BISHOP CONNOLLY'S LETTER.
To the Editor of the Freeman.
Sir:—After a residence of nearly seven years in the Province of New Brunswick, a sense of imperative duty constrains me to appear for the first time in the columns of a newspaper. With the consciousness of the grave responsibilities of my position as a Catholic Bishop and Pastor of eighty thousand people in a country where Protestants are in a majority, and where the demon of religious hate has done, and is still doing, his worst, I cannot but feel deeply grieved, and I would have been very sorry to see any individual, and remained silent amid every sort of provocation, in order to preserve the peace. This hallowed rule I would have religiously abided by to the end, but for an extraordinary circumstance which has occurred within the last week, and which causes me to alter my former intention. Sir, in your journal of the 16th inst. I find a report of a speech made by Judge Wilmet, at a recent Bible Meeting in this city, in which tone and character is like the Judge himself, and which from his own silence on the subject, and that of the Church Wines and the other religious community, I take to be substantially correct. In that speech he is represented as having said that—

"He came there a Protestant, a Bible Protestant, and the God of the Bible who saw his heart, knew that he never made a statement on that platform, which in his heart he did not believe to be true. What was the grievance against him? It was, it was regarded for Frederick Powers that was the iron of those Ecclesiastical powers? No, it was their system that was assailed. Did they hope to intimidate him? He had a secret to tell them, but not a secret of the Confessional, which goes down to a seep and remains there. Last year he lectured on Nineveh, and invited any Catholics who may be present to study their Bible, and he had no ill feeling against Catholics; it was their religious system, he thought, that was assailed. He would not be permitted to procure them for any who would apply to him. Next day two called, a man in the morning and a woman in the evening, and they told him where their Bibles could be bought, and he got Bibles for them. These Ecclesiastical did well then from their own point of view, and acted as if they were in forbidding Roman Catholics the use of the Bible for it was wholly opposed to their system, a system which had been called the mystery of iniquity, a system the most odious and detestable, excluding from man's soul the light of God's truth, and crushing all his faculties. He had no ill feeling against Catholics; it was their religious system, he thought, that was assailed. He would not be permitted to procure them for any who would apply to him.
