THE LABORATORY METHOD

The new way trains the student to transact business and keep books by the natural method that is followed in learning all other professions requiring the skill that comes from technical training.

The schools that continue to follow the old text-book plan of teaching bookkeeping are at least a quarter of a century behind the age.

HONEST TALK.

Is it not high time that all the world should know and understand that the drink traffic is an accursed business, that its gains are gains of ungodliness, and that its wealth is the price of blood? Years ago this was not fully understood, and good men engaged in this bad business; but if in past years God had winked at "the time of this ignorance" does he not now command all men everywhere to repent?

In America we should hardly expect a great brewer to be treasurer of a religious society, or chairman of a missionary meeting, or prominent in working for the welfare of his kind. In England it is somewhat different, as indeed it was in America a half a century ago. There is much to be done to get good men out of bad places and bad business.

"Some time ago," says Professor W. G. Blackie, "I received a letter from an eminent London brewer, a philanthropist, asking for a subscription for the Reformatory Union. I took the liberty of asking some pointed questions regarding the shops belonging to the firm, saying that I humbly thought that by his gin palaces he was helping to tumble into the gutter far more human creatures than all the refugees in the kingdom were picking out of it. He replied and said he was not responsible for the abuse of his wares. He was evidently ill at ease and concluded his letter in a way that touched me—by asking me to pray for him."

Such persons need prayers and also warnings and admonitions and instructions. They need to be shown their work, even if when they have seen it they go home and die, as one London brewer did after taking an evening walk among the places where his drink was sold. Oh, it is better to have plain, honest talk here, than it is for men to go unarmed to the judgment with the curses of lost souls beating like a tempest on their heads.

RIVALS OF THE GOSPEL.

The people of the United States have spent $70,000,000 during the past year for bicycles; they have wasted no less than the enormous sum of $20,000,000 for chewing gum.

As much money is spent in twenty-seven days for liquor, and as much is puffed away in tobacco smoke in fifty-four hours, as has been spent on foreign missions in the last eighty years.

With all our poverty we consume over $7,000,000 in tobacco smoke every day of the year, and more than twice that amount is spent on intoxicating liquors, and a large part of this enormous expenditure is made by men who would declare that they could not afford to give any money to widen the realm of light.

These three rivals bid for the working man's contributions, and he responds so freely that we are compelled to doubt the universal cry of hard times.

Personal appetites are gratified first, and then the great spiritual concerns of the world receive a tardy and grudging hearing. These latter concerns feel the hard times first, while the chewing gum business flourishes through the worst panic, and nothing seems able to decrease the demand for those things which both weaken and destroy the manhood of our race.

Almost everybody has some one or more ways of spending money unnecessarily. We refuse to contribute to the good cause because the times are hard, and the same day or the next squander twice as much as the required contribution on some pet gratification, or for some ephemeral whim.

We covet for Christ and the Christian work the chewing gum money, the tobacco smoke money, the spirituous drink money; but while we are waiting for these gigantic sums, let Christians put aside the money they squander on trivialities and the unnecessary things, and that sum will enable the great works of righteousness to go on at an accelerated rate.

People give to those things in which they are deeply interested, or from which they derive personal satisfaction. Where the heart is, thither the purse will go.—The American Friend.

A POINTER FOR BOYS.

Edward W. Bok, editor of The Ladies' Home Journal, gives the following, among other reasons, for having never tasted liquor: "Another thing which led me to make up my mind never to touch liquor was the damage which I saw was wrought by it upon some of the finest minds with which it was ever my privilege to come into contact, and I concluded that what had resulted injuriously to others might prove so to me. I have seen, even in my few years of professional life, some of the smartest, young, brilliant, literary men dethroned from splendid positions, owing to nothing else than this indulgence in wine. I have known men with thousands of dollars per year, occupying positions which hundreds would strive a lifetime to attain, come to beggary from drink. Only recently there applied to me, for any position I could offer him, one of the most brilliant editorial writers in the newspaper profession—a man who two years ago easily commanded one hundred dollars for a single editorial in his special field. That man became so unreliable from drink that the editors are now afraid of his articles, and although he can today write as forcible an editorial as at any time during his life, he sits in a cellar in one of our cities writing newspaper wrappers for one dollar per thousand."

AN IMPORTANT CASE.

A Pedlar Sent to Prison for Representing an Imitation Pill to be the Same as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills—A Far Reaching Decision.

MONTREAL, Jan. 24, 1898.—A case of more than ordinary interest to the public came before Judge Lafontaine here today, the facts being as follows: For some time past one H. E. Migner has been going about peddling a pill which he represented as being the same as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. placed the matter in the hands of Detective Haynes, of the Canadian secret service, who soon had collected sufficient evidence to warrant the arrest of Migner on a charge of obtaining money under false pretences. Mignant Migner had left Montreal, going to St. John, N. B. On his arrival in that city he was at once placed under arrest and an official sent to bring him back here. He was brought before Judge Lafontaine this morning on two charges, and pleaded guilty to both. It was pointed out that his offense was a grave one and left him liable to a lengthy term of imprisonment. The counsel for the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. stated that his clients did not wish to press for severe punishment at this time; they only wished to establish the fact that representing an imitation pill to be the same as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills was a crime which left the perpetrator liable to a lengthy imprisonment. On one charge the judge then imposed a sentence of ten days, with the option of a fine of ten dollars, and in the other case a sentence of two days in jail without the option of a fine.

