He has several millions of deal at Janesville siding, sawed last winter and spring. The ties in the sawdust are causing him some trouble, as it is very hard to get the fire out, and it is liable to break out at any time. He has had several men watching all spring.

A WARNING:—Last night as the express from St. John was leaving Pogoque a gentleman boarded a closed vestibule car. As the speed of the train increased the man was in a serious quandary, not knowing whether to jump or hang on. His cries ultimately attracted the attention of some passengers who lifted the floor and let the man in. It is unnecessary to state that he was extremely thankful for he could not have held on much longer.—Transcript 25th.

MUSICAL:—Attention is directed to the card of Miss Lyon, organist of St. Mary's church, Chatham, who is a very competent teacher of the piano and pipe-organ. Whether she will or will not remain in Chatham beyond a few months depends upon the number of pupils or classes availing themselves of her services. We hope that she will be encouraged to remain here, especially as there is a need of a good field for the work of a lady of her excellent qualifications.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES:—At the anniversary services to be held in St. John's Church on Sunday next, the 5th inst., the Rev. H. Arnold, of Newcastle, will preach both morning and evening. Miller, of Millerton, Miss Shirreff, of Halifax, and Miss Weldon. Miss Shirreff will sing at each of the other services. A special offering will be taken at each service in aid of the Building Fund.

A WRECKED BALLOON:—The Norwegian barque, Hesperia, which arrived here last week passed, June 15th, on the middle bank, a wrecked balloon. Capt. Osen says he passed within a hundred yards of it. It was inflated, or partially so, and rose and fell and whirled around like a plaything of wave and wind. The basket was empty. The balloon was of black silk, and a streak of white looked like a rip. Capt. Gundersen of the Hesperia, also saw the balloon, but was not so near it as Capt. Osen. Capt. Osen thinks it may be a balloon that lately, according to an English paper, ascended at Bristol for a voyage to North America.

Is Shamrock III. of British Design? An interesting statement having come from Scotchmen, is to the effect that "in her design the Shamrock III. is distinctly British. The heresy of the scow has been cast aside." As a matter of fact a stern view of the new challenger shows a better view model than Columbia can boast, and it is as good as good as that of Constitution. The breadth of beam on deck has been carried aft in graceful lines, and the under-water lines brought up too in exact scow fashion. In fact, the most interesting feature of the ship is the stern, because in that view she looks most dangerous. The reports that she leaves the water even at high speed with but a tiny ripple are undoubtedly true. There is no joke in those reports. And when she is heeled to her sailing lines in, say, a ten-knot breeze she will carry the water to the eye-bolt in which the top-mast-head preventer-stay hooks, if not to the cover-lead. The difference between Shamrock III. and Shamrock II. is remarkable in the lines of the stern, for the stern of Shamrock II. was notably narrow. As we all remember, Shamrock II. failed in windward work as compared with Columbia, even in smooth water, although in smooth water she fairly beat Columbia before the wind. It is, therefore, safe to say that Mr. Fife took warning and so gave his new design not only a longer overhang, but a much broader one. The stories about her speed to windward are no doubt true and her broad scow stern is in a great measure what holds her up to her work.

The New Shamrock a Fast One. Sir Thomas Lipton's new cup challenger, Shamrock III., was given her first test in American waters last Saturday in an informal trial with Shamrock I. off Sandy Hook, New York.

In the first ten miles of a fifteen-mile heat to windward in an open light air the new boat beat the old one about ten minutes and in a run of fifteen miles to leeward, nine minutes. There was a long quiet sea and the new challenger slipped cleanly over it, making little fuss under her bark. Taking into consideration the assertion by English yachtsmen that Shamrock I. is ten minutes faster in a thirty-mile course than the ever was and fully as much faster than Shamrock II., the new boat's performance on this side of the Atlantic marks her as probably the most dangerous challenger Sir Thomas has brought over. In the light air and smooth water she showed herself to be very fast.

