

HAD TO LEAVE SCHOOL. THE PITIFUL STORY OF A YOUNG GIRL.

Every Mother of a Growing Girl Will Be Interested in the Story as Told by the Young Lady.

Miss Laura Dumontier is the daughter of a well-to-do farmer in St. Catharines, Quebec. The circumstances under which she was forced to discontinue her studies at school will be of interest to all mothers of growing girls, and Miss Dumontier consents to make them public for the benefit her experience may be of to others. She says:

At the end of a couple of years, however, I felt my strength leaving me. My appetite grew poor, and I suffered from severe headaches. I nevertheless continued my studies until October, 1901, when I became very ill and was unable to leave school. The headaches that had bothered me became almost constant. I suffered from pains in the back and stomach and the least exertion would leave me almost breathless. A doctor was called in and he said I was suffering from anaemia, and was in a very dangerous condition. He treated me until February without the least beneficial result. Then another doctor was called in, but no better results followed his treatment. My parents were now thoroughly alarmed, and two other doctors from St. Barthelemy were called in after consultation their verdict was that my trouble had reached an incurable stage. I was greatly disheartened and did not expect to live beyond one day one of my friends asked me why I did not try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I had lost confidence in all medicines, but was willing to try anything that might help me. My father got me a supply of the pills. When I had used a couple of boxes it was very plain that the pills were doing me good, and after I had taken them a couple of months I was once more enjoying the blessing of good health. I feel that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have saved my life and I gladly give my experience in the hope that it may benefit to some other young girls.

No discovery of modern times has proved such a blessing to young girls and women as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They act directly on the blood and nerves, invigorate the body, regulate the functions and restore health and strength to the exhausted patient. Every effort of the physician proves unavailing. These pills are sold by all dealers in medicine, or may be had by mail post paid at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by writing to Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. Remember that no other medicine can take the place of these pills, and see that the full name, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, is on the wrapper around every box.

MAKING IT FIT.

Every business man has his own ideas of what should be considered in order to make the advertising as successful as it should be. Each idea which will result in the betterment of the matter published is worth considering, and each line of action or thought which has helped the merchant to gain, and which in the past must be considered in the publicity of the future. It is not for advertising experts to tell the merchant what to say, or how to say it, but it is well to listen to the suggestions that will make the space used of greater value, than the plan of the outsider is worth dollars to the man who is doing the work. No matter what the advertising, it must be made to fit the occasion or it will not prove of profit. Keep the idea of sales and returns well to the fore, but do not make the mistake of being because a good idea pulled business in one locality it will in another. Study the situation and the suggestion of the advertiser, and use them. If you find they don't fit, change them so that they will do what is to be expected of them.

OF INTEREST TO MOTHERS.

A Safflower For Children Cutting Teeth in Hot Weather.

The time when children are cutting teeth is always an anxious one for mothers and when this occurs during the hot weather the mother's anxiety is often increased. So many little children often result fatally are liable to be interested in a medical discovery that they have heard of, and which they have seen in a newspaper. Mrs. R. Ferguson, of 105 Mansfield street, Montreal, Que., gives her experience for the benefit of other mothers. She says: "My baby has been suffering from teething, and I suffered so much last summer with his teeth that I did not think he would live. The medicine the doctor gave him did not do him much good. Then he had an attack of diphtheria and a very hot skin and cough. I sent for Baby's Own Tablets, and they did him a wonderful amount of good. He is now getting on splendidly."

COULDN'T EAT THEM.

"Have you anything to say for yourself?" asked a London magistrate. "Well, your grace—I mean, your lordship—I 'ope you won't be 'ard on a poor cove," replied the prisoner at the bar. "I admit that I stole the leg of mutton, but times is wery bad, and I've got a wife and seven children, your grace—I mean your honor—and it's difficult to provide for them. Hon the day I took the mutton, I had the 'cok they 'ad nothing to eat. They was starvin'."

"But the constable states that you keep three 'coks," said the magistrate. "How can you keep three dogs?" "Oh, well, gov'nor," said the prisoner, suddenly changing his manner, "I expect I'm going to be 'beat dogs I've got no more to say. Won't the sentence? Cough it up, covek, and let's get it over."

Among the passengers in the train were an elderly lady and her pretty young niece, also a young gentleman. The train had passed through several tunnels, when the maiden aunt said:—"My dear, we are coming to a long tunnel, you had better sit over on this side." "Pretty Nicee—No, auntie, just let me stop where I am. One more tunnel and I am engaged."

Green For Gold Or, The Sign of the Arrow

CHAPTER II. The household at Grayne Hall was not a particularly happy one. Sir George Grayne was arriving at that age when pettiness is the first disease which, if left unchecked, grows with alarming rapidity. He was much older than his wife, and her tastes and habits were things as old-fashioned as his. He had no recollection of his fast-fading ability to do so himself. Moreover, his intelligence was no longer of that keen order which he had been so proud, and he knew it. He still retained his seat on the local bench, but his mental decay was unnoticed there, and he was quite a common ingredient of many local benches.

He had married a young widow—perhaps because she was fresh and young. Why she married him he did not pause to inquire. Possibly his title glinted before her; anyway, it was not money. She had an excellent life-income from her first husband's estate, and she had the disposal of it as will, she meant to exercise that power in her daughter's favour. Meanwhile, she was a young-old woman, with no fear of death before her. When she recorded her forty-third birthday she felt as young as she had done at the age of twenty-five.

