Mr. Mott, M. P. P. for Restigouche, has severed his friendly relationships with the local government. There were rumors that he intended to do so a year or more ago and at sundry times since. He had so often threatened to take this step, however, that the public became accustomed to his declarations of war, and ceased to take them seriously, for he had as often come to his right mind politically after each

SKIN opposition spasm, and dutifully returned to his place in the ranks. He appears to have determined to make his "finally final" break to the opposition side a few weeks ago and to have and Cucumber intimated his intention to the St. John papers of that party. Thereafter, Mr. Mott prepared a card of nearly two columns for Campbellton Events, giv-

When Surveyor General Dunn missed the scaler who had positively refused to scale the logs referred to, Mr. Mott again "kicked" and demanded his reinstatement. The Government, however, was obliged to resist Mr. Mott's importunities in the matter, and he has not been any too reliable an adherent since, although his demands their security was worthless, because it for privileges for his friends, at the | was liable to be destroyed at the arbitrary sacrifice of the public interests, did not will of the government of the day. The

It is, therefore, quite apparent that Mr. Mott's real grievance is not the government's course in regard to th Muskoka lumber lands. Those lands were bought by the Muskoka company at auction sales of Crown Lands in the usual way. It is true that they were not extensively worked, although several parties lumbered on them from time to time, and the province was paid the mileage and stumpage dues that accrued regularly amounting since the purchase to some $35,000. If they had been fully lumbered over the logs would have been forced on the market which, up to a year or so ago, was not a re numerative one. The Government realised that the areas were being well protected, with the view of operations when the market improved. As the existing Restigonche mills had plenty of logs, no demand was made upon the government to compel larger operations on the Muskoka limits. Mr. Kilgour Shives and gentlemen associated with Sir W Ifrid Laurier, has returned him having, however, obtained an O tawa. Mr. Boudreau was with his option on these lands and being about to erect a large new mill, Mr. Mott made a demand on the Government Paris to Scotland and Ireland.