The two Shamrocks left Tompkinsville (S. I.) at 10.30 a.m., and were towed to the Erin and Cruiser to Scotland Lightship, sailed on the way by a powerful steamer. The line was cast off at 12.30. Sir Thomas and designer Fife boarded the Shamrock III. and Col. Neil, Shamrock I., and the yacht started to beat seaward against a four-knot wind from South by east. Shamrock III. was slightly in the lead at the start and began to add to it. The new boat pointed higher and footed faster than Shamrock I. They headed out to sea for more than two hours and during all that time Shamrock III. gained steadily. At 2.45, when the challenger was leading the Shamrock I. by ten minutes, Shamrock III. turned back and ran back to rejoin the other. Crossing the wake of the old boat Shamrock III. was given a freer wind and sent off for a five-mile run at a fast clip down along the Jersey coast. Shamrock III. had passed Long Branch several miles off shore when at 3.40 both boats came about and starting close together, headed for Sandy Hook with spinnakers set. Before a light wind they ran fifteen miles along the coast to Scotland Highship, sailed by passing steamers. Shamrock III. quickly began to gain on her trial horse and in an hour's sailing and when the boats had sailed over nearly half the course, had a lead of half a mile.

This is called the best point of sailing for the older boat. Shamrock III. passed the lights at 5.52, while the challenger was about a mile astern. Shamrock I. reached the lights at 6.01, but had lost some time by taking in her spinnaker before reaching the finish.

Sir Thomas said he expected to try the boats again Monday.

Unnecessary to Suffer from Asthma. This distressing complaint can be perfectly cured by inhaling Catarrhoxone, a vegetable antiseptic that destroys the germs which cause the disease. Catarrhoxone is inhaled at the mouth from a convenient pocket inhaler, and after permeating the mucous cells, is exhaled slowly through the nostrils. It stops the cough, makes breathing regular, and eradicates the Asthma so thoroughly from the system that it never returns. Don't suffer from Asthma, use Catarrhoxone, it will speedily cure you. Rymenal. The Bristol, Eng., Times of 11th June has a long report of the marriage of Mr. E. G. Fellows, formerly of St. John, and whose father, the late Hon. Jas. L. Fellows, was for many years, agent-general of New Brunswick. The Times says:—

At St. Mary's Church, Kensington, yesterday afternoon, the marriage took place, in the presence of a large and fashionable assembly, of Mr. Ernest Gadsden Fellows, late 1st Suffolk Regiment, who served in South Africa, only son of the late Hon. J. I. Fellows, member of the Legislative Council of New Brunswick, and Agent-General in London for that province, of Simon Hall, Palace Court, Baywater, and of Mrs. Fellows, 41, Enjournment Gardens, S. W., and Miss Margaret Hamilton Wills, second daughter of Sir Frederick Wills, first baronet, M. P. for North Bristol, and Lady Wills, of Manor Heath, Burnmouth; Northmoor, Dulverton, Somerset; and 9, Kensington Palace Gardens, Baywater, and grand-daughter of the late Rev. James Hamilton, D. D., F. L. S.

The service was full choral, and the church, as usual, was handsomely decorated with tall palms and white-flowering plants, intermixed with ferns and foliage, and white oil-clooms were replaced in the altar vase.

The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Charles Isaac Ashcroft, Canon Residentiary of Exeter Cathedral, assisted by the Rev. E. J. Kennedy, vicar of St. John's, Bournemouth. The bride was accompanied by her father, who, during the singing of the hymn "O, Father, all creating," preceded by the officiating clergy and amplified choir, conducted her to the chancel entrance, where the first portion of the service was said, and, in due course, gave away. Captain S. J. B. Bernard-Diston, D.S.O., 1st Suffolk Regiment, acted as best man. There were no fewer than ten bridesmaids in attendance upon the bride—Miss Kathleen Mary Christina Hamilton Wills (sister), Miss Gladys Laurence (cousin), Miss Irene Hamilton Wills (cousin of the bride), Miss Lorne (cousin), Miss Beatrice Stuart (cousin), Miss Kathleen Lambert (niece of the bridegroom), Miss Blanche Dalgligh, Miss Caro Sandilands, Miss Ruth Sandilands, and Miss Lady Wrighton—who were charmingly gowned in rose-pink chiffon, over lace silk, gauged and trimmed with introductions of pink bluish lace and large pink felt hats, trimmed with shaded pink and white ostrich plumes. The bridegroom's present to them were unique pendants in floral design, carried out in pearls and enamel, on gold chains, and each carried a bouquet of deep crimson roses in foliage, tied with streamers.

