Local Happenings.

Items of Local Interest Carefully Prepared by the Gazette's "Man About Town."

H. W. Woods, General Merchant, Welsford, has just received a fine, new line of the celebrated B. Laurance Spectacles and Eye glass in Gold, Gold-filled and nickel frames. Mr. Woods keeps a perfect line of test lenses, and can guarantee perfect satisfaction to any person who require perfect aids to vision.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC.—War or no war I am still in the front rank in fitting trim, having lately secured the services of Mr. J. A. McKinnon, a late graduate of Mr. J. Mitchell's cutting school of New York. I am now fully prepared to give my numerous customers a first class fit, workmanship unexcelled, style perfect, and prices that will astonish you. I respectfully invite you to call and inspect my large stock, no trouble to show goods and give you quotations at Joseph Walker's, Merchant Tailor, second door above People's Bank, Queen Street, Fredericton, West End.

NOTICE.—All persons desiring to have their sleighs or carriages repaired, painted or upholstered will kindly send same by boat. Orders will receive prompt attention

C. L. Scott, Gagetown.

NOTHING SOLD.—Mr. T. S. Peters offered for sale last week, a number of horses, cattle and sheep, but as those who attended failed to bid, there was no sale.

FELL FROM THE ROOF.—Mr. E. Williams on Saturday last, while in the act of shingling, fell from the roof of a building. He had his left arm badly sprained and received several scratches and was generally shaken up.

LOST.—On Saturday last, on the back road between Mr. Henry Osburn and the "finger board" a fur muff. The finder will be suitably rewarded by reporting at the Methodist Parsonage, Gagetown.

GOING TO MONTREAL.—Dr. Casswell leaves for Montreal on the 21st inst. He intends to remain there five or six weeks. Dr. Bayfield, graduate of McGill College, who has of late been practicing his profession in Charlottetown, will attend the practice in his absence.

WAGON MISSED.—Two of Gagetown's young men while out driving last Sunday had to take shelter from the storm at the residence of Mr. Henry Osburn, Mill Road. While waiting for the storm to abate their wagon was stolen, and it was only after a long and tedious search that it was finally discovered in the woods near by.

CAUGHT IN THE STORM.—A young lady and gentleman the latter from Duck Creek and the former living at present on the opposite side of Duck Creek, last Sunday started from home to spend the day at Mrs. Stewart Law's intending to return that night, but owing to the severity of the storm they were compelled to stay all night. It is said that the horse could not move at a very lively rate going home, as the hay and oats used were not at the driver's expense.

DEATH OF MR. WM. BEATTY.—The remains of the late William Beatty, who died at his late residence at Wickham, on Nov. 12th, were on Monday last brought to Gagetown, per Strm. Oliveite, for burial. A number of his old friends of Gagetown, followed the remains from the wharf to the Methodist burial ground, where the funeral service was conducted by Rev. Neil McLaughlin. Mr. Beatty was 60 years of age, and had been ailing, more or less, for the last five years. He was a highly respected member of the community to which he belonged.

DEATH AT BURTON.—On Thursday last Mr. Edgar Kitchen, of Burton, died at his home, in the 24th year of his age. Mr. Kitchen was for a number of years engaged successfully in school teaching. Owing to failing health he had to give up teaching about a year ago, and though receiving the best available medical treatment, kept declining until on the above date he passed away to be forever with the Lord. He was a young man of good prospects and more than ordinary ability. His presence will be very much missed by all his friends and acquaintances. His remains were interred at Pine Grove. A large number attended the funeral. The funeral sermon was preached by Rev. N. McLaughlin.

Two Papers for One Price.

We have made arrangements with the "Family Herald and Weekly Star" Publishers whereby we can supply that paper and the QUEENS COUNTY GAZETTE, for one year, for $1.50. Subscribers will also receive the beautiful picture entitled the "Thin Red Line." Taking the picture into consideration, the subscribers for the "Family Herald and Weekly Star" and the QUEENS COUNTY GAZETTE will receive two papers for the price of one. This is a golden opportunity. Address, JAS. A. STEWART, Gagetown, N. B.

A DENTIST COMING.—Dr. H. E. Belyea, dentist, will be in Gagetown during the next two weeks.

