A New Fiscal Doctrine for G B.

Hon. Mr. Chamberlain whose resignation of the office of Secretary of State for the Colonies caused such a sensation last month, is vigorously promoting his new fiscal campaign in Great Britain, Addressing an audience of four thousand people in Greenock on Wednesday of last week he dealt with retaliation and reciprocity. He said he was a free trader and wanted to live harmoniously with his with all nations. If they would not exchange he was not a free trader at any orice. He respected "our American cousins," had considerable respect for the Germans, and great respect and greater friendship for the French. The policy of these nations was to use tariffs to ease the home trade and exclude foreign trade. while under the present system in the Uni ed Kingdom trade was steadily de-

New Brunswick Sunday School Association.

The nineteenth annual convention of the N. B. S. S. Association is now in progres in Chatham. The preliminary meetings were held on Tuesday in St. Andrew' church hall and consisted of a primary Institute conducted by Mrs. D. Morrison of St John, Provincial Superintendent, Primary Department, and Mrs "The arrivals from British North Alongo Petitt, of New Jersey, U. S. A., of the International Primary Department, which sat from 10 a.m. until noon and from 2 to 4 30 p.m., also a meeting of the Provincial Executive at 3.30 p.m.

The first session of the convention took | proceeded, referring to the primary branch of place in the evening in the "convention church"-St. John's-in which all the followed by prayer by Mr. J. S. Trites and the singing of

"Nearer my God to Thee." President Chipman explained that Mr. W. C. Pearce, whose name was on the programme to speak on "Modern Sunday School Methods" had been delayed in reaching Chatham by a change in the time of the train he was to take leaving Boston, but he would be here tomorrow: meantime, the programme of the evening would, necessarily, be departed from to some extent on account of Mr. Pearce's regretted absence. He then announced that a solo would be sung.

This was done by Miss Lindsay, of St. John, who rendered

"The Lord is my Shepherd" so acceptably that she was quite generally applauded.

Then, His Worship, Mayor R. A. Mur doch of Chatham, was introduced by th President to the visiting delegates, Mr. Chipman remarking that he needed such office at his hands to the people of Chatham.

Mayor Murdoch spoke briefly, expressing the pleasure it gave him, in behalf of the citizens, to welcome the ladies and gentlemen of the Provincial S. S. Association, to the town of Chatham, He referred to the fact that there were also representatives of the International Association from the other side of border, and he took especial pleasure in extending the warmest welcome to these. our cousins. He regretted the unfavorable weather prevailing, intimated that would improve, hoped the visitors would have a pleasant session, would be pleased with their visit amongst our townspeople and when they left carry with them a good impression of their stay with us.

[Applause.] Rev. Jas. S. Strothard, pastor of St. Luke's Methodist church, was next introduced and welcomed the delegates in behalf of the churches. An American philosopher had said that some men born great, others achieved greatness and others had greatness thrust upon them and he intimated that he had been selected to extend the welcome of the churches to the members of the convention because he was the junior, or most recently arrived Chatham pastor. It was a plot of his Presnyterian brethren. It was, however, a pleasure to him to welcome the members of the convention to Chatham in behalf of the christian people of the town. It was true that the weather was unfavorable, but they had brought it with them. If it was unpleasant out of doors, it was pleasant inside. He welcomed them for what they were as fellow laborers in the service of the Loid Jesus Christ, as those neighbors, but he desired free exchange feeding His lambs, working as His instruments in the interests of the home. of purity in society, the upbuilding of the church of God and the promotion of peace and righteousness. He welcomed them to our churches and our homes and in them we saw the glow of angelic faces and heard the rustle of angelic wings. The blessing and benediction of presence would be felt by our people. Mr. Strothard spoke humorously for time deprecating his own ability to do justice to the welcoming task assigned to him, concluding by expressing the hope hat the visitors would have as much happiness in their stay with us as we had in having them and that this would be the most successful of all the Association's annual conventions. [Applause]

President Chipman expressed the pleasure it gave him, in behalf of the association to accept the welcome tendered by Mayor Murdoch in his official capacity. He took it that His Worship's welcome conferred upon them the freedom of the town, and he hoped they would so conduct themselves during their stay as to demonstrate that the privilege was worthily bestowed and that they would create so favorable an impression as to merit an invitation to come again. He thanked the pastors for opening their churches to the Convention and the Christian people for opening their homes to the delegates. The fame of the North Shore for hospitality was known throughout the province and its record in that respect was fully borne out on this occasion by the reception they had met with and by the words of welcome so well spoken by His Worship Mayor Murdoch and Rev. Mr. Strothard and for which he heartily thanked

After the singing of hymn 13, by the choir, the president referred to the effective primary S. S. work done by Mrs. Petitt of he International Association, who, although coming from the United States, was a native of the sister province of Nova Scotia. He said she would speak on the subject,

