LIFE IN DELHI

the interior state of Delhi in May and June is most interesting: -

I reached Delhi on the 21st May, 1857, and stayed there till the 23d June. On my arrival there I saw five infantry regiments and the Sowars of the 3d cavalry, who were sta-

The calassies filled their houses with fine blacksmiths' tools, weapons, and gun-caps, which they sell by degrees, at the rate of two seers per rupee. In these successful days, the highest price of a musket was eight annas; however the people feared to buy it; a fine European sword was dear for four annas, and one anna was too much for a good bayonet.

Pouches and belts were so common that the owners could not get anything for this booty of theirs. A MEDICAL REVOLUTION! THE WORLD UNANIMOUS!

The Great Counter Irritant! THE virus of disease often makes its way to the inter-I nal organs through the pores of the skin. This penetrating Ointment, melting under the hand as it is rubbed in, is absorbed through the same channels, and, reaching the seat of inflammation, promptly and invariably subdues it, whether located in the kidneys, the liver, the lungs, or any other important organ. It penetrates the surface to the interior, through the countiess tubes that communicate with the skin, as summer rain passes into the feestablishment (formerly occupied by Henry vered earth, diffusing its cool and regenerating influence
