Mr. Watson apparently endeavored to To the Hon. Lemuel J. Tweedie, M. P. P. Premier of New Brunswick : Sir-The undersigned members of the St John Lord's Day Alliance would respectfully draw the attenti in of the provincial govern ment to the face that the laws of this province relating to the sale of intoxicating liquor, beers, geoceries, etc., on Sunday, are openly violated in this city. Repeated interviews of a committee of the alliance with the chief of ponce to whom they naturally turned for an explanation of this remissness on the part of his officers, have been followed by no practical results. It is commonly reported that instructions not to enforce the law have been given, and that these emanate from a source which the chief fee s bound to obey. We, as c.tizens and ratepayers, respectfully request that you will cause a full and satisfactory inquiry to be made with a view to asce taining why the police force St. John is so remiss in its duty, and who it is that interferes with the execution of the aw. The chief of police is an appointee of the government, and answerable to it for his official conduc'. If the inaction of the police is not in consequence of his orders, it is at least with his knowledge and consent. The principle involved is a most important one. If one law m y be set aside, so may any any other, and the legislation of the province be rendered nugatory wherever the interests of this secret power, seemingly totalling about 890,393 tons gross, as above the law, come in collision with it. Your memorialists would further say that they are willing to appear before the execu-

and also the memorial. Those present besides commissione Tweedie were Rev. T. F. Fotheringham, Rev. George Steel, Rev. Robert Wilson, Rev. J. C. B. Appel, Rev. L. G. Macneill. Rev. W. H. Sampson, Rev. Mr. Thompson, Judge Forbes, W. J. Parks, R. T. Hayes, George E. Williams, S. L. Brittain, Dr. Smith, Chief Clark and Recorder Skinner, the latter appearing as counsel for the chief. Rev. Mr. Fotheringham and others the memorialists appeared to have though that speeches were to be an important part of the proceedings, but Recorder Skinner having asked if speeches were to be accepted as evidence, the Commissioner said that serious charges had been made against the Chief of Police, and all statements of witnesses must be made under oath, that street rumors and hearsay evidence could not, under the circumstances, be taken,

Dr. Fotheringham said that witnesses were not ready. He did not want the impression to go abroad that they were accusers of the Chief of Police. Commissioner Tweedie - "You have made serious charges against him." Mr. Skinner thought it was a peculiar nethod for the alliance to demand an in vestigation, and then offer no witnesses. Judge Forbes said the alliance had witnesses. They had offered the government information to investigate.

The commissioner in reply to Rev. Mr. Steele said he was willing to subpoena It was as follows: and pay witnesses, but not any counsel for the alliance.

Mr. Fotheringham asked for several subpoen as which were supplied to Judge Forbes in blank. It was decided, in view of the memoralists not being ready with their wi nesses, to postpone the inquiry until the following Thursday-to-day-at 10 a.m. Mr. Skinner asked the alliance to furnish him by Monday with the specific charges they proposed making.

The alliance adjourned to the office Judge Forbes, when it was decided that Dr. A. A. Stockton be retained as counsel.

In the eyes of the alliance the soda water traffic on Sunday was as great a violation of the law as the sale of liquor, not that it was so much a sin but owing to the moral effect. Perhaps there might not be so much an objection if this section of the law were repealed, but so long as it was law let it be nforced. As for soda water being sold on Sunday there would be evidence produced

No one will be surprised or very much shocked if it shall be found that soda water and beer of cooling and thirstslaking properties have been available in St. John during the late hot, summer my heart warms to them. If we want weather, for notwithstanding that certain either orators or fighting gentlemen, who claim to be God's ministers, appear to assume that the natural place, and from Halifax to Vancouver they functions and cravings of those created in His image ought to be suspended on Sunday, the fact remains that they must eat life. And here, too, are the Englishmen and drink on that day, or suffer in health. The traveller who visits St. John and stops at the best hotels, such as the Royal, Dufferin, Victoria, etc., knows that the bars of those places are kept closed on Sunday. It is quite possible, however, that there are a number of other places where the initiated may be able to procure intoxicants. But those who conduct places of that kind in St. John and everywhere else make it their special care to keep knowledge of their business from the police. It will not surprise anyone. or be any reflection on the integrity of the force or its chief, if it shall be proved that such places exist in the city.

It will be a surprise and call for public condemnation, ho vever, if it can be shown that the chief or the force have knowledge of these violations of the law and are rea short time since they addressed to the strained by any influence, whatever, from set ing it in motion against the guilty There may be some officers, perhaps, who do not do their duty, or who, themselves, assist in violating the law, for a certain proportion of men of that character are to be found on every police force. Such men-if there are any on the St. John force-ought to be dismissed. The substantial gravamen of the charges in the Memorial, however, is that the Chief of Police is practically accused of preventing the law from being enforced, because he has received instructions so to do "from a source which the chief fee's bound to obey." His accusers also call attention to the fact that "the chlef is an appointee of the Government and answerable to it for his official conduct." If it were not for this phase of the matter, the subject would be one for local treatment only, and the St. John Alliance and its City Council and other officials would alone be called upon to settle it amongst themselves. As however, it has been made a provincial question, and there appears really to be a charge implied against "a source which the chief feels bound to obey." the out come will be awaited with interest all over

The triennal session of the Grand Council of the Catholic Mutual Benefit Association was held in the Town Hall of the town of Nagara Falls, on the 27th of August. About three hundred and seventy delegates and grand officers were present.

The delegates attended mass at the parish church, one of the priests of the Monastry of the Hospice Mount Carmel, preaching an eloquent sermon. On returning to the Town Hall, the president of the society, Hon. M. F. Hackett, called the convention to order. and introduced the Mayor of Niagara Falls to the delegates.

Mayor Slater delivered an address of welcome, and in eloquent terms commended the work of the C. M. B. nationalities which heretofore have moulded, and will continue I trust to mould, our national life. I need hardly remind you that our Dominion has to-day the greatest possibilities before it of any country in the world. We have a population of only five and a quarter millions, but we have field and forest and mine capable of supporting seventy five millions. The population of the republic to the south of us was, at the beginning of the nineteenth century, about the same as our population at the commencement of this century, and as the nineteenth century was the century of American expansion, so the twentieth century will be that of Canadian expansion, and I trust the close of this century will see Canada's popu lation numbering seventy or seventy-five the best and most powerful of the nations of Canada is known to the whole world as never before: the tide of prosperity has set in upon us and the immigrants are coming to us from every shore. How then shall we be equal to our opportunities and thus establish upon Canadian soil a nation second to none of the great nations of the world? At times they act and speak as if there was none beside them, but when test during the last two years the regiments that were most decimated for the honor of the old flag were the 42ad Highlanders and the Irish Fusiliers. All the nationalities represented here to-night are equally proud of the Union Jack, and during the past two years have from Canadian shores gone forth to fight and die for its honor. How can we. then, on Canadian soil weld together this heterogeneous mass of humanity who are upon and who will come to our shores ! How can we put one heart and one mind into this mass so that one day we shall have