Mrs. Petitt, who was reneived with applause, said she hardly knew where she belonged. Her ancestors were Nova Scotians and some of them also belonged to the United States. She believed that she belonged "all over." She proceeded to illustrate her subject by the story of the vain efforts of the single ant to move an object. and the ease with which a large number of them working "together" accomplished the task, and impressed upon her hearers the lesson taught thereby of the possibilities of accomplishment which lay in united action by numbers of individuals. In the battle, the individual soldier did not fire as he pleased, but waited for the order given by the commander at the proper time when the whole line fired together so that the greatest possible effect was produced on the enemy. the claim in England that he represents | She showed how, by the united efforts of S. S. teachers banded together in associations-international, state, provincial and Nineteenth Annual Conventionof the | district-the work of the Sunday School had been rendered effective, because they worked together. She spoke of the good work accomplished by "the cradle roll" in reaching children whose mothers knew nothing and cared nothing about the Sunday School. These mothers, when informed by letter that their babes were being prayed for by S. S. workers, who were acting together, became interested through the maternal instinct and the way was opened for further approaches, which in time bring the child under direct Sunday School influence. After enlarging ugon this theme she characterised the cradle roll as a great aid in reaching children who, without its methods, could never enjoy the blessings of Christian teaching. Mrs. Petitt

About $1,655 of this had been paid; personal subscriptions had also been less than usual, largely, perhaps, owing to the special pledges which were made to the debt fund and the fact that the Field Secretary had not been able to devote as much time as usual to this department, a service which he should not be called upon to perform, for the solicitation of personal subscriptions should be looked after by the executives in the differ-

After paying a tribute to the faithful labors of the Field Secretary and some other matters, president Chipman said the greatest object lesson in S. S. work would be the fourth World's S. S. Convention, to be held in Jerusalem next April. It seems most fitting that those who are devoting their lives to the study of our Great Teacher's methods should meet together in the land where our Savior lived and taught and where His memory is still green. After dwelling upon the importance of the work for the carrying on of which the Association was organized, he pictured the results achieved and to be accomplished in which sower and reaper will rejoice together -special ties shall bind them together in

The harvest home we'll keep And the summer of life we'll share, As he that sowed and he that reaped Rejoice together there.

He earnestly enjoined sustained effort in the great work, under the inspiration of the old battle cry; "The world for Christ," before which great hosts have fallen and by which great victories have been won, and proceeded to enlarge upon the importance of the S. S. teacher in the church's work .-There should be trained teachers in the Sunday School the same as there are trained ministers in the pulpit, The preparation of the teacher is the theme of importance today. He referred to the attention the churches are giving to this question-citing the training institutes held by the Presbyterian church in St. John and elsewhere. He next referred to the relation of the S. S. teacher to the Great Teacher, summarizing by saying that the first preparation for this service was fellowship with Christ. It was God dwelling in the heart of the teacher. It was the teacher whose hand touches the of the Divine that had power and prevailed. Referring to the subject of officers of the organization, he said the association had appreciated the intelligent and faithful work performed by Mr. E. R Machum, who had occupied the position of treasurer for the last three years, and regretted that owing to his intention to be absent from the province during the coming winter he would be unable to continue in that capacity.

He could not close his address without referring to the loss the Association was about to sustain through the removal from the Province of one of its most efficient officers- Miss Robb-who had been a paine taking and diligent worker as secretary, Her love for the Master and His Kingdom, said the president, has led her to use her talents under the direction of the Associa tion, and having faithfully performed her duties here she has been called by the Head of the Church to a wider field of labor. In obedience to the Divine call she has offered herself to the mission board of her church and has been appointed to Corea Sh carries with her the love of the workers in this field and, in their name, as well as my own. I assure Miss Robb that the prayers of her fellow workers in this Association wil be that the work of the Lord may prosper in her hands "The Lord bless thee and keep thee; the Lord make His face to shine upon thee, and be gracious unto thee; the Lord lift up His countenance upon thee and give

In closing, president Chipman dwelt upon the importance of the loyalty of its subjects to its flag, which stands as the representative of the nation, embodying all its principles of unity and strength and, when neces. sity arises, calls for the best of its sons and daughters in its defence. The New Brunswick Sunday School Association is the flag of Sunday School work in this province and the strength of its future depends upon the lovalty of all, for the time has come when, if this Association is to continue, all who are interested in the proper training of our young people to fit them for the responsibili ties which they will be called upon t assume should rally round it and give such assistance as will enable the work to be carried on successfully.

In this work we are "laborers together with God," and the best way to reap the full results of our sowing is by a united effort on the part of every S. Useful Women.

A REMARKABLE ONE.

Those who go about New Brunswick with their eves open are often impressed with the capacity for work displayed by many of the women they meet, especially in the country districts. This class of women are as a rule amongst the most healthy and best-looking, and it is also noticeable that they preside over thrifty and attractive homes. They have not any great variety of clubs or societies formed for the regulating or supposed reforming of other people, so they devote their surplus energy to assisting their husbands in the working and development of whatever property they may have, and it is needless to say that they command the admiration and respect of their neighbors, as well as outsiders whose he homes they preside over. One of the most pronounced women of this type has been discovered on the Kennebeccasis by the St. John Telegraph, which gives the following appreciative account of her :

"John Morrell, the veteran, bear, deer duck and fox hunter, of Darling's Island King's county, (N.
