Kissing an Empress .- It is said that the empress Eugenie was unexpectedly and vigorously kissed by a stranger, on the night of the attempted assassination. A young fellow named Lippman, a footman, was lunching at a neighboring cafe when the explosion occurred. He went out into the crowd, and seeing how things stood, without standing upon etiquette, rushed up to the Emperor and gave him several hearty shakes of the hand, and then taking the empress in his arms, kissed her a dozen times. In the surprise and confusion the young fellow had his own way, and Eugenie, afterwards giving an account of the affair, said, " And I was kissed with warmth by some person, but by whom I cannot conceive." TETHE public do not require to be told that a mild, safe and reliable cathartic, in a liquid form, agreeable to the taste, and one which purges without violence, is a desideratum in medicine; this fact will be admitted by all. Such a discovery has been often attempted, but without success, until the introduction of the above-named remedy. No patent medicine ever met with such ready approval by physicians as this. Many regular practitioners are asing it daily, all of whom have spoken of it in the highest terms of praise. Persons, for the want of a better, have been obliged to resort to the use of those drastic, nauseous, and oftentimes injurious purgatives, such as castor oil, salts, senna, rhubarb, jallop, aloes, gamboge &c., all of which cause more or less debility, and fail to accomplish the object for which they are taken; en the contrary, they often increase the difficulty, and render the patient less curable. None of these enter into the composition of this invaluable remedy. It is composed of barks, roots and seeds, the medical properties of which are exactly adapted to the cure of those complaints for which it is recommended. By a combination of those properties, the public were put in possession of the most valuable preparation ever produced. This medicine is not intended simply as a cathartic; its value as such is insignificant when compared with its power of purifying the blood from all humors, regulating the action of the bowels, curing Dyspepsia, restoring the appetite, producing a healthy action of the Liver, freeing the stomach from bile, and invigorating and strengthening the whole system. It is a certain cure for the Piles, and those suffering from that complaint should give it a trial. It is also warranted to Complaints, such as Dysentery, Diarrhea, Cholera Morbus, &c., it will be found invaluable. Reader, as sure as the sun rises in the east, just so sure

Loss of Appetite, Indigestion, general Debility, &c., is often produced by wind in the Stomach, which this remedy will expel at once. It is also an excel-MANUFACTURED BY