Miss Margaret Hamilton Wills was much admired in a wedding robe of white duchesse satin, embroidered and trimmed with according to latest fashion, the corsage being draped with exquisite Brussels point lace (the gift of her mother, Lady Wills), and full Court train of satin and mosseline de soie, lined with tulle, embroidered in silver and pearls, and ornamented with myrtle and orange blossoms. Her tulle veil covered a tuxa of orange blossoms. Her ornaments were a diamond tiara (the gift of the bridegroom), a diamond necklace (the gift of Sir Frederick and Lady Wills), and a massive diamond star (the gift of Mrs. Douglas Hamilton), and she carried a bridal bouquet of white orchids, exotics, intermixed with foliage, and tied with white streamers. The bride entered the church by the west door, being the first bride that has used the entrance during the last eighteen years, and was met by the bridesmaids at the bottom of the church. During the service Psalm lxxvii, "God be merciful unto us and bless us" (the chant being composed by Mr. Gilbert Hamilton Wills, brother of the bride), and the hymns "O perfect love, all human thought transcending" and "Thine for ever, God of love" were sung by the full choir of St. Mary's Church.

The reception held by Lady Wills at 9, Kensington Palace Gardens, S. W., was very largely attended, among the hundreds present and at the church being the Baroness Helga von Crannin, the Hon. Charles Duff-Miller (Agent-General for New Brunswick), and Mrs. Duff Miller, Lady Ramsay, Mrs. Ramsay, Lady Jackson, the Misses Jackson, Lady Wills, Mr. and Mrs. John Wills, Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Wills, Lady Weston, Lord and Lady Strathcona and Mount Royal, the Earl and Countess of Bodley, Lord and Lady Forester and Miss Mary Forester, G. The presents were numerous and costly.

Mr. Farley Damery and Miss Barbara Great of Chatham were married on Wednesday evening of last week. The bride looked very pretty in a handsome fawn velvet cloth gown, with cream silk, and cream lace applique trimmings and large cream, shirred chiffon picture hat. She was unattended. After the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. J. M. MacLean, the bride and groom drove to the home of the bride's parents, Pleasant street, where they will reside. Mr. and Mrs. Damery were the recipients of many beautiful gifts.

The value of the Marconi system of ethereans and incidentally the honesty of the British merchant were impressively revealed to a passenger upon one of the Casard line of steamers during a recent voyage. A passenger has handed a lace vendor a £10 note instead of a £5 note, and the mistake was not discovered by the Irish woman until after the ship had gone. She handed £5 to the representative of the Casard company at Queenstown. The steamer was caught by Marconiograph in mid-ocean and the £5 returned by the company's agent to the passenger.

Military Gazette: A member of the South African constabulary, writing to a friend in Canada, says that he notices in the Toronto papers that a lot of Canadians have returned home from the constabulary very discontented with their treatment: "I can safely say from the reports I have heard, that there is no truth in it. They have either been dismissed as undesirable on too technical a charge of free discharge offered to every man in the corps. The discontented ones are either dismissed or left because they had to clean their own horses and boots. Those who are now in the corps from Canada are very contented, and I have an opportunity of being in touch with the majority of them."

A despatch to the Chicago Tribune from Mexico City says: The recent discovery of an ancient city of pyramids in a dense forest in a remote part of the state of Puebla, has been found to be of the greatest archaeological importance. The federal government has commissioned the sub-director of the national museum, Senor F. Rodriguez, to visit the ruins. Nicholas Leon, an archaeologist and ethnologist accompanied the sub-director to the ruins. Dr. Leon reports that the ruins are such as never before has been known to the world of science, and most primitive ever discovered in Mexico, in fact so ancient as to require a great deal of time and study to learn in what epoch they were built as well as by what people.

A Halifax despatch of last Saturday says:—Joseph Hines met with a horrible death at Woodside Sugar Refinery last night. He was engaged in his usual occupation, attending one of the vats, when he fell headlong into the vat of boiling sugar. His fall was noticed by workmen near by. The machinery was immediately stopped and the work of attempting a rescue was commenced. All who saw him fall were there was no chance of seeing him alive again. He suffered a terrible death,
