Green Grape Pie.—Stem and cut green grapes in halves. The grapes will be seedless. Fill a nice crust with the fruit, sprinkle over 1 cup sugar and a bit of cinnamon. Cover with a top crust and bake in a hot oven. When done you will have a savory pie that will take the place of apple.

Green Pea Soup.—Cook three cups of peas in salt water until perfectly tender, and rub through a soup-strainer, leaving only the skins behind; to the pulp obtained add one cupful of stock, one teaspoonful of salt and one teaspoonful of pepper and one teaspoonful of flour made perfectly smooth in one half cupful of milk; cook five minutes, add one cupful of cream and beat just to a scald, and serve. One spoonful of whipped cream to each serving is a fitting finish to this method of preparing pea soup.

Apple Ice Cream.—Success in ice cream depends considerably on the method of freezing. Do not use too much salt or the ice cream will be hard, but coarse in texture and icy in consistency. Three pints of milk is enough for a large quart of cracked ice or a gallon freezer; pack cracked ice in layers with salt, packing it in firmly but making it malleable. Keep the ice cream should remain packed for at least two hours after it is frozen. It is better if packed for four or even six hours after it has been thoroughly frozen. Keep it well covered with cracked ice under thick layers of newspapers so that the air cannot reach it while it is resting. Remove the ice cream from the addition to a plain cream, favoring it somewhat like coconut. Make a custard of a cup of granulated sugar, the yolks of two eggs and two cups of milk. Stir the milk over the fire until it is very hot, but not until it boils, then add the cream and take off the stove and let it cool. When the mixture is cooled in the freezer add a cup of tart grated apple and freeze the cream immediately. The grated apple should be allowed to drain in the custard, but the cream should be frozen at once. Only a finely flavored, tart apple should be used for this purpose.

APETITES OF FAMOUS MEN.
Handel Always Ordered Enough for Three People.
The majority of the great musical composers had appetites on an equality with their talents. It is told of Handel that when he dined at a restaurant he always ordered the precaution to order the meal for three. Once on asking, "Is de tinner retty?" at a restaurant, or a waiter, as it was the custom where he was little known, he got the reply, "As soon as the company comes," and astonished the waiter by seating himself with the company. "Don't bring up de tinner. I'm de company."

INTENTS TO HOUSEKEEPERS.
When boots crack rub the sides of the soles with sweet oil before returning them to your bootmaker. When stewing fruit, stir the fruit in gently with the handle of the spoon. Remove old paint by wetting it with naphtha. If one application is not enough repeat till the paint is dissolved. Fly Catchers may be made as follows: Boil linsed oil with a little resin until it forms a viscous, stringy paste when cold. Spread on a thick string by means of a brush. In giving milk to calves always use either glass or china vessels, not metallic cups of any sort. The greatest cleanliness must be observed in their management, rinsing all used glasses, etc. first in cold and then in warm water.

TO REMOVE STAINS FROM FLANNEL is always rather difficult. Yolks of eggs and glycerine can be applied to the stained parts and allowed to soak for half an hour before the garment is washed, in which case the stain can be removed. Filling the Jelly Glasses.—When the fruit juice is ready, take the kettle to the sink, sink thoroughly with cold water, and wash the jelly glasses, etc. first in cold and then in warm water. Do not collect in drops of water on top of the jelly. The top moisture is what causes jelly to mold. When cold, cover with paraffin and put on the tin covers and label.

CUCUMBER RELISHES.
Stewed Cucumbers: Pare ripe cucumbers and cut them into quarters.

DR. A. W. CHASE'S CATARRH CURE... 25c. Heals the diseased parts by the improved method. Cleans the urethra, clears the bladder, and permanently cures all cases of Catarrh of the Bladder, Gleet, Stricture, Hemorrhoids, etc. All dealers in Medicine Co., Toronto and Buffalo.

