Canada The Great Cry in England.

Mr. J. W. Lester, an old Toronto Boy, interviewed.

EXPERIENCES IN BUSINESS.

Canadian Goods, Owing to their Undeniable Merit, in Favor in Old London.

(From the Mail and Empire.)

A gentleman who has done much to bring Canada before the people of the Old Country is Mr. J. W. Lester, of London, England, who is at present a guest at the Queen's hotel. Mr. Lester is an enthusiastic Canadian, having, prior to his sittings in London, been a prominent business man of this city, and an interview with him touching the spread of Canadian trade in the Old Land proved of more than usual interests.

"Canada for the Canadians used to be the cry," here," said Mr. Lester, while seated in the corridor of the hotel on Saturday, "but I tell you now we Englishmen," and he smiled, "think Canada is for the Britisher. Why, we are all Britishers. When first I went to London, not much more than three years ago, hanged if they did not look upon a Canadian as an American. Everywhere you went they knew your accent, at least they thought they did, and you were stamped "American" at once. No use correcting them. Canadian was an unknown, another part of the United States as it were.

"The Jubilee helped Canada a little, but the glorious stand of our brave boys in this war in South Africa, who volunteered without being first asked by the Motherland, has cemented the ties between the Old Land and Canada as nothing else ever could.

"Yes there is New Zealand and Australia, India, and all the other cubs of the British lion, but Jack Canuck is the favorite son of John Bull, the big, staunch cub of a great and powerful sire.

"The merit of the Canadian is now fully recognized in London. I find that Canadians who enter into business over there are always successful. Canadian goods are very popular, not because they are from the Dominion, but on account of the fact of them being Canadian stamps them as worthy of approval. My personal experience is that a Canadian will do business there where an American now will not.

"The English business man is very conservative, but the spread of our business, the Canadian firm which I represent in London, has been phenomenal. There is a great building up of the Empire going on, and Canada is in the front piling up the great structure-trade."

At this juncture Mr. R. C. Davidson, of Melbourne, Australia, a former Torontonion came along and was introduced by Mr. Lester.

A word from Mr. Davidson was very gratifying on the same subject. Canada, formerly very little thought of, is now watched keenly in the Antipodes, he says. Canadian goods are great favorites with the Australians, and during the past two years many Dominion trade agencies have been established there.

Both Mr. Lester and Mr. Davison have come to Toronto to attend the annual meeting of the Dodd's Medicine Company, Limited, when managers of the foreign branches of the company assemble from all sections of the globe to discuss the business campaign for the ensuing year.

"As you know," continued Mr. Lester, "I left Toronto a few years ago to establish a London office for the Dodd's Medicine Company, and at the same time Mr. Davison here left for Australia with the same object in view. The sale and reputation of these goods had spread so fast that the establishment of these two offices was absolutely necessary. The remedies have proved so efficacious that in England as in Canada they have come to stay."

"And in Australia, too," put in Mr. Davison.

"Why," continued Mr. Lester, "I understand the business of the company has spread in the United States, too, that the sales there are something enormous. But it is the spread of the sale of Dodd's Kidney Pills in England of which they are most proud, because the Englishman is such a conservative and cautious purchaser. However, the company were satisfied to place these pills and also Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets before the public and wait for the merit of the medicines to speak for themselves, and I tell you they have. They are every bit as popular and heavy sellers in the trade in England as they are in Canada, and you know what that is."

"A reliable cure for kidney disease is worth its weight, not in gold, but in diamonds, and the Englishman realizes this. There are so many imitations, you know, that do more harm than good, and will never sell in this great world.

"Why, to-day you read of some 'great' remedy, and in a few months it is gone, and as dead as many a poor sufferer who has used the 'just as good article.' Dodd's Kidney Pills have been here in Canada for years and years, and are just what they are advertised to be.

"Without any foreign advertising the virtues of Dodd's Kidney Pills had spread to such an extent that it was found necessary to establish a branch in London to supply the European trade. They are now being just as well received by the European public as in Canada and the United States, where they have been selling for years.

"Australia has always been in touch with the Old Land, more so than Canada, and with the increase of the London business that in the Antipodes grew proportionately, as Mr. Davison has already told you."

Mr. Lester will be in Canada for about three weeks, and Mr. Davison for perhaps a little longer. They are both shrewd business men, and just such Canadians as will not only push their own business, but in doing so, bring before the outside world Canada and its trade resources.

