The Carleton Sentinel.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 2, 1854.

TO OUR READERS.—Our readers will perceive that we still continue to send forth the Sentinel, (notwithstanding all the melancholy events of which our village has been subject too of late,) and with it we renew not only our congratulations, but our assurances to continue a faithful and unpersevering spokesman, for the people of the County at large.

Since the late Editor (James S. Segee,) had the management of the Sentinel, it had always advocated the interests of the people of the County and in no case had he ever neglected to lay before the public, those things which the County most needed; the columns of the paper have been devoted to their interests, and the channel of communication by which, and through which they have held converse with each other and discussed matters of theory and of fact, which concerned not only their individual welfare, but the prosperity of their County. Therefore the course that has been so productive of good to the past, must certainly be a good guide for the future, and we shall endeavor by all possible means to continue it. Though the appearance of the present progress is slow, yet those who have been conversant with the progress that has been made within the past year, and the state of affairs a few years previous, cannot but exclaim, that the Sentinel has worked wonderful changes in our County up to the present. The continuance of progress is what we should all desire to attain, and all strive to facilitate. We say continuance of progress, for we all allow that perfection is not attainable while in a mortal state, and as this progress is nothing more than new developments of the laws of nature as adapted to the business of all our callings and vocations of life, it will be seen that we must be continuous, if we would improve. Hence it is incumbent on all persons, in whatever standing in society they may be placed, to try and investigate facts relating to useful affairs, which may be the means of benefiting their Country, and likewise their fellow men.

In the course of time, and as the years pass on, we miss now and then some active and valued co-laborer that has stood foremost in our ranks.— Their labors have been closed on earth—they have been called to perform duties and uses in a happier and more ethereal sphere, but their places have soon become filled with others, and these profiting by the renewed experience of their predecessors, and prompted by the demands of their own inquiring minds, soon mount the stage of a wearisome and laborious life, to bring forth treasures, both new and old, and add some new store to the knowledge already attained, and thus it is he journeys on, only for to join his predecessor, in that sphere from which no traveller returns.

It is with great pleasure that we announce to our readers that the health of our village within the past week, has been decidedly good, owing we should think to the timely precautions that has been taken by many of our citizens, and likewise the indefatigable exertions that has been made by the Health Committee, in ferreting out those places where nuisance had been left to remain, thereby endangering the lives of the inhabitants, even in the most healthiest time of the year, and having said filth forthwith removed. But, we have yet to state, that there are many cellars, yards, out-houses &c., which it would be well for their owners to attend to in time ere yet it may be too late. Let them not for a moment think, that owing to the present cool weather, that we are free from that scourge which has visited St. John and other villages and has left them almost deserted of its inhabitants. No, for it has been proved that, so long as such nuisance and filth are permitted to remain about their premises, so long do they endanger their own lives, and the lives of their neighbors. So far, however, Providence has been pleased to stay the destroying hand which has summoned so many from among our friends and neighbors in other sections of the Province, and we fervently hope, that before a week passes over, that we may have that joyful news to put forth that that frightful scourge has entirely made its disappearance from our Province.

"The crops continue to exhibit an appearance which we never recollect to see surpassed in this district. The Grass Crop is heavy, and thus far well secured, and Potatoes, Oats, Corn and all the minor root crops present a most luxuriant appearance. The market, however, is ill supplied."

The above extract we clip from the Fredericton Reporter, and which, we are happy to say, creditably agrees with the various statements as regarding the prosperity and successfulness which the crops in this and other parts of our County are in. We are informed by nearly every farmer whom we have conversed with upon this subject, that, for many years past our County, and in fact the whole Province at large, never was in a more prospering condition than at the present time, altho' the weather has been very unfavorable during some parts of the summer.

Many farmers, it is true, did not commence operations until very late in the season, whom, we are now afraid the frost will do much damage too, but, up to the present time, everything, in fact, appears to be in a flourishing state.

Some of our farmers have already been complaining of the rust, &c., while others, again, are complaining of the rot, with which we are so often frequented. The loss by rot and rust this year will be nothing to be compared with that of years past. The loss, we know, for many years past has been heavy and rendered many a poor hard-laboring farmer helpless—but this year, we think, there will be a profit made.

Many of our exchanges state that the Potatoe as well as the other crops are in a healthful and luxuriant state, this is undoubtedly pleasing to our farmers as well as the whole community.

It was estimated several years since, "that the Potatoe will prove to be the king of all other roots. If we can get rid of the rot, this must be a most profitable crop. We have heard of instances where 600 bushels or more have been raised upon a single acre of land—well, at one shilling and three pence the bushel, this must give an immense profit.

The Wheat Crop looks remarkably well; it is progressing prosperously, and will, no doubt, yield the farmers of this, as well as other Counties, an abundant supply far superior and far more profitable than that ever yet known. But we are sorry to say, that the weevil is making its ravages in some of the fields in our locality. This, we are afraid, will cause considerable loss to our wheat sowers—more, probably, than they imagine or really expect, but as there is no remedy for this destructive plague we will have to bear the consequences, be what they may.

It may be a little out of season, just now, to give our readers a jog in regard to using clover as a dressing for wheat. No matter; perhaps you will bear it in mind during the winter, and supply yourself with a sufficiency of clover seed—both red and white—in order to sow them liberally in the spring. Think of it, farmers, and here is a question in the mean time. Did you ever know a