Father.—"Well, my son you are gazetted and are now prepared to join your regiment and fight for the glory of our country. Do you think you have the necessary qualifications?" "Young Officer," replied the recruit, "I am the champion long-distance runner of our club."

ITCHING, BURNING ECZEMA. And all the Torturing and Disfiguring Itching Skin Diseases are Compelled to Yield to Yield to the Extraordinary Antiseptic, Soothing, Healing Influence of DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT. With the single exception of itching piles there is no form of itching skin disease so extremely painful and distressing as eczema, or salt rheum, as it is sometimes called. A little poison from a sock or other garment is sufficient to give this disease a beginning, and its fires burn and rage with such fury as to almost drive one crazy. Only persons who have experienced the frightful itching, burning, stinging sensations of eczema can realize the miseries which it brings and the disappointment which comes with trying in vain to find a cure.

Mr. G. H. McConnell, Engineer in Fleury's Foundry, Aurora, Ont., states: "I believe that Dr. Chase's Ointment is worth its weight in gold. I have used it in eczema, and it has cured me. I have been troubled with eczema and could not obtain any cure. I was so unfortunate as to have blood poison, and this developed into eczema, the most dreadful of skin diseases."

MULBERRY WAYS.
The mulberry is a fruit sufficiently delicious to make it much better known than it is. It is easily preserved, or made into jelly, adds very pleasantly to the variety of fruits stored for winter. The following recipe is a delightful way to make a dinner stand for two. Canned Mulberries: Allow 1-3 lb. sugar to each pound of mulberries and place in layers in a preserving kettle, place over the fire and allow them to bring very slowly to a boil; cook two minutes, skim, and add immediately.

Preserved Mulberries: Cook 2 lbs. mulberries in a very little water until soft. Then press through a fine sieve to extract all of the juice. To 1 qt. juice add 5 lbs. granulated sugar, place over the fire and boil and skim. Add 4 lbs. mulberries. Then stand aside over night to cool. In the morning the syrup should be strained through a fine sieve, being careful not to break the berries and when cold seal.

Mulberry Jelly: Cook the mulberries until soft in a very little water, then strain through a very fine sieve. Add an equal quantity of rhubarb juice, and allow 1 lb. sugar to each pint of the mixture. Proceed as for other jellies.

Every owner of stock is anxious that his animals should be as well as possible, but frequently the owner does not do all he can to make conditions favorable for their improvement.

Perhaps the season in which animals suffer most is the winter, yet in the summer they often bear needless sufferings. Possibly the most subtle cause of summer loss of food, fresh water.

All nutriment is carried into and through the system by means of water. Since water is the universal carrier, it should ever be present in the animal tissues in quantities sufficient to accomplish the desired result.

Another cause of much annoyance to the farmer is the presence of flies and other insects that threaten the well-being of the animals but the people have no circulation of air. Provision should be made for the ingress of light. It is best if the light is admitted from the side or from above.

INTO OPEN WEATHER. where they become a nuisance and annoy the animals. In the summer these open piles of manure, and other insects that threaten the well-being of the animals but the people have no circulation of air.

CAUSE AND CURE OF COLIC. One of the most fruitful causes of colic is the too common habit of allowing horses to partake of large quantities of water immediately after finishing a feed of oats.

Very often simple cases of colic yield to the administration of a couple of ounces of cooking soda dissolved in water. As soon as the first symptoms of the attack are noticed, should the administering of the cooking soda fail to give the desired effect, no time should be lost in following it up with the laudanum and spirits of nite already suggested.

MUTTON SHEEP. The mutton sheep should be of the Scotch general type, and of the best breed, any good beef animal. Straight on the back and under the body, nearly straight up and down in front and rear, in fact about as much as a sheep's horns should be deeper than thick.

