

BOYS OF TO-DAY

WILL BE THE MEN OF THE FUTURE.

They Should be Rugged and Sturdy, Full of Life and Ready for Work, Play or Study—Keep Them Healthy.

Growing boys should always be healthy and rugged. Ready for play, ready for study, and ready at any time for a hearty meal. This condition denotes good health, but there are entirely too many who do not come up to this standard. They take no part in the manly games which healthy boys indulge in; they are stoop-shouldered, dull and listless; they complain of frequent headaches, and their appetite is variable. Sometimes parents say, "Oh, they'll outgrow it." But they won't—it's the blood that's out of condition, and instead of going better and better in the world, what boys of this class require to make them bright, active and strong, is a tonic, something that will build up the blood and make the nervous system strong. Not medicine that can do this as quickly and as effectively as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Mrs. Mary Compton, of Merritt, Ont., tells what these pills did for her son, who was suffering from a decline in health. He grew very pale and thin and at times experienced serious nervous spells, coupled with a tired, worn-out feeling, and as the weeks went by he grew worse. This alarmed me, for my husband had died of what the doctors called pernicious anemia, and I feared my son was going the same way. I had often read that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills would cure anemia, and decided that he should try them. A couple of boxes made a decided improvement in his condition, and by the time he had taken a half dozen boxes his health was better than it had been for some years previous. His weight had increased, his listlessness had disappeared, and he was blessed with a good appetite. I may add that other members of my family who have been benefited by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I consider these pills the best of all medicines.

Poor and watery blood is the cause of nearly all diseases, and it is because Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly upon the blood, both enriching it and increasing the quantity, that they cure such troubles as anemia, rheumatism, indigestion, neuralgia, heart troubles, incipient consumption and the various ailments that afflict so many women. These pills may be had from any dealer in medicine or by sending $2.50 by writing to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. If you value your health never allow a dealer to persuade you to take something else.

WANTED—ANOTHER EDISON.

Fortunes Untold Await the Coming Inventor.

No future Edison need be going about the country bewailing the successes of those who preceded him. There are possibilities all about us if we only knew how to utilize them. There is plant life, for instance. We have killed off many species of plants and animals that are rapidly approaching destruction, because in some way they were of no use to us. Of the inexhaustible wealth of the native plant-life of our country, but a few are utilized. And consequently the valuable timber is rapidly disappearing; the beautiful forests are doomed to destruction. What of the enormous crops of plants that we commonly designate as weeds? Fortunes untold, fame, and honor await the young Edison who converts these weeds into valuable quantities. The supply would renew itself with each recurring season. The crops that are laboriously cultivated may be made to luxuriate in every season. The drought causes them to flourish, and the flood has the same effect upon them. Surely it would be put to some use? Perhaps the paper-maker will find them convertible when the last of the "soft" woods have been ground into pulp; perhaps in some other manner they may be made a source of revenue. The youthful scientist might win a great prize by devoting himself to weeds.

MAKE BABY FEEL GOOD.

A baby's temper depends upon how he feels. If ailing, he will cry, worry the mother and annoy everybody in the house; if feeling well, he will be bright, active and happy. It is easy to keep your baby feeling good by profiting by the experience of mothers who give their little ones Baby's Own Tablets. One of these tablets, Mrs. C. W. Shore, Castleton, Ont., says: "Our child, eight months old, had almost been trodden with indigestion. We had medicine from two doctors and tried other remedies without benefit. I then sent for a box of Baby's Own Tablets and found them just what was required. The child is now all right and is doing well."

JUST GIVE IT A THOUGHT.

How little it costs if we give it a thought. To make happy some heart each day. Just one kind word or a tender smile. As we go on our daily way, perchance a look will suffice to clear the cloud from a loved one's face. And press of a hand in sympathy. A sorrowful tear efface. One winks in sunlight; another goes all weedy in the shade. One walks a path that is fair and smooth; Another must pray for aid. It costs so little to wonder why. We give it so little thought. A smile-kind words—a glance—a touch—What magic with them is wrought!

TITLED AMERICAN LADIES.

Recently a United States newspaper compiled a list of American young ladies who had acquired titles by marriage. In England it was stated that thirty holders of title were of American birth, including three duchesses and one dowager duchess. In Germany there were twenty-five, being princesses; in France, fourteen, one princess; in Italy, seventeen, six princesses and ten duchesses; all princesses but one. Their dowries were represented as amounting to $161,000,000.

Greed For Gold Or, The Sign of the Arrow

CHAPTER VI. He spoke to the girl—he found out afterwards that her name was Vere, that her mother and companion had been the other cyclists—spoken of in the past tense, for alas! one look at the number was never to come back on a cycle again. Along the roadside, was a ditch, and there was clear, running water in its bottom. Dick filled his cap with this water, and dashed it in the faces of the unconscious women. It had no effect. "Your straw hat is larger," he said to Vere, "and will hold more than mine. Fill it, please, as you saw me do, and bring the water here."