HELD OVER.—A lot of general news and correspondence held over this issue will appear in our next.

BROKE JAIL.—John Amos Hudlin (colored), who is confined in the Oromocto Jail for assaulting Sheriff Holder, made a dash for liberty on Tuesday last. After a rather exciting chase he was again re-captured.

FIRST SNOW.—On Thursday of last week we had our first snowstorm of the season. On Monday evening a rainstorm set in followed by snow which continued until early Tuesday morning, causing the streets to present a very wintry appearance.

COOK'S NEW BLOOD PILLS.

A GOOD SUGGESTION.—Mr. T. S. Peters in replying to the toast of "Our Agricultural Interests" on Monday night at the dinner tendered to Mr. Vail spoke of the advisability of the farmers forming themselves into an association, thereby being in a position to receive the highest and a uniform price for the articles they sell. The idea is a good one and should meet with universal approval by the farmers. A meeting should be called and the matter discussed.

Every newspaper in Canada and many across the border, are congratulating the "FAMILY HERALD and WEEKLY STAR," of Montreal, on their excellent premium, "THE THIN RED LINE." Canadians and many Americans too are red hot for anything at the present time, favoring of British sentiment.

"THE THIN RED LINE" fills the bill to perfection, and the publishers of the "FAMILY HERALD and WEEKLY STAR" well deserve the congratulations that are heaped upon them. The "FAMILY HERALD and WEEKLY STAR" this week we notice is 24 pages. One of the wonders of the age! Such a paper and such a picture for one dollar! Can our readers understand it?

STILL THEY COME.—We receive by nearly every mail a number of correspondence to which the writers forget to sign their names. Those who wish to have their writings appear in this paper should send their names in confidence, if not they will be consigned to the waste basket.

HOME DRESS MAKING

How the Whole Family Can Dress Well at Small Cost.

NO NEED OF LOOKING SLUBBY EVEN Though Times Are Hard—Easy to Make Old Gowns and Suits Look Like New When One Knows How.

It is astonishing how much can be made from seemingly useless garments by the woman who knows how. The old faded gown that is out of style can be readily dyed with Diamond Dyes to a fashionable color and then made over so that it will look quite as good as new. Suits for the little girls can be made with but little trouble and scarcely any expense from cast off garments of the older folks, and when the color is changed with Diamond Dyes the made-overs will look as though they were fresh from the dress-maker. Diamond Dyes are made especially for home use, and the plain directions on each package make it possible for even the most inexperienced to have poor luck with these dyes. They color anything, from ribbons, feathers and scarfs to heavy coats, jackets and gowns, and make colors that are fast to sun and washing—colors even handsomer than those made by the professional dyer.

LIFE ON JUPITER.

How It Would Appear as Measured by Terrestrial Standards.

Judged by our terrestrial experience, which is all we have to go by, the magnitude of a planet, if it is to bear life resembling that of the earth, is limited by other considerations. Even Jupiter, which, as far as our knowledge extends, represents the extreme limit of great planetary size, may be too large ever to become the abode of living beings of a high organization. The force of gravitation on the surface of Jupiter exceeds that on the earth's surface as 2.64 to 1. Considering the effects of this on the weight and motion of bodies, the density of the atmosphere, the laws of pneumatics, etc., it is evident that Jupiter would, to say the very least, be an exceedingly uncomfortable place of abode for beings resembling ourselves. But Jupiter, if it is ever to become a solid, rocky globe like ours, must shrink enormously in volume, since its density is only 0.24 as compared with the earth. Now, the surface gravity of a planet depends on its mass and its radius, being directly as the former and inversely as the square of the latter. But in shrinking Jupiter will lose none of its mass, although its radius will become much smaller. The force of gravity will consequently increase on its surface as the planet gets smaller and more dense.

The present mean diameter of Jupiter is 86,500 miles, while its mass exceeds that of the earth in the ratio of 316 to 1. Suppose Jupiter shrunk to three-quarters of its present diameter, or 64,875 miles, then its surface gravity would exceed the earth's nearly five times. With one-half its present diameter the surface gravity would become more than ten times that of the earth. On such a planet a man's bones would snap beneath his weight, even granting that he could remain upright at all! It would seem, then, that, unless we are to abandon terrestrial analogies altogether and "go it blind," we must set an upper limit to the magnitude of an inhabited planet, and that Jupiter represents such upper limit, if indeed he does not transcend it.—Popular Science Monthly.

