THE MAN BEHIND THE MASK.
When a Chinaman is Very Much Like Other Men.
A sympathetic picture of the Chinese laundryman is painted by a writer in the New Orleans Times.
"John" lives among us, patient, industrious, and often despised by those who know too little of him even to regard him as a fellow being. Yet if we knew the human history that lies behind that yellow mask we should not doubt that here also dwells a soul of like dignity with our own. Says the writer:
Next door to my lodging is one of those squat little houses which now and then you find next to a big mansion. On the lower floor of the small house was a Chinese laundry. It was a Chinaman about twenty-five years of age. His face was as white as the cotton of his shirt, and he was patiently and bravely undergoing the hardest kind of toil in order to go back to his native country and marry her.
When he told me the story I forgot that he was a Chinaman. I remembered only that he was a man, working like a man to earn a wife, and also dwelling in a squalid little house with the dreams of a young man whose sweetheart is far away.
It is a curious fact that the first cannon was cast at Venice. It was called a "bombard," and was invented and employed by General Pisani in a war against the Genoese. The original bombard, which bears the date of 1380, is still preserved, and stands at the foot of Pisani's statue at the arsenal. The bombard threw a stone 100 pounds in weight, but another Venetian general, Francesco Barde, improved it until he was able to handle a charge of rock and bolts weighing 3,000 pounds. It proved disastrous to him, however, for one day during the siege of Zara, while he was operating his terrible engine, he was hurled by it over the walls and instantly killed.
"You don't mind me talking so much, do you?" she asked. "No, indeed; but," he said, facetiously, "I may mind after we are married."
"But I shall mind then if you do," she answered.

Remarkable Recovery From Nervous Collapse.
A Methodist Minister Tells How He Was Rescued From a Helpless Condition by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.
That Dr. Chase's Nerve Food possesses unusual control over the nerves and relieves nervous energy when all other means fail is well illustrated in the case described below. Mr. Brown was forced to give up his ministerial work, and so far exhausted that for a time he was completely helpless. Doctors were consulted and many remedies were resorted to, in vain. Every effort to build up the system seemed to be fruitless. The sufferer was losing hope of recovery, when he began to use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.
"I don't mind me talking so much, do you?" she asked. "No, indeed; but," he said, facetiously, "I may mind after we are married."
"But I shall mind then if you do," she answered.

A Boy's Love.
It was Judge Lotthrop's house, and I was his nephew, sent to W— to prepare for college under my uncle's care. An intellectual giant he was, too, severe upon failures, and sparing of commendation, yet, withal, a genial, hearty old gentleman, young at sixty years. His two daughters, my cousins Evelyn and Jessie, aged respectively twenty and eighteen, were young ladies in whose eyes I was, of course, a nonentity, being a schoolboy and sixteen.

GIRL'S APRON.
Attractive aprons, that are pretty at the same time that they protect the frocks, are essential to every girl's comfort and belong in every complete wardrobe. The very pretty apron illustrated fulfills all the requirements and is suited to lawn, checked muslin, dimity, madras and all apron materials, but in the original is of white dimity with frills and bands of embroidery.

"Is this Firely?" she asked. "Yes," I said, adding, "I'm waiting to know who will ride him. I mean to ride Beverly myself." "Oh, then, I am delighted! But is he safe?" "He was never ridden by a lady," I answered, concealing some wicked satisfaction.

"The ladies retreated a bit, Jessie with a reproachful 'Why didn't you tell us?'" And Evelyn laughed. "Will you ride him, I asked, turning round to her suddenly, as she came so absurdly that I was late at supper; indeed, I would have stayed away altogether, if I detested tea-party, however, before the roll of wheels announced the return of the church-goers, a party of three gentlemen and two ladies were visiting at the house, and as I did not care to be seen in the garden, I threw my cigar away, and stroled into the study to find a book which I had come so absurdly that I was late at supper;