This decision is likely to have a far-reaching effect, as it seems to establish the principle that substitutes and those who sell imitations representing them to be "the same as" Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, are liable under the criminal code, which is in force all over the Dominion, and it will no doubt, to a considerable extent, put an end to this nefarious business, as it is evident from the fact that the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. went to the expense of bringing this man back from so great a distance as St. John, that they intend sparing no expense to protect both the public and themselves in such cases.

What Is Needed?

FOR THE QUEENS COUNTY GAZETTE.

The temperance question has been discussed from the pulpit, platform and the press for so many years that every man, woman and child in the country is familiar with it. There is no one in the community with eyes to see, ears to hear, or heart to feel, but has had abundant evidence of the great evil of the liquor traffic. Scarcely a home in the land is without sad personal knowledge of its effects. All know of its baneful effects on the moral and material welfare of the neighborhood in which they live. None can plead ignorance of the great wrong of this business. Still it goes on unchecked. The people have declared at the polls their deliberate conviction that the evil should be suppressed. Laws have been enacted by the Legislature to give effect to these convictions. Yet it still exists.

The warnings of scripture, the voice of the pulpit, the pleadings of parents, the enactments of the Legislature, the decisions of courts, and the plain evidence of the harm they are doing, seem to have no effect on those engaged in that degrading business. To get money without labor they stifle the voice of conscience, defy the laws of God and man; but unlike other law breakers, they generally manage to escape the punishment they deserve. The thief, or forger, or incendiary, or other violators of law are hunted down and punished; but the rum-sellers who do more harm than all the others combined, seem to be able to violate the law with impunity.

Why? It is not that the violations are very hard to prove—though it does seem that the framers of the law have made it as difficult of enforcement as possible. Is it that the people are too lukewarm or too timid to use the means put within their reach? In small communities such as this if those who profess and call themselves temperance men were in earnest, the rum-selling would soon have to stop, as those engaged in it would not do so at a loss—they are not philanthropists. What is needed? It is for our professed temperance people to examine as to the genuineness of their professions; and having counted the cost, to proceed without fear or favor, to enforce the law. When the rum-seller realizes that the people are REALLY in earnest, more than half the battle will be won. The rum-seller will stop when he finds that he is losing, instead of making, money.

It will not do to leave the word to the local temperance society, whose function is rather the inculcation and strengthening of temperance principles in the individual. The duty of enforcing the law rests upon the people. The time of talking is past. The time of action is here. Gladstone, Jan. 1898.

A Signal Victory for the King of

Pains Banished, Eyesight Quite Restored, and a New Life Begun.

WELLS & RICHARDSON CO.,

GENTLEMEN:—Ten years ago I was attacked with neuralgia, and though treated by six doctors, the disease grew worse and nearly drove me insane. I was for one summer an out-door patient at the hospital here, but only got temporary relief. I was sleepless for nights, my digestion was bad, and I would feel a pain in my stomach every time I ate anything. Day after day I suffered the most intense agony, and I often wonder I didn't go crazy. I took endless medicines given me by medical men, and getting worse, I became utterly disheartened.

One day my deliverance came. A lady who had suffered just as I had, told me that Paine's Celery Compound had cured her. I used the compound as a last resort, and it simply made a new woman of me. The pain vanished; my eyesight, which was impaired, returned, and I feel myself growing well, and I never felt happier in my life. I am now well and strong, and all my health and happiness are due to Paine's Celery Compound. I will always gratefully remember the medicine that cured me, and will speak a good word for it.

MRS. THOS. MCMASTER,
46 Cumberland St., Toronto.
MacDonald's Point.

Jan. 24.—Miss Sophia Belyea who has been prostrated with a severe attack of pneumonia is so far recovered as to attend to her household duties.

Hardy McDonald of this place, has gone to Lowell, Mass., where he has secured a lucrative position.

Mr. and Mrs. Seth Erbb, of Belleisle, were the guests of their son, Melbourne Erbb, past of last week.

We have just heard of the death of Mrs. Samuel Dunham, of Wickham, which occurred on Saturday evening, of pneumonia. Her husband is also very low with the same disease and no hopes are entertained for his recovery.

Mr. John W. Gerow, the popular agent of Eben Miller & Co., of Fredericton, has been in this place and sold one of his handsome punts to Melbourne Erbb.

Mr. Edwin Wright of White's Cove, is the guest of his brother B. B. Wright.

Mr. Thomas Golding had a chopping frolic one day last week, and in the evening the young people tripped the "light fantastic" to music rendered by our popular musician Harry Ellison.

Misses Nan and Della Barnes are spending a few days with friends at White's Cove.

Diamond Dyes are the only Safe and Pure Dye-stuffs.

Our legislators have enacted stringent laws for the prevention of food adulteration, and as a result our people have been benefited; and all classes of our population get value for their money.

It would be a boon to the women of Canada if the adulteration act applied to package dyes for home dyeing. Dye-stuffs are now used in tens of thousands of homes, and too frequently valuable goods and materials are spoiled by use of adulterated dyes that should be prohibited by law.

The Diamond Dyes for long years have given the most complete satisfaction. They are the only reliable, pure and fast dyes now before the public—the only package dyes that can stand the most crucial chemical tests. Diamond Dyes are sold by all up-to-date druggists and dealers. If you meet a dealer who recommends some other make of dye, pause before you buy from him. Such a dealer is working only for big profits; he has no regard for your success and comfort.
