Desultory.

The force with which Sir Colin Campbell started from Cawnpore on the 12th November, on the expedicion of relief, consisted of about 8,000 men, and preparations commenced to carry it out .-- taken so much pains to procure. Leaving only a sufficient force to recover a retreat Woodstock, Dec. 3. the Brigade moved forward, taking a more circuitous route than that adopted by General Havelock and Sir James Outram, that the danger of a passage through the most densely peopled part of the city might be avoided. A line of strongly fortified sels and Side Hair; all of which will be taken in exhouses skirted the road chosen for the advance .- change for Tin-Ware by These were all in the occupation of the rebels and had to be dealt with in detail. The Martinier, an orphanage, improvised into a fortress, was the first formidable bulwark they encountered. A terrible resistance prolonged for several hours ended in the FIRE & LIFE INSURANCE COMPAN capture of the place. Driven from the post with great loss, the rebels speedily mustered again and made an assault on the position to regain it, but Thomas Brocklebank, Esquire, Chairman; were successfully repulsed. The next gauntlet was Joseph Christopher Ewart, Esq., M. P., and Francis Hay the Dil Khoosha (Heart's Delight,) one of a group | wood, Esq., Deputy Charmen. of Mahals or Palaces appropriated ordinarily to the Swinton Boult, Esq., Secretary. use of Wafid Ali Shah's 300 wives. Here a fierce conflict occurred with a result similar to the former instance. At a short distance beyond this point the city is intersected by a canal; pushing on they were soon across this impediment, and advancing straight on Secunderbaugh, they carried it after a severe and sanguinary struggle. The heavy loss sustained here by the insurgents was due to a strategic movement showing alike the value of skill in the leader, and discipline in the ranks. Declining the risk of a general engagement, the rebels main- Policy includes the risk from lightning. bugie to sound a retreat. The order was obeyed, but not without a murmur of mingled surprise and dissatisfaction. The men did not comprehend the device, and would rather have fought and fallen on the field than survive the disgrace of fleeing before a recreant rabble of Sepoys. killed were left in heaps upon heaps upon the field. Moving Great Weights .- The Pedestal of Peter the Great's statue, weighing 1,200 tons, was easily transported to St. Petersburg by division and distribution of the motive power. A similar method was employed nearly 4,000 years ago in moring those gigantic masses which astonish the tourist in Egypt. The weight of the monolithic temple of Latrna, which, according to Herodotus, was carried from Elphantine to Buto in the Delta, is computed at from 5,000 to 6,000 tons. This may appear somewhat apocryphal, but every Nile voyager knows the vast sitting statue of Rameses II. sn the Memnonium at Thebes, a single block of close grained syenite upwards of 60 feet ame hour, daily, Sundays excepted high, and weighing more than 897 tons, which was brought about B.C. 1850, from the granite quarries of Assouan a distance of nearly 130 miles, and must have been moved across a considerable interval (making every allowance for the inundation) between the quarry and the river, and again | nesday, and Saturday, at 4 P. A painting in the temb near the village of Dayre-Nakl, discovered by Irby and Mangles, showhow it was done. The painting represents a sitting figure, about 24 feet high, fixed on a wooden sledge with skait-shaped wooden runners, and dragged by four rows of men (43 in each) pulling at ropes attached to the front of the sledge, apparently along a plank road. At the feet of the statue a figure leans over and pours from a vase abundance of grease on the ways, and on its knees stands another beating time with his hands to make all pull together. A VERY THOUGHTFUL HUSBAND .- Wycherly, the age comedian, married a girl of eighteen when he was verging on eighty. Shortly after, Providence was pleased to eall the old man to another and a better world. But, ere he took his final departure from this, he summoned his young wife to his bedside, and told her he was dying; whereupon she wept TS pleasantly situated in the centre of the town, near the bitterly. VEGETABLE

THE public do not require to be told that a mild, safe and reliable cathartic, in a liquid form, agreeable to the taste, and one which purges without violence, is a desideratum in medicine; this fact will be admitted by all. Such a discovery has been often attempted, but without success, until the introduction of the above-named remedy. No patent medicine ever met with such ready approval by physicians as this. Many regular practitioners are asing it daily, all of whom have spoken of it in the highest terms of praise. Persons, for the want of a better, have been obliged to resort to the use of those drastic, nauseous, and oftentimes injurious purgatives, such as castor oil, salts, senna, rhubarb, jallop, aloes, gamboge, &c., all of which cause more or less debility, and fail to accomplish the object for which they are taken; on the contrary, they often increase the difficulty, and render the patient less curable. None of these enter into the composition of this invaluable remedy. It is composed of barks, roots and seeds, the medical properties of which are exactly adapted to the cure of those complaints for which it is recommended. By a combination of these properties, the public were put in possession of the most valuable preparation ever produced. This medicine is not intended imply as a cathartic; its value as such is insignificant when compared with its power of purifying the blood from all humors, regulating the action of the bowels, curing Dyspepsia, restoring the appetite, producing a healthy action of the Liver, freeing the stomach from bile, and invigorating and strengthening the whole system. It is a eertain cure for the Piles, and those suffering from that complaint should give it a trial. It is also warranted to cure canker in its worst forms. For all diseases of the Bowels it cannot be recommended too highly. In Summer

Complaints, such as Dysentery, Diarrhæa, Cholera Morbus. &c., it will be found invaluable. Reader, as sure as the sun rises in the east, just so sure you will be benefitted by the use of this medicine for any of the above complaints; and as surely will it relieve those suffering from Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Tie Doloureux, Gout, Headache, and Pain in the Side and Stomach, caused by Flatulency. Loss of Appetite, Indigestion, general Debility, &c., is often produced by wind in the Stomach. which this remedy will expel at once.
