The cause of this bloody act is said to have been jealousy, arising from some display of coquetry at a ball the preceding Sunday, where the prettiest of the girls, the one 21 years of age, refused to dance with one of the assassins, or to return him a ring or some other love token. He had then looked for an accomplice, and found one in a heighbor. The accomplice, it appears from the story of the child, would have spared the younger ones, but the other alleging the danger of discovery, insisted upon their completing their butcher's work. PERUVIAN SYRUP! OR. PROTECTED Solution of Protoxide of Iron. Having successfully passed the ordeal to which new discoveries in the Materia Medica are subjected, must now be received as an established medicine. ITS EFFICACY IN CURING now beyond question. The proofs of its efficacy are so numerous, so well authenticated, and of such peculia haracter, that sufferers cannot reasonably esitate to receive the proffered aid. The Peruvian Syrup does not profess to be a cure-all, but its range is extensive, because many diseases, apparently unlike, are intimately related, and, proceeding from one canse, may be cured by one remedy. The class of diseases for which the Syrup provides a cure, is precisely that which has so often buffled the highest order of medical skill. The facts are tangible, the witnesses are accessible, and the safety and efficacy of the Syrup incontrovertible Those who may wish for an opinion from disinterested persons respecting the character of the Syrup, cannot fail to be satisfied with the following, among numerous testimonials in the hands of the Agents The signatures are those of gentlemen well known in the community of Boston, and of the highest respectability.
