

It gives us much pleasure to inform our readers that a new branch of business is about to be commenced in this Province—that of a Cotton Manufactory. Mr. Kingston is now on his way out in the Packet Ship Liberia, with the necessary machines for carrying on the manufacture of cotton stuffs, and we heartily wish him every success in this undertaking. Mr. K. was for several years the manager of a large factory in Norway; and as he contrived to keep his looms agoing there in the midst of winter, we are confident he will be able to do so in New-Brunswick. We augur satisfactory results from this attempt, and we hope Mr. Kingston is the harbinger of many men of enterprise who will follow his example and settle in this country, the advantages of which are only now beginning to be made known and appreciated in Great Britain.

DEATH WHILE ON THE WAY TO THE ALTAR.—A Maine paper relates the following:—A young man by the name of Edmund Slatterly, while on his way from Franklin to Milford, on Sunday week, to be married, met with a singular and fatal accident. He stopped at a well to water his horse, when the bucket fell into the well. He descended to obtain it, when the well caved in and buried him. He was a native of Ireland. His intended wife was accompanying him on the journey, when this singular death thus intervened to destroy their bright anticipations.

The sessions are to be held forenoon and evenings for four days, and the object will be, to promote the cause of Temperance generally, and especially to adopt measures to secure the passage and enforcement of prohibitory laws in every State and every government.

The night Express train from Boston on the New Haven Railroad, was thrown off the track on Tuesday night, near Port Chester. The engineer was instantly killed, and the fireman badly injured. The locomotive and baggage cars were smashed, but no passengers were injured.

A man applied to the City Agent for two gallons of rum for "mechanical purposes." "For what mechanical purposes?" inquired the agent. "For raising a barn," was the reply.

As an offset to the story of the "ox that gives milk," Jem, an acquaintance and friend of the editor of the Boston Post, wants him to say that he, Jem, has a cow that doesn't!

The convert to Roman Catholicism supposed to be senator Douglas, turns out to be J. R. Chandler, member of Congress from Philadelphia, who has been a Catholic for many years.

The deaths from yellow fever at New Orleans during the week ending the 23rd ult. are estimated by the Bulletin at 500. The disease was raging to an extent beyond all precedent.

"This gentleman is said to be very wealthy, and is a member of the Provincial Government, and of the Legislative Council, and is therefore entitled to a little extra notice. In March 1851, we sent our paper to a number of gentlemen who were not then subscribers, with a request, in large type, that all who did not wish it continued would return the first number; some few were sent back, but Mr. Hazen's was retained until June 1852, when a number was returned marked "Refused." We wrote to Mr. Hazen stating that we thought there must be some mistake, as he would surely not send the paper back without paying for the time he had received it, to this note we received no reply, and the paper was continued until June 1853, when another number was returned, marked "Refused." In July we sent his bill to our Agent in St. John, who called on Mr. Hazen and requested payment. The reply was, "I did not order the paper, and will not pay for it," and this was after he had received it nearly two and a half years. Comment is unnecessary, the facts speak for themselves.

—OF—

THE UNION,

A Semi-weekly Journal, devoted to Politics, Literature, and General Intelligence.

The Union will be protective in political economy, and will advocate many measures of practical reform, to the utmost of the Editor's ability; at the same time it will oppose such innovations as he may consider injurious to the country. But the old party names of Tory, Conservative, Liberal, Radical, &c., which have of late years been put on and off so often by unprincipled men, to suit their own selfish purposes, will be utterly disregarded.

It will be kept free from government, and every other improper influence, and will comment freely upon the conduct of public men, without regard to persons or politics. It shall expose and denounce with unsparring hand the selfishness, corruption, and speculation now prevailing in the three branches of the government, and prove a scourge to all evil-doers.

One of its chief objects will be to effect a union of the British North American Colonies, the Publisher believing such union absolutely necessary, not only for the preservation of our liberties, and to prevent the spread of annexation principles, but to secure the benefits of home commerce, and protect the industry of our artisans, agriculturists, mechanics, and other operatives.

While it will oppose priestcraft and superstition on the one hand, and fanaticism on the other, it will advocate equal religious and political rights and privileges for all classes of Her Majesty's subjects who obey the laws of the land.

The Union will be a staunch and unswerving supporter of that Great and Glorious Union of Protestants known as "THE LOYAL ORANGE ASSOCIATION;" it will strenuously urge the necessity of renewed energy among the members, the extension of the order, and a closer and more effective political union. If there be any lukewarm Protestants who object to this union, on the ground that it is unnecessary, let them reflect upon the incidents enumerated below, which have all occurred within the last eighteen months.

In Rome the Inquisition has been re-established in all its barbarism, while the Protestant Chapel attached to the American Embassy has been closed by the Vatican, and no Protestant is now allowed to worship God in his own way within the walls of the city.

In Tuscany the Media, and others, were thrust into loathsome dungeons for reading the Protestant Bible.

In Spain a Royal Decree was issued, ordering every foreigner travelling in that country, and not professing the Roman Catholic religion, to be arrested and thrown into prison.

In France the Jesuits have been restored to power, and Protestants have been subjected to renewed persecution.

In Ireland, at the late general election, the priests in several instances threatened excommunication to such of their flocks as dared support a conservative candidate. In one instance they led an infuriated mob to attack an unoffending body of troops, and when the troops fired in self defence they attempted to swear their lives away.

The election committee of the House of Commons, recently, in declaring the Clare election null and void, denounced this pair of "Reverend Fathers"—Messrs Burke and Clune—by name; they also denounced priestly interference in the Sligo election, which is also declared void.

In England the Romish clergy assumed titles to which they had no right, thereby incurring a penalty; but they set the law at defiance. And in the House of Commons they had the influence to defeat a motion for throwing open the nunneries to government inspection, in the event of any complaint being made by the inmates.

In Quebec a Roman Catholic mob attacked a lecturer in a Protestant church while a Roman Catholic Police stood passively looking on.

In Montreal a Roman Catholic mob, having attacked a Protestant church in order to get at the same lecturer, a Roman Catholic Mayor suffered the rioters to escape, and ordered a detachment of troops to fire upon the inoffensive congregation, as they emerged from the church, thereby killing eleven persons and wounding about twenty others!

What a record of Papistical bigotry and persecution during the last eighteen months! It but proves (what every rational person must admit) that a church professedly governed by her Councils, with the cruel and bloody decrees or the Council of Trent still extant—a church believing that all out of its pale must be damned, and that coercion is charity!—can never be tolerant, and that union among Protestants is necessary for self-protection.

To those who wish to see the conduct of our public men faithfully watched, and their misdeeds animadverted on with due severity—to all who cherish dearly as their lives the great principles of Protestantism, and to the members of the Loyal Orange Association in particular, the Publisher looks with confidence for a generous support.

"The Union" will be issued on Tuesday and Friday mornings. It will be conducted strictly upon the cash system. The terms will be 10s. per annum, payable yearly or half-yearly in advance. Single copies will be sold at 1 1/2d. each. Advertisements inserted at the usual rates.
