Judgment

Kelly vs. Creaghan -- This is an ac'io brought by the plaintiff, as mortgagee of certain property in Chatham, Northumberland county, under a mortgage given by William Muirhead, dated the 28th of July. The defendant purchased the 1890. property from the Merchants' Bank of Halifax, and the bank in their deed to him

Consistently with the policy of preserv. | gave him a special tenantry, agreeing to hold him claimless against any claim made by the plaintiff in this suit under the said mortgage of 28th of July, 1890. The facts with satisfied with slandering P emier Tweedie follows : Prior, and during the year 1890 reference to the property are about as and other members of the government William Muirhead was doing business in Chatham, and became involved in business sale of last week, the World publishes d ficulties: On the 12th of March, 1890, one of its editor's usual letters assailing George Dick, one of his creditors, recovered a judgment against him for $5,147 87, and a memorial of judgment was registered such in Northumberlaud county on the 13th of May, 1890, and on the 27 h of June, A. J. H. Stewart recovered judgment against him for $236 90, and a memorial of judgment was registered on the 7th of July, 1890. On the 28th of July Muirhead borrowed from plaintiff $4,000, and as sccurity gave him a mortgage on certain property known as the foundry, the homestead and the fields. which mortgage was recorded on the 30th day of July, 1890. The foundry property was subject to a mortgage to a Mrs. Tewstin of the men who fought for the preserva- for about $5,000, but on the homestead and tion of the people's interest in the public the fields the plaintiff's mortgage was a first mortgage. After the mortgage was given several judgments were entered up agaiust Muirhead. In about September, 85 1890. the sheriff seized the property of Murbead, under executions issued by D ck & Stewart, and sold it, and it was bid in by Mr. Tweedie as he says for $600, but it does not so appear that these executions, or either of them were satisfied. Afterwards and on the 5th of November, 1890, the sheriff advertised all the real estate of Murhead deserves the thanks of the people for his for sale on the 13th of February, 1891, personal work in connection with, and his to bil the properties in for the nominal sum of two dollars. On the other hand if Mr. Tweedie was bidding for himself, and bought them in for himself, and then had the deed made direct to the bank in the way he says. then Tweedie himself would clearly be bound by what he himself did and would be subject to the mortgage, and when the deed was made under that very purchase to the bank, they simply got and had the property Tweedie bought, which was these properties subject to plaintiff's mortgage. Then, is the defendant affected by this, or does he stand in any hetter position than the bank ? I think not ; I think he had a notice of the plaintiff's mortgage, whereby he was enabled plaintiff's claim. He is indemnified against this very claim in the deed he received from the bank, so that if any notice is necessary to the defendant, of the plaintiff's claim the property under his mortgage, I think the defendant had it. The deed to the bank by the sheriff recitel the various executions against Muirhead, and under which the property was sold, and among them was the D.ck and Stewart executions, and it was very strongly urged before me that the plaintiff should not be permitted to give the Chatham, Newcastle evidence that was given as to the way the sale was made by the sheriff -that is, that Black ville the property was sold subject to this mort-North Esk. gage-on the ground that it was contrad ctouth Esk. ing the recitels in the deed, and at the time Nelson I was much impressed with the strength of Rogersville the argument, but after hearing the whole Hardwick, Alnwick. case, and giving it a good deal of consideration, I have come to the conclusion that the evidence is not in the nature of a contradic. tion ; the property was sold under executions in the sheriff's hands. The question is were these two properties sold subject to plaintiff's morigage? Of all the executions in the sheriff's hands, only two of them-Dick's and Stewart's-were issued on judgments obtained from the plaintiff's mortgage, Dick's execution was satisfied by the foundry, which was sold first, and which I find he agreed to take in satisfaction of his judgment. There had been personal property enough seize I and sold by the sheriff prior to the sale of the real estate to satisfy the Stewart execution, but the amount of the Stewart execution was not paid. think these are all the facts that it is necessary for me to find, as I have said, I have come to the conclusion, and find that the sheriff sold the property in this suit. and for which this action is brought, on February 13th, 1891, subject to the plaintiff's mortgage, that the Merchant's Bank of Halifax took it subject to that mortgage; and that the plaintiff, as mortgage