CHAPTER VII. Half a dozen strides took Dick to the man's side. Looking straight down into his face, he saw cur and down written there as plainly as on any street sign. So he dealt with him accordingly. "You have murdered that lady. She will be dead in a few minutes. The difficulty was not over. Two witnesses were necessary. Vere was not competent—she benighted under the will. He looked round. One of the men had his eyes open; he had come back to consciousness."

Such a feeble inquiry! For answer Dick turned the poor bleeding head a little, so that she could see where her daughter was crouching on the roadside—see for herself that she was dead, and well as striking resemblance made him think that mother and child; he was right. The girl, relieved at seeing her mother's connections, and yet shocked by the bloodstained appearance of face and dress (for bloodstains stand out on a white dress), called out: "Useless—hopeless. Before you could return I shall be dead."

ROCK makes one chummy with good sleep. Jim Dumps had scarcely slept a wink, All night he'd toss about and think. But that's all past—he'll never endure insomnia. He's found a cure! 'Tis "Rock." At night, when lights are dim, It soothes the nerves of "Sunny Jim."

ly he picked up two stones and put them on the edge of the handkerchief, so that the wind might not lift the handkerchief. Habit tells at such a moment: it is a custom with us to cover up our dead. Then he turned his attention to the "unburied" woman, and found he could do nothing for her; the depth of her swoon was too great for him to probe. She needed medical attention. So he walked to the still crying girl who had not changed her crouched position, and said: "I am going to ride away for help—don't leave me! I don't leave me!"

CHAPTER VIII. Dick started—started with a big start too; he was so surprised. "I am a lawyer." "You! Thank God! There may be time. Have you writing material?" "For what?" "I want to make—a will. It is so necessary for my child's future. Unless I do so she will be left penniless. How sweet a thing is motherhood! With a knowledge that death stood by her side, waiting to take her out of this world, her whole thought was of the child she was to leave behind her in it. "A doctor should be fetched."

$25,000,000 FOR $500,000 THE ROMANCE OF SOUTH AFRICAN DIAMONDS.

Wealth Beyond the Dreams of Avarice Was Tapped on De Beers Farm. The recent important discoveries of diamonds in South Africa draw attention to an industry more full of romance even than that of gold-mining; for the story of South African diamond discoveries is crowded with happenings more startling and dramatic than most fiction. The story of the finding of the first diamond has often been told—how a man of the name of O'Reilly, traveling south from the Orange River, sought a night's rest at the farm-house of one Nicker, in the Hope town district; how the farmer produced for his guests inspection a handful of pretty pebbles picked up by the children and how O'Reilly discovered among the pebbles a diamond, which he sold at Grahamstown for $2,500.

CHAPTER XI. Dick started—started with a big start too; he was so surprised. "I am a lawyer." "You! Thank God! There may be time. Have you writing material?" "For what?" "I want to make—a will. A SCHOOL OF HAPPINESS SHORTLY TO BE STARTED IN BRITISH CAPITAL.

No Happiness Is Attainable for Man Short of Perfect Obedience. A London journal informs us that a Dr. Paul Valentin is about to start a school of happiness in that city. Nothing could be more popular, provided the public felt sure that Valentin could deliver the goods, for of all things people are after in this fast-paced world, happiness is the chief. There are a great many excellent persons, it is true, who say that they are not after happiness, but that they strive to do right as their supreme aim. An irrefragable fact suggests that perhaps it is not to be understood that their deepest motives. Picture to these people, as the ultimate result of their struggle for goodness, a Danteque Inferno with all its horrors of suffering, and it is a question if they would be so ambitious. The fact is, they are striving to be good in order that they may be supremely happy under the very profound and just impression that the only way to be happy is to be good. They discard all other kinds of happiness such as worldly gain, sensual gratification, intellectual accomplishment, which give a measure of happiness, in order to attain that inner satisfaction of the omnipotent.

SUBMARINE INVENTIONS. A remarkable invention has been adopted by the English admiralty, the effect of which is to increase the efficiency of British submarines. At present the radius of submarine attacks is restricted, owing to the difficulties of ventilation and the carrying of fuel, but experiments warrant the belief that the new submarines will be able to travel immense distances with disastrous effects on the ports of an enemy. The existing submarine fleet of Britain is not, however, rendered obsolete. On the contrary, it can easily be adapted to utilize the new discovery. The inventor is a British officer well known for his brilliant capabilities. The most remarkable feature in his design is its extreme simplicity. Details of the invention are, of course, withheld by the admiralty.

