national heirlooms is that of Arabia. This is the Caaba, the great, black block of stone which stands in the corner next the door on the east side hammedans declare that the stone was set up by Adam after his expulsion from Paradise. The house in which Seth, the son of Adam, placed the stone was destroyed by the Flood; but the Caaba was miraculously preserved, and given back year since you said you believed our to Abraham by the angel Gabriel who set. According to tradition, the stone was then whiter than milk, but has since been blackened by the
