters; Ryan and Richfield and dozens of others.

Visitors to Montreal should not fail to include a trip to Proctor's, whenever they get to the city, as there is always something in the programme calculated to chase away the blues and make one forget the cares and worries of everyday life.

Evangelistic Work for Sunday Schools. To Superintendents, Teachers and Other Workers.

In accordance with the resolution passed at the recent Provincial Sunday School Convention in Fredericton, the Executive Committee take this means of calling your attention to the important matter of evangelistic work in the Sunday Schools.

We believe that the are tokens of God's favor in reviving His work, and from the teaching of His Word, with personal effort to get consideration of eternal things, we ought to expect His blessing.

In the past years some schools have sought and received a gracious outpouring of the Holy Spirit, and many scholars were turned to the Saviour and have since lived Christian lives. Does not this indicate that He is ready to be found of all who seek Him earnestly, and that the time has come "for a forward movement" towards God, that our Sunday Schools may be visited with His salvation?

The second week of January is recommended by our Provincial Convention as a week of prayer for our Sunday Schools, during which special appeals be made to bring our scholars to decision for Christ.

The result of such movement will depend upon the preparation beforehand in the heart and mind of Sunday School workers. It is not even now too early to begin such preparation. We, therefore, suggest that superintendents and teachers arrange for an early conference with the pastors and other Christian workers to consider:—

1. If God is pouring out His Spirit also upon the teaching of English and turning scholars to Himself, has not the time come for special prayer and effort in your school?

2. Whether this can best be accomplished by your own school alone, or by uniting with other schools in your locality?

3. Whether it would be of advantage to ask help from persons of experience outside your own locality, and can this committee render any such help?

One denomination has already adopted this evangelistic week.

We ask your prayerful consideration of this subject, fraught with so much interest to home, church and nation. We believe that God is calling and not to respond may be to close the doors for a long time.

As an organization set for better Sunday School work, we desire to aid it in every way we can.

Our Sunday School Advocate for January will be a special evangelistic number. A large extra edition will be printed to meet the demand, and extra copies can be obtained for distribution in your locality on application early to our General Secretary—Rev. A. Lucas, Sussex, N. B.

On behalf of the Committee: Rev. A. M. HOLBY, President of Convention. Rev. J. D. FREEMAN, Chairman of Executive. Rev. A. LUCAS, General Secretary.

A Silver Wedding Presentation. Friday last was the twenty-fifth anniversary of the marriage of Premier and Mrs. Tweedie, and it is needless to say that the event was happily observed at their residence in Chatham by the household, Mr. Tweedie having laid aside some business in St. John in order to be with his family on that day, at least. As the household, with one or two visitors, were enjoying themselves in the afternoon, quite a large party of gentlemen drove up to offer their congratulations. They were headed by His Honor Judge Wilkinson and included Hon Allan Ritchie, Lt. Col. R. R. Call, E. Hutchinson, Mayor Snowball, Messrs. John O'Brien, M. P. P., Hon J. P. Burchill, M. P. P.; Chas. Fisher, M. P. P.; R. A. Lawlor, C. D. G. Smith, J. R. Lawlor, R. H. Anderson, C. A. C. Bruce and Fred. Dyle.

The party having assembled in the drawing room, some of its members appeared bearing a highly finished oaken cabinet, which on being opened disclosed in its upper tray a series of drawers, an array of sterling silver table requisites of about one hundred and fifty pieces, and these were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Tweedie as the gift of the visiting gentlemen and a few others who were unavoidably obliged to deny themselves the

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails. The Rev. C. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good remedy. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despair of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease. Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-sized bottle."

Gentlemen: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates all troubles which combine with Asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful. DR. TAIT BROS' MEDICINE CO. Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with asthmatic attacks for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York. I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can conscientiously recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease. Yours respectfully, O. D. PHELPS, M. D. Feb. 5, 1901.

How to Get up an Appetite. Distaste for food often follows Grippe, and fevers, and is associated with a general weakness of the system. To impart a real zest for food, and give power to the stomach to digest and assimilate, no remedy can equal Ferrerozine. This is a new and startling discovery. It strikes at the root of the disease and by removing the cause, cures quickly and permanently. Ferrerozine will quickly enable you to eat and digest anything. Mr. C. P. Hickey, druggist, can tell you a great deal more about Ferrerozine, how it cures and why it cures. Call to-day and see the Late Walter Crocker's Death.

The ADVANCE gave quite full particulars of the circumstances of the lamented death of the late Walter Crocker, as transmitted from both Daoktown and Millerton by long-distance telephone. We had no information on the subject from our regular correspondent at Millerton, but on Tuesday of this week, we received the following, which, although substantially the same in its essentials as we published a fortnight since, and what appeared last week in another local paper, we publish, as it will, no doubt, be a melancholy satisfaction to the late Mr. Crocker's friends to have the fullest particulars of the sad event.

DETAILED STATEMENT GIVEN BY WELDON ROBINSON OF THE TRAMP FROM SOUTH BRANCH OF RENOUE, TO DOAKTOWN, WHICH ENDED IN THE SAD DEATH OF WALTER CROCKER.

In company with Walter H. Crocker, I started from Furlong's camp, on the south branch of Renoue River Tuesday, Nov. 29th, at 7.30 a.m., both feeling well and in excellent condition. We arrived at Storey's camp about 10.30 a.m.—a distance of about 7 miles—had dinner, remained three quarters of an hour, and then started for Doaktown.

We crossed Dunganon River half an hour afterwards. The water was too high to ford this river at the usual crossing points; we went down the bank a short distance and crossed, the water here being up to our knees. Just beyond the opposite bank, a bog or creek intercepted us from reaching the mainland. This we had great difficulty in crossing, as the surface was partly covered by decayed trees. He a Walter fell very heavily, and experienced great difficulty in regaining his feet. We then followed along the bank of the river to the main portage, and proceeded.

About five miles from the Dunganon we crossed Bartholomew's River, about 2 p.m.; the snow had increased to knee deep. We sat down on the south side of the river and at a light lunch. We rested about twenty minutes, and then travelled on. We had a drink of water at Meadow Brook, so called.

From this point onward we found the road very much obstructed by leaning trees, and fell several times in getting over them; being of second growth, they were easily bent down with the wet snow.

At what is known as "Devil's Back," about two miles from Meadow Brook, and which is about 4.30 p.m., it was getting dark, and we were walking slowly. Shortly afterwards we found ourselves becoming very tired and rested frequently. The snow at this point was about twenty-one inches deep.

About one and a half miles from the "Devil's Back," Walter unloaded the cartridges from the magazine of my rifle, and left it by the roadside. Shortly after that I gave out, and, noticing a dry stump, attempted to make a fire. Walter asked, "What are you going to do?" I said I was going to stay there, or die there. He said, "Give me your hand," and assisted me from the road and encouraged me to go on.

Walter then asked me to take the lead. I said I could not. He then led on, expressing a wish that the train would be two hours late arriving at Doaktown in order that we could catch it.

I followed a short distance, and a stopper seized me. I was aroused from this state by the growling of Walter. I called three times but got no answer. I experienced great difficulty in getting up, and found that I