Why He Was Arrested.

There is such a thing as being altogether clever.

You think so?
I know it. I was walking along the street yesterday when I noticed a $5 note lying on the pavement. I stopped to pick it up, but it looked like a counterfeit, so I passed on.

And the note turned out to be a good one of course.

No, it did not, but I was arrested before I had gone many steps farther?

Arrested? What for?

For passing counterfeit money.

Maude—Mr. De Jones asked me to sing for him the other evening after we had been introduced.

Clara—And what did you sing?

Maude—Why, how do you know that I sang at all?

Clara—Well, I noticed that he didn't ask you to sing to-night.

An irascible old judge, being annoyed by a young lawyer speaking to him about a legal point in the street, threatened to fine him for contempt of court.

"Why, judge," said the young attorney, "you are not in session."

"I'd have you know," angrily responded the judge, "that this court is always a subject for contempt."

How to Grow Onions.

Onions, like some other farm crops, require a large amount of labor to give the best results. But if given good cultivation and the weeds are kept down they make nice large onions. On the average farm onions are grown from sets, but the best are produced from seed, as there are not enough sets to go round. I have grown them from seed and have experienced on a small scale with planting the little ones the second year. This plan gave good returns, but I could not get enough little onions.

The soil for onions should be fertile, sandy, well underdrained so that it will not pack after every rain. It is best to apply a good coating of barnyard manure, but a great objection is that it always contains a large amount of weed seed. A fair amount of sand is an advantage if the soil is sufficiently retentive to resist droughts.

Begin to get the soil in shape two or three years beforehand. First sow as much clover as possible to increase the fertility of the soil. Also plant hoed crops to kill out as many weeds as possible, for weeds are one of the greatest barriers to success. Barnyard manure and hen manure are good fertilizers to be applied before planting. For the onions to make a good growth the ground must be plowed as early as possible, about the 1st of April and not later than the 30th. They will make a crop planted a month later, but they will get only half as large. The ground cannot be in too fine a condition and should be harrowed and dragged several times. I get the ground a free from clods and trash as possible, frequently raking it with a common garden hand rake.

To plant the seed, which is generally the Wethersfield variety, I use a garden drill which marks the next row, has an adjustable shovel and plants uniformly. I drill the rows about 13 inches apart, planting six or ten seeds per foot. I would advise every farmer who plants very much garden to buy one of these drills, which sows any sized garden seed. I cultivate the onions as soon as they are large enough. The ground soon packs and the weeds make an early start. They should be plowed at least after every rain, as the ground then runs together and crowds out the young plants. They also have to be hand hoed, as the weeds cannot be plowed out of the row. For getting clear of these weeds I use a common knife. It is very hard work whatever is used.

The plough we use runs astride the row and is a double wheel hoe with double hoes. It has several attachments, some cutting horizontally and some cutting vertically. The former are best for cultivating the plants when small, because they throw the dirt away from the row. When the bulbs begin to enlarge, the latter may be used. The onions are pulled as soon as the tops turn yellow. Then they are topped and dried and laid away on shelves so they will not heat. The foregoing is the onion growing programme of a New England Homestead correspondent.

Drowned in Dyspeptic Despair.

Are Thousands of Suffering Canadians, Like the stab of a knife it catches you in the side, or sends agonizing pangs through the pit of your stomach after eating. It worries and wears you till your nerves give out, and, like a drowning man, you feel you are sinking day by day and help can not reach you. In this you are mistaken. No matter how deep you have sunk, PETTY'S will reach you. As the fabled Mermaid is said to seek and soothe the drowned, so will the real PETTY'S seek your trouble and soothe your pain. Indigestion, biliousness, headache, and that despondent feeling that makes so many lives miserable, depart when PETTY'S are called in. No other medicine is compounded with such care, no other is so pure, so effective as DR. PETTY'S PILLS.

D. L. Jones Esq., B.A. B.Sc. (London) the well-known chemical analyst and scientist, writes as follows: "I have analyzed DR. PETTY'S PILLS, and find they contain PURE SUBSTITUTED ACTIVE PRINCIPLES ONLY of the various elements of the prescription from which they are compounded, earning the best results from the smallest possible dose."

50 cents a bottle, 9 bottles for $2.50, all druggists or from The Dr. Petty Medicine Company, St. John, N. B.
