THE robins rich mellow song from the tree top these mornings remind us of the coming spring

Messrs. Landry and Fraser in town. THE Temperance Sunday School, called by unfeeling ones Ragged School, will hold a concert soon. Bridges bave been built between the shore and the ice at the several crossing places about the city. THE Marquis of Lorne and Princess, as already stated in this paper, will take up the greater part of their summer residence in Halitax. "THE LAST ROSE OF SUMMER."-Of all with us during the session, Mr. P. Tuck, of the Sun is the only one now left. HERE and there a delicate blade of grass peeps over the ground, timidly looking to see if its great enemy snow, is departed.

A perceptible rise is taking place in the river. Sull it will take fully two weeks or more without rain to clear out the ice.

WE are asked to request the person who took Mrs. E. E.Phair's Music Book from the City Hall to please return the same to the owner.

ARRIVED HOME.-We welcome back again to Fredericton, Mr. Aifred Long, who has spent one term in Medical College, Philadelphia. Mr. Long returus after his holidays.

RATHER STRANGE. -We published a notice of Mr. Sharkey's new building in Thursdays STAR, and we find a verbatim copy of it in yesterdays Telegraph under the signature "K." Now this is hardly square.

THE ZULU WAR .- The latest news from the seat of war is dated March 30th. The prospect then was not very cheering for Col. Pearson who might be attacked at any time with a force of Zulus many times greater than his own.

Nothing takes like a scriptural text. We have been much interrupted the past few days with subscribers saying to us, " Here, 'we render unto Cæsar what is his." There are still some backsliders, a list of which we soon hope to be able to publish.

Progress.-Mr Murphy, meat dealer Regent street, has got up, regardless of cost, a contrivance for delivering meat to the public. The particular merit of the arrangement is that in hot weather it will keep the meat cool as if in an ice house, while at the same time protecting it from dust. It thus revolutionizes completely the old open waggon. We gladly note this, keeping in mind the credit due Mr. Murphy for the invention.

ONE of the gross st crimes of which man can be guilty is defrauding the laborer of his wages. A number of men employed in the lumber woods this winter are in town vainly looking for their hard-earned pittance. We can now well see how a lien law would have operated towards protecting these unfortunate men. The wretch who has defrauded these men, we learn, borrowed pretty large sums from some of our merchants, and when he had satisfied himself, quietly departed from town. May a swift Nemesis overtake him.

Sir John as seen by the Witness.

The Montreal Witness draws a pretty lengthy picture of Sir John's character. After calling him an adept in "cajolery" through which means he mostly holds his party together, it says:-"Add to this a shrewd weather-wisdom, and the power of piping for a necessary wind, and you have an inventory of the furniture of a statesman of the first order.'