GEO. H. KENT'S CASE RECALLED

DYING OF BRIGHT'S DISEASE, DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS CURED HIM.

Recent Deaths of Prominent Men From the Most Dreaded of All Maladies Recalls the Fact that Dodd's Kidney Pills have Conquered it. Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 14.—(Special.) The recent numerous deaths of prominent men from Bright's Disease recalls the case of Geo. H. Kent, of 408 Gilmour St., this city. Mr. Kent, who is still living here, is strong and hearty, was dying of Bright's Disease. He had been in bed for several weeks, and his limbs and his whole body were swollen to a terrible size. Three doctors were positive that he must die. While watching at his bedside, his wife happened to read an advertisement which said Dodd's Kidney Pills would cure Bright's Disease. They were sent for as a last resort. From almost the first dose, Mr. Kent says he felt benefited by them. After taking four boxes he was able to sit up. Seventeen boxes cured him completely. Mr. Kent's cure caused great excitement at the time. People who had heard of it came from far and near to see him, and all went away convinced that Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure Bright's Disease.

BURNT FORTUNE.

Samuel Drexel, a printer, of Brunswick, Germany, fell heir to $10,000,000. He had been a poor man, but he had married a young woman and offered her his hand and fortune. She rejected both, and Drexel calmly matched a match and destroyed his inheritance.

CHILD EXCHANGE AGENCY.

At Zurich, Switzerland, there exists an agency for enabling families living in French and German Switzerland to exchange their children for a few months so that they may learn the different languages.

SAVED THE DUMMY.

Two Viennese watchmen, seeing what appeared to be a body floating in the Danube, gallantly went to the rescue, no doubt at the risk of their own lives; but when they got ashore they found they had saved a tailor's dummy.

LAWYERS ON STRIKE.

Solicitors and barristers at Patti (Italy) have gone on strike, owing to conflicts with the local judges. At a meeting, where the strike was declared, they had declared unanimously that they had no esteem whatever for the local judges.

POINTED AND SARCASTIC.

Some of the ordinary expressions of the Chinese are pointed and sarcastic. A blustering, harmless fellow they call a "paper tiger." Overdoing a thing they call a "hunch-back." A man who is a spendthrift they compare to a "rocket," which goes off at once. Those who expend their charity on remote objects, but neglect their own family, are said to "hang a lantern on a pole," which is seen afar, but gives no light below.

GIANT CALCEOLARIA.

In the garden of Godolphin Vicarage, near Helston, Cornwall, there is a yellow calceolaria which has attained the circumference of 20ft. It presents an attractive spectacle, as it is filled with a profusion of yellow flowers. It has never had any protection, and has been out of doors for the last seven or eight years.

STOOPING GOOD EXERCISE.

"Women who get into the habit of closing a wardrobe or dressing chest drawer by a pressure of the knee," says a doctor, "do not realize the harm that may result from this practice. I have known many serious cases of water on the knee that were caused in this way. The force required to shut a drawer in such a way is slight, and one scarcely notices the contact of the knee with the drawer. But the knee-joint is a delicate structure, and a bruise is easily caused that will lead ultimately to very serious consequences. I have had many patients who, from indulging in this habit, have brought on rheumatism that lasted from one month to six. So my advice to all women is to stoop down and shut the drawer. It is better, although it may seem to move troublesome, to stoop down, instead of being a disadvantage, is really an excellent means of exercise, and no way of closing a drawer is so dangerous as to push it with the knee."

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES Diphtheria.

Up in the Black Hills of South Dakota is a mine with a peculiar name. This is the way it came to be christened: "A prospector and his wife were one day strolling over the hills on a little excursion. In stepping from one rock to another the man chanced to dislodge a bit of stone. As he picked it up the dog would yell and wag away his eye fell on a little thread of yellow. It was gold. When the mine had been staked out and the claim filed at the land office the prospector's dog pointed and barked. His wife asked him to call it after her. The man smiled sweetly. "It is just as you say; the mine shall be named in your honor." And from that day to this one of the richest gold mines in the Middle West goes by the endearing name of "Holy Terror."

HOW THE MINE WAS NAMED.

Seven persons were killed and twenty-seven wounded in an encounter on Saturday between several thousand Armenians and the police and troops which occurred at Tiflis, Russian Transcaucasia.

FORGOT SOMETHING.

It was in a western hotel, and a girl of sweet sixteen had left the table, at which her parents were still seated, and had gone to the entire length of the dining-room, when she paused in the doorway and her fresh young voice cut the air with the word: "Mam!" "Well?" replied her "mam" shrilly. "I forgot my gum. Fetch it when you come upstairs. It's stuck under the table with my plate. I'll wait it for the matinee this afternoon, you know."