QUAINT DEVICES.

Some of the Articles Which Are Passing or Have Passed Away.

In England they have flails, hop poles, large wooden rattles, smock frocks and shepherd's crooks, which are gradually disappearing. The use of the rattle for scaring beasts and birds must be very ancient. One such is mentioned in 1490, in the Transactions Archit. and Archeol. Soc. Durham and Northumb. iv., 206. Within my recollection nearly every Yorkshire farm boy had a large wooden rattle, or clacker, of his own making, which he used in his leisure time for an amusement and to the disturbance of his neighbors. With these should be classed the old watchman's rattle (I used to visit an old lady who kept one in her bedroom for use in case of burglary), pillions (on which I have seen farmers' wives ride to market behind their husbands on horseback), spinning wheels, horn lanterns (in use long before the stamped tin lanterns), Italian irons and heaters (found in every house when I was a boy), upright dash churns (alluded to in the old song I have heard sung at "clippings": "Instead of a churn she used an old boot, And instead of a churn dash she ram'd in her foot. Oh dear, what a wife had I, salt boxes, which used to be hung up in nearly every farmhouse, in a recess near the chimney. Probably I am one of the last who have seen a performance on the salt box, and very clever and laughable it was. "This 60 years ago." In strains more exalted the salt box shall join, And clattering and battering and clapping combine. With a rap and a tap while the hollow side Up and down leaps the flap, and with rattling rebounds. Milk kits have quite disappeared from this part of the country, and chopping blocks and knives, used for sausages and mince pies, are now rarely seen, instead of which the little machines sold by the ironmongers are used by every one.—Notes and Queries.

The Origin of Kew Gardens.

Couriers could be dispatched to the ends of the land for the queen's floral bouquet, but meanwhile she had to wait, unless some obscure owner of a choice plant came forth to sacrifice her possession to the gratification of her ruler. Queen Elizabeth had received many such voluntary contributions of flowers from her subjects, but the uncertainty of the time, manner and quality of the flowers was irritating to a queen of the English. In the winter the wild flowers of the fields and gardens withered, and the flower loving queen felt the loss more keenly than those less favored with the fortunes of life. With the wealth of an imperial nation at her back, she could not command the choice of flowers that a day laborer can obtain today. Out of this royal necessity grew the most famous garden of the world. With her own hands Queen Elizabeth laid out the grounds that were to produce and fructify the flowers for her drawing room. She started to raise flowers for her own personal gratification and ended by producing flowers and plants for the millions. No single desire of an impetuous queen ever yielded better fruit. On Queen Elizabeth's little flower garden the nation gazes today with national pride. Its original purpose of supplying the royal table with cut flowers is still observed, but that is a small, incidental feature of the Kew. The garden belongs to the nation, and it is the nation, the ignorant and unlettered as well as the wise and studious, that enjoys its fragrant flowers, its graceful trees and palms, and its balsamic herbs and plants.—Lippincott's Magazine.

The Cook Was Innocent.

The polite agent for the new parlor phonograph who knocked at the door insisted that the old lady who opened it place the tubes in her ears, and listen to one song. She need not buy—a pleasure to exhibit it—"just try it once, madam," etc. "This song you will hear, madam," he said as he held the tubes doubtfully to her ears. "Is My Darling, Puck a Daisy From My Gate," as sung by Leopoldo Merliari, the famous New York tenor." The agent started the machine up, but the old lady dropped the tubes and said: "Jest hold on a minute till I come back. That dratted cook's opening another can of tomatoes in the kitchen with a table knife."—Detroit Free Press.

The average weight of a dozen eggs is about 21½ ounces. One-eighth of this entire weight may be regarded as nitrogenous and nutritious matter, a greater proportion than that of meat or of the oyster.

In the third crusade a single stone from an English engine killed 12 Turks, and after the truce was shown to Saladin as a curiosity.

Excited Wife—Oh, professor, the cook has fallen and broken her collar bone! Professor—Discharge her or once! You told her what to expect if she broke anything more.
