St. John was well acquainted with Gouthreau, having been at his house officially eight times within six years. He had seized similiar aparatus at least three times on defendant's premises. Mr. Kelly produced a flask containing spirits of some character which he had procured from the defendant, some four months ago.

Court adjourned till Saturday to procur the evidence of the Dominion analyst, who had analyised the samples of stuff taken by Mr. Floedy.

Mr. Hanford McGill, Dominion analyst Ottawa was the last witness for the crown. He took the stand Saturday forenoon, and produced the bottles seized by Mr. Floody and hauded to him. One contained what Mr. McGill called brower's beer and the other brewer's mash. He slso had small bottles of spirits distilled from the samples. This closed the case for the crown and Mr. Murray asked for a dismissal of the case

The court decided to put Gouthreau on hi defence and court adjourned to 2 30 o'clock. was adopted by the assembly. Rev. Dr. Campbell, who has been acting principal of the college for more than a year, and has been thirty-one years a professor there, at once tendered his resignat.on of the chair of church history and apologetics. He said he did not speak in any egotistical spirit, but it would be an impossible position for him, and it would be an impossible one for his friends for him to be subordinate to a man (Dr, Scrimger) who had been in his classes in Knox College. D, Merrice replied, stating that the appointment had been decided on in spirit of criticism of Dr. Campbell, but it was felt better for several reasons to make the appointment. He moved that a committee be appointed to interview Dr. Campbell, and urge him to reconsider his reeignation.
