TEMPERANCE COLUMN.

Contributed by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Hamstead, N. B.

Rise up ye Women that are at Ease

THE BAPTIST UNION OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND.

At the anniversary of the Baptist Union recently held in London the sermons and addresses on missionary and other subjects appear to have been marked by that high degree of excellence which is characteristic of those meetings, and the discussion excited at least the ordinary degree of interest. The death of Dr.
James Spurgeon, who would have presided over the meetings of the Union, made it necessary to elect a president, and Dr. John Clifford was chosen to that office.

As usual in these meetings, the subject of Missions was given the first place of prominence. In connection with the 107th report of the Missionary Society, Mr. A. H. Baynes said: "It is impossible to read it without feeling devoutly thankful. There are large additions to the native churches, additions to the number of 1,400; the fields are wider; the number of English and native agents has been increased; there is large extension in the elementary day schools, Sunday Schools and Christian Endeavor Societies, and there is enlarged liberality in the church at home." Special reference was made to the success which has attended the work of the Society in the Congo country, where, after twenty years, five unwritten languages have been reduced to character, and portions of the Scriptures have been printed in them, and eight native evangelists are supported by native Christians, not a few of whom were Cannibals before their conversion. It is hoped that the effort to raise the annual income of the Society to £100,000 will be successful.

It is interesting to note that one of the largest and most enthusiastic meetings of the week was that of the Total Abstinence Society. The twenty-fifth annual report of the society shows that—

"Seventy-five ministers have become members of the association during the year. The total ministerial membership is now 1,735. The returns from our Colleges show that about 99 per cent. of the students are total abstainers. Thirteen societies have been either commenced or re-started, and the number of adult pledges taken have been 1,297. Returns have been received showing that 167 new Bands of Hope have been formed during the year, bringing the total of Baptist Societies of which we have information up to 1,652. As many as 378 churches report that they have no temperance organizations at all. One hundred and ninety-nine churches have adopted unfermented wine at the Lord's Table during the year, bringing our total up to 1,544.
As many as 498 churches report that they still use an alcoholic wine."

Among the speakers of the evening were Sir Wilfred Lawson and Dr. Clifford.
Sir Wilfred quoted Lord Wolsely as saying in reference to the enemies of the country: "We have one worse than all the rest put together, and that is strong drink." We pay £50,000,000 annually to keep the others out; but how much do we pay for what the drink does in promoting crime, misery and pauperism?
And you great fools pay the money for all that. But the bishops are coming round to our way of thinking, and after that what may we not expect? When Archbishop Temple was Bishop of London he went down to a meeting in Exeter, and in the course of his speech said, "I was never drunk in my life," and the next morning on the posters appeared, "Startling statement by a bishop."

Dr. Clifford felt that in view of the work accomplished by the Society and the position it had come to occupy in connection with the Union, it was a time for rejoicing and thanksgiving. But many things seem to indicate that the forces with which teetotalers had to contend were for the time being in the ascendancy.
Notwithstanding the growing numbers and influence of total abstainers the drink bill of the country was increasing; excluding teetotalers, the drink bill was now £5 a head, higher than it had ever been in the history of the nation. Dr. Clifford quoted from leading public men and influential newspapers strong statements in reference to the drink traffic:

"Mr. Chamberlain had described the trade as a swollen tyranny. Sir Wilfred Lawson had said that it was one of the most portentous features of the time.
Lord Roseberry had remarked, 'Unless the State controls the liquor traffic, the liquor traffic will control the State.' It was indeed doing so now. Lord Roseberry's opinion was not that of a misguided total abstainer. The drink traffic was the great factor in our political life, and the controller of the policy of the country. It had been reported that three hundred and eighty members of Parliament were prepared to vote for almost anything that might be asked for by the traders in drink. In such a situation temperance men must unquestion-ably take to their heart lamentation and mourning, but out of the lamentation there ought to come quickened consecration to the fight to which God summoned them against this terrific evil. 'A priest-ridden country,' said Mr. Chamberlain, 'was very much to be pitied. A publican-ridden country was very much to be despised.' And Mr. Chamberlain further said that he looked forward to the time when a political party should proclaim 'war to the knife' against this swollen tyranny. Such a party already existed.

The temperance party had declared war to the knife against the traffic, and they would not cease to strike their blows until that traffic was underneath their feet."

Dr. Clifford spoke of the money made by the liquor business as "stained through and through with the blood of men." In conclusion he spoke eloquently of what the Anglo-Saxon had accomplished in the cause of human liberty.
They had fought and struck effective blows against crowned and mitred tyrannies under Oliver Cromwell and men of his stamp, and they now had upon them the responsibility of leadership in emancipating men everywhere from the tyranny of drink.

Forget the Unpleasant Things.

Forget everything aggravating and disagreeable just as quickly as possible.
Don't remember the hurt, the sting, the disappointment, the pain long enough to have it settle down into the subconscious-ness and root around there. It is astonishing how these things do 'ake root,' and how, when we seem to have forgotten them, they suddenly rise and confront us.
Perhaps when we are feeling our best and happiest the shadow looms up, bringing back a vivid reminder of the old condition.

To learn to forget is to form the habit of having nothing to remember, and that is the most blessed of all states. We cannot reach this beautiful goal at a bound, but we can trudge along faithfully and comfortably every day and have a good time on the trip if we only will to have it.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The undersigned having been restored to health by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease Consumption, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it, he will cheerfully send (free of charge), a copy of the prescription used, which they will find a sure cure for Consumption, Asthma, Catarrh, Bronchitis and all Throat and Lung Maladies. He hopes all sufferers will try his remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing, will please address.

REV. EDWARD A. WILSON,
33-lyr.
Brooklyn, New York

When the halter is put on the colt's head for the first time and we pull at it, everyone is fully aware that the colt will go backwards; but we rarely stop to consider why this is so. But the colt feels that he has got his head into some kind of a trap, and he knows but one way to get it out and that is to pull his head out of the halter.

If he got his head fast in the fence or anywhere else, he would go backward to get it out and would struggle even to the breaking of his neck if he did not succeed.
If he gets his front foot over a bar or a barbed wire fence, he will go backward to pull it out.

If he gets his hind foot fast, he invariably goes forward to pull it out. Therefore the hitching of the balky horse by the tail will oftener succeed in pulling the load without a fight than any other known process.

COOK'S ANODYNE LINIMENT.

Humorous.

"I called on Perkins last evening," remarked Mr. Brown.
"Did you have a pleasant time," inquired Mrs. Brown.
Very. Perkins was beating his wife when I came in."
"What?"
"I say Perkins was beating his wife, but of course he stopped when I came in."
"Well, I should hope so."
"I begged him to go right on, but he said some other time would do just as well."
"You begged him to go right on?"
"Why, yes, I didn't want to spoil the fun, you know."
"Oh, you brute!"
"Do you mean to say you could have looked calmly on while he beat his wife?"
"Certainly, why not?"
"I thought you had at least a spark of manhood left. I suppose you will be beating me next."
"Yes, I think I could if you would play cribbage with me."
"Play cribbage?"
"Yes. That is what Perkins and his wife were doing."
"You horrid thing!"
