[Montreal Star, 6th] "The general feeling throughout New Brunswick is that the peace terms are entirely satisfactory to the English and at the same time very satisfactory to the Boers. The latter had proved themselves hoporable oes and it was but right that some concesprove good subjects."

> "I really think," the premier went on to say, "that the colonial conference at London will be productive of much good. It is very difficult to say exactly what will be the result. There is even a question whether closer relations will be of benefit to Canada. Certainly everything is progressing very favorably in the country at the present time and when things are going along that way it would be very unwise to force a change. I am entirely open to conviction, and while I have studied the question very closely, I may yet change some of my views, 20, per-them public." "How about New Brunswick ?" "I am glad to be able to say that everything is in a very satisfactory condition. The country is prosperous and going ahead gradually, and while, perhaps, the prosperity has not been as marked as in some of the other provinces, there is very little poverty to be found. Perhaps the laboring man is in a more satisfactory condition than elsewhere. He is able to obtain very fair wages and then the cost of living is not as high as elsewhere. Of late years there has been a general tendency to take up farming, not only as a side line, but as a real business. Formerly a good deal of difficulty was experienced in getting young men to stay ou the farm when they, during the summer mouths were able to make a great deal more money by working about the ships. Gradu ally, however, it was found that farming. while slow, in the long run was found to yield good profits, and now every portion of clemency. the country has a number of tairly wealthy farmers. "Has St. John shown the progress that some contend it has?"

"It certainly has. You know it is now pretty generally conceded that St. John is to be the winter port of Canada, and as there is a gradual increase of feeling that Canadian goods should be exported from Canadian ports, greater harbor accommoda-$2 tion should be provided. The business community especially is auxious that the government should assist it. Of course, much has report that 255 Boers, of whom 219 were already been done, but a great deal still remains, and ought to be accomplished in the near future. Portland, up to the pres ent, has offered better accommodation, and if St. John wants to compete it must be able to offer just as great advantages."

"There seems to be a good deal of dissatisfaction that the University of New Brunswick should not have been remembered by Cecil Rhodes.

"Yes, the people have taken the matter to heart pretty much, feeling that the record of the university has been such as would have entitled it to some consideration, especially when one considers other universities that have been granted scholarships. Personally, I am inclined to believe that there has been a typographical error. The university authorties feel somewhat the same way in the matter and are making arrangements to cor fer with the executors of the will, who have been granted great powers, to see if some thing cannot be done in the matter."

Echoes of the South African

London, June 6.-The War Office has sion should be made. They should certainly the energy, skill and patience with which he conducted the long campaign in South Africa, and has asked him to communicate sense of their spirit of endurance, bravery shown throughout the trying period.

Lord Kitchener replied, on behalf of the army in South Africa, tendering its sincere thanks for the congratulations of the govern ment, which he was sure the troops would receive with great satisfaction.

The organ of Colonial Secretary Chamberlain, the Birmingham Post, says today that on account of his age and infirmities, the British government has waived its claim of the acknowledgment by Mr. Kruger of British sovereignity over the Transvaal, and has guaranteed to all the Boer delegates in Europe a safe conduct to their homes in Generals Cronje, Wessels, Boths and others were extremely reticent, but they said they were glad the war was over and would be delighted to get back to their homes. It is understood that the rank and file of the Boers will be allowed ashore in batches ten. The officers have been invited to ar 'at home" at Government House tomorrow. London, June 6.-The peace terms are well received at Johannesburg, says the Times correspondent. It is recognized they contain little which would not be granted anyhow through the generosity of the British government. Sensible men are satisfied with the language provision, seeing compulsion would have created a grievance and would have made the study of Dutch a point of honor among the Boers. Although satisfaction is felt that there was no concession with respect to amnesty, no one will criticize the spontaneous exercise

London, June 7.-Lord Kitchener, in despatch from Pretoria dated today, announces that the progress in the surrender of Boers is entirely satisfactory. Four hundred and forty burghers have laid down their arms at Middleburg, Transvaal. They also brought in a pompom complete, with ammunition, and indicated the hiding places of a howitzer and a Maxim gun. Two hundred and forty Boers have surrendered their arms at Standerton, Transvaal, and Lord Kitchener confirms the surrendered at Cradock, Cape

London, June 8 .- The war office has received the following from Lord Kitchener under to day's date : "The disarmament of the Boers is proceeding satisfactorily and good spirit is displayed everywhere. Yesterday 4,342 rifles had been surrendered up to date."

Despatches received by the Associated Press from Pretoria confirm the statements in Lord Kitchener's communication and say the whole staff of the late Transvaal government with a body guard of 40 men surrendered last Saturday.

The fellowing formalities are observed when General Botha, General De Wet or any of the Boer commandants accompany the British officers who have been detailed to receive surrenders :

The Boer leader goes out to meet a commando and returns at its head. The Boers, who come in, are generally dressed in dil apidated clothing, but have a smart and soldiery bearing. The Boers who are t surrender are assembled and the Boer leader delivers an address to his men urging them to listen to the British officer who has been detailed on the work. The British office then makes a speech to the men of the com mando in which he informs them of the admiration of King Edward and the British nation for the gallant struggle and the bravery of their people and promises that the British authorities will do their utmost to help them resettle on their farms. A meal is then provided for the Boers, after which the formal surrenders occur. many instances the Beers have cheered King Edward, and they have sometimes expressed surprise that no army was sent out to receive their surrenders. The Boers are allowed to retain their horses and saddles, and the majority of them appear to be glad the war is at an end and that they will now be able to join their families.

Among the men who surrendered to the British authorities at Balmoral, Cape Colony, were four Americans, who will be granted free passage to Delagoa Bay. A striking sign of the altered conditions

In a letter from Pretoria, dated May 18, the correspondent of the London Mail says that the previous Thursday sixty arrests were made there as the result of the discovery of an extensive plot to blow up the government buildings and Lord Kitchener's residence and to spike the guns in the artillery barracks. The parties concerned in this plot, according to the correspondent. were lawyers, chemists and Boer and Dutch prisoners on parole.

A Bloemfontein despatch of Monday, 9th, says :- A strong contrast fo the good feeling between Boer and Briton is the bitterness existing between the burghers who are surrendering under the peace terms, and those Boers who surrendered during the campaign. When the Boer leaders came to Bloemfontein, previous to the conclusion of peace. they curtly refused to shake hands with those who had previously sucrendered. The general belief is that the relations between those two classes of Boers will he embittered for a long time.

The London Times correspondent Pretoria says, "The Boers at Vereeniging Kingston, Ont. Sold by C. P. Hickey, recorded their acknowledgment of complete defeat in a resolution which was prefixed to the authorization of their delegates to sign a document of surrender. In this resolution it was declared that only in view of absolute refusal of British Government to negotiate further, and in consideration of their own reduction in numbers and the impossibility of ever getting back their prisoners of war, and in order to save the existence of their own race, they had brought themselves to consent to relinquish their cherished inde-