Her daughter, Vera, was in her third year. She was a sweet, timid, brood-up-in-the-corn, but highly strung and nervous to a degree. To shape her character, in general, and mould her companion-ship—Miss Evelyn Westcar. If the pupil came out the shape the school-mistress would have been a success. She was one day as wicked, or more so, as the day she was arrested. She had a knowledge of the Bible, gleaned from reading and recitation. Let it be said that she was a criminal in the eyes of the law.

And, primarily, she would cut all ties with which she was bound, and she would acquire that wealth by non-purchaseable means. And, primarily, she would cut all ties with which she was bound, and she would acquire that wealth by non-purchaseable means. And, primarily, she would cut all ties with which she was bound, and she would acquire that wealth by non-purchaseable means.

CHAPTER III. A woman leaves prison as a rule better for her stay there—not morally, but physically. The regular and simple food and exercise in almost all cases improve her. They improve the woman who left the gaol as Evelyn Westcar, but who had entered it under another name—a name with allusions clinging to it like the perfume of a flower. She was a quietness about her beauty, and the look from her clear eyes was confidence-inspiring—it had been the chief factor in the success of the Dubois combination.

At the first scholastic agency at which she presented herself, the principal tried in vain to secure a measure of respectability for her. He made an immediate opening in the country, saying little object, then she was prepared to pay the proper charges, not of education, but of maintenance. There was not such an opening in the books, and Miss Evelyn Westcar left the office. At the second and third office she was met with the same openings, but fervent anxiety to secure a measure of respectability for her. He made an immediate opening in the country, saying little object, then she was prepared to pay the proper charges, not of education, but of maintenance. There was not such an opening in the books, and Miss Evelyn Westcar left the office.

Many Helpless With Paralysis Who Could Now be Well Had They but Known of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

We do not claim that every case which is paralyzed can be cured by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, for many are beyond the reach of any medical treatment, and must finish their days in helplessness and suffering. It is rather to those who are only partially paralyzed and to those who are slowly but surely developing the symptoms which indicate the approach of such ailments that we would suggest the advisability of using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great food cure for diseases of the nerves. When you find yourself lying awake nights, suffer from indigestion and headache, feel drowsy after meals and losing energy and courage, it is time to pay attention to the nerves. You may find yourself irritable at times, worried over little things, unable to concentrate the mind, forgetful and absent-minded. Better give some attention to the nerves. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cures and prevents paralysis and locomotor ataxia. It does not cause by inducing unconsciousness and unnatural sleep. It does not deaden the nerves as do opiates and narcotics. But, on the other hand, by assisting the nature and supplying the elements from which are formed new blood and nerve force, effects thorough and lasting cure and is bound to benefit all who use it. Seldom, if ever, has any medicine secured such hearty endorsement of physicians and people alike. The cases which it has brought about have often been most extraordinary and have often been regularly and persistently used this great food cure is sure to find its own inimitable value as a nerve restorative and blood builder. By noting your increase in weight while using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food you can prove that new tissue and muscular tissue are being added to the body. 50 cents a box, six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers. Dr. Edmondson, Bates & Company, Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box.

CULINARY HINTS. Braised Veal—Buy four or five pounds of the shoulder of veal and have the bone taken out. Fill with stuffing made from bread crumbs, seasoned with salt, pepper and two tablespoons of chopped salt pork and bacon. Add also a pinch of sweet herbs, a little onion juice. Marinate with a very little water. Set the meat in a pan, pour one cup of boiling water over, cover closely and cook in a moderate oven one and one-half to two hours, basting and turning occasionally. When tender take up the meat, add one tablespoon of lemon juice to the liquid and thicken with a tablespoon of flour. Serve the gravy in a bowl and slice the meat on a platter.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS. Fans are now moving in the best society. It's a wise cove that knows her own trade. Some men convince themselves by trying to persuade others. Chewing gum seems to be the school-girl's kind of contentment. It sometimes happens that an innocent man also pleads not guilty. At some period in his career every man carries something in his pocket which he is anxious to get rid of.

Occasionally when a man doesn't know just what to say his silence is mistaken for a superior brand of wisdom.

AN AUTOMATIC DOCTOR.

At most of the larger railway stations in Holland an odd addition has lately been made to the collection of automatic machines. It takes the outward form of an old-fashioned doctor of the early eighteenth century type with a great peacock on his breast and the body of the physician displays a number of slots, over each of which the name of some particular ailment is inscribed. If you have cold, sore throat, rheumatism, cough, etc., you put a penny (or a cent) into the proper slot, and you receive for your supply of pills. But, in necessary medicine, but the doctor's prescription how to cure yourself.

LOCAL APPLICATIONS.

With LOCAL APPLICATIONS as they cannot reach the seat of the disease, Catarrh is a blood or constitutional ailment, and is cured by the use of a certain medicine. But, in necessary medicine, but the doctor's prescription how to cure yourself.

Carrots in Cream Sauce—Rub one pound of carrots through a colander and three eggs beaten light. Sift three level teaspoons of baking powder with two cups of flour three times. Add a cup of sugar, a pinch of salt, three level cake pans, fill with the dough and bake twenty minutes. Spread ripe peaches that have been sliced and sweetened between the cakes. Put fruit on the top cake or spread it with a meringue made from the white of one egg and one tablespoon of powdered sugar.