LOUNGING ON A GIRAFFE WHERE WILD BEASTS ARE USED AS FURNITURE. Superb Tiger as Dumb-waiter—Bear Fills the Useful Office of Light-holder. Many country houses have their walls adorned with the hunting trophies of their occupiers. But it is much more interesting, and very much more useful, to have the trophies made into articles of furniture, and serving a double purpose of use and ornament, says London Answers.

His Majesty the King possesses a somewhat similar trophy in the shape of a rhinoceros, a young bear, which he himself shot many years ago in Russia. It now stands in the smoking-room at Buckingham Palace, gravely holding a tray in its front paws.

In the hall of Baroness Eckhardstein's beautiful mansion in Grosvenor Square there is to be seen an even larger bear, one which has been shot, a fact that has never been shot, that fills the useful office of light-holder. In its left paw is clasped an electric torch, which can be switched on from behind, without the necessity of a hand, and which is used to illuminate the hall.

Only one trophy exists which combines the offices of the last two, and with jaws agape, brandishes a cigarette in its right paw, while he stretches the other invitingly towards his master's guests, and offers them, upon a silver tray, a selection of choice cigars. This is the property of Mr. Hatcliffe Popo, and occupies a position of honor in his house at Fakenham.

Leaving the subject of bears, we find equally useful and interesting trophies made from other animals. Picture a baby-elephant squatting upon its haunches, with its trunk curled upwards to form a chair, and its front legs! This unusual piece of furniture was modelled, many years ago, by a well-known firm of naturalists in London, and for some time occupied a prominent position in the hall of a large establishment, where it served as a hall-porter's coat rack, and has recently been sent under water to New York, and is to be seen in one of the country residences of Mr. Vanderbilt.

Probably the most original chair in the world is to be found in the residence of Mr. J. Gardner Muir, the well-known hunter and traveler, at Market Harborough, Leicestershire. It is a chair which, with its mother, was shot near the Kidoko River, British East Africa. The seat of the chair is arranged between two fore-legs, and is supported down from above by a high and glassy stare upon whoever happens to occupy this exceedingly unusual but very comfortable nook.

Many of the exist which have been made from the skins of various pet birds and monkeys. In the latter case, the most usual arrangement is for the bird to be perched upon a branch, and for some time occupied a prominent position in the hall of a large establishment, where it served as a hall-porter's coat rack, and has recently been sent under water to New York, and is to be seen in one of the country residences of Mr. Vanderbilt.

Far away the most artistic of such trophies, however, is a magnificent coal-black swan, which was shot a few years ago by a wealthy Australian gentleman living at Hamstead. It rests upon a large mirror, so as to give the effect of floating upon a lamp of exquisite workmanship. It makes a unique and beautiful table-centre.

A novel hatstand adorns the hall of Langley House, Slough. It consists of a pair of horns from stags shot by Sir Robert Harvey, Bart., and his father in Invermor Forest, Forfarshire. The design was by Sir Edwin Landseer.

QUEER FOODS. Human nature may be the same the world over, but tastes in matters of cuisine vary a good deal. For instance, in Arabia horseflesh is a favorite article of food. The flesh of the elephant is par-taken with zest in certain parts of India. Visit Hindostan and you will find the miserable pariahs contending with dogs and vultures for carrion.

Chinese taste, as we all know, runs to cats, dogs, bear's paws and birds nests. In the West Indies there is a certain large caterpillar found on the palm tree, which is reckoned a luxury of diet, while in Java the nests of swallows are considered a delicacy. Inhabits all portions of Sweden, Finland and other countries eat clay with gusto; indeed, it is partaken of in all the countries of the Torrid Zone. Frenchmen eat snails and Yankees frogs' legs.

Cumso—"Well, McBride, is there as much billing and cooing as there was before marriage?" McBride—"The billing has increased largely."

"Look here, Mr. Editor," exclaimed an irate caller, "you referred to my dog as a 'portion of carrion'."

"You must apologize, or I'll sue you for libel."

"Very well, sir," replied the editor. "I'll retract the statement cheerfully. I'll sue you haven't reformed."
