FASHIONABLE WOMEN .- Pashion kills more women than toil and sorrow. Obedience to fashion is a greater transgression of the laws of woman's nature, a greater injury to her physical and mental constitution, than the hardships of poverty and neglect. The slave woman at her tasks will live and grow old, and see two or three generations of her mistresses fade and pass away. The washerwoman, with scarcely a ray of hope to cheer her in her toils, will live to see her fashionable sisters all die around her. The kithen maid is hearty and strong, when her lady has to be nursed like a sick baby. It is a sul truth that fashion pampered women are almost worthless for all the great ends of life. They have but little force of character; they have still less power of moral will, and quite as hade physical en fix. They live for no great parpose in life; they accomp so no worthy ends. They are only dell forms in the hands of milliners and servants. Sew Brunswick & Canada Railway. n body, and save nobody. They write no books; they set no rice examples of virtue and womanly life. If they rear children, servants and nurses de all, save to conceive and give them birth. And when reared what are they? What do they ever amount to, but weak r seions of the old stock? Who ever heard of a fashi nable woman's child exhibiting any virtue or power of mind for which It became eminent? Read the biographies of our great and go d men and women. Not one of them from s rong minded wo nen, who had about as little to do with fashions as with the changing clouds.

A SEILFUL FEE FINDER -The Medical Times tells a story of Sir Richard Jebb which makes even rapacity comical. He was attending a nobleman from whom he had a right to expect five guineas: he received only three. Suspecting some trick on the part of the steward from whom he received it, he at the next visit contrived to drop the three gumeas. They were picked up, and again deposited in his hands; but he still continued to look on the carpet ' His Lordship asked if all the guineas were found. "There must be two still on the carpet, " replied Sir Richard, " for I have but three." The hint was taken as he meant.

streets, south side. THE Proprietor of this Establishment, thankful for favors received during the period he occupied the New Brunswick Hotel, and convinced of the necessity of more and better accommodation for the publie, has erected a large and substantial building in Unionstreet, capable of accommodating from seventy to eighty Boarders. This house is well ventilated; the sleeping rooms are large, and every flat is well supplied with water, and also lighted with gas. The proprietor is determined to leave no means untried to merit the patronage of the community. Travellers arriving late at night will find the house always open and ready to receive them; while the conveniences and moderate charges will render it emphatically the home of the stranger. The tables of this house will be supplied with the best the market affords, and the proprietor is determined to adhere strictly to the Total abstinence principle. Two large stables have been erected on the premises, capable of accommodating from sixty to seventy Horses.
