WHAT CAUSES CORNS IN THE FEET OF HORSES?—The question has frequently been asked me, “What are the causes of corns in the feet of horses?” As the question is one of considerable interest to many of your readers, I will endeavor to explain the most frequent causes. It is not unfrequently that the existing corns can be traced directly to the influence of improper shoeing; in fact I may say a very large majority of cases are so caused. The first and by far the most frequent cause, is contraction of the heels, which, in almost every case, is caused by our present erroneous mode of shoeing. In the first place, the smith bevels the shoe from without inwards, so that when secured to the foot, it prevents the natural expansion of the hoof, as it is impossible for it to expand up these inclined planes. When the weight of the animal is thrown upon them, it will be observed that the foot rests in a concavity, which, resisting the natural expansion of the hoof, gradually forces the heels inwards: and, to save a little trouble, the smith frequently hastens the process of contraction by cutting away the bars of the foot, thus weakening the quarters very considerably. These things are altogether wrong. If the bars were preserved sound, and the shoe made with level heel, we would seldom find a horse troubled with corns.

Another cause is making the shoe too narrow at the heels, causing unnatural pressure and bruise on that part of the sole between the bar and crust of the foot. When thus caused they are readily removed by cutting well out and applying some of the caustic applications, and the widening of the shoe. If caused by contraction, the cutting process and caustic applications are proper, with the additional trouble of restoring the natural elasticity of the hoof, which can best be done by poultices and a proper hoof ointment, and applying a shoe bevelled slightly outwards from the last nail-hole. The shoe should be hammered, but not twisted, as is sometimes done by the smith to save a little labor: the smith generally not regarding his extra labor as paid for. Better for you to pay him two prices and have the work done properly.

Corns are the cause, in most cases, of sprained knees. The horse, in order to relieve the feels from pressure, throws his weight mainly on the toe, thus relaxing the tendons and suspensory ligament of the leg, contraction of which naturally follows. As a proof of this assertion, examine for yourself the feet of sprung-kneed horses, and you will find a majority, if not four-fifths of them, with corns.

When the feet are not contracted, take pains to keep them by level shoeing, and preserving the elasticity of the hoofs. By a little attention to these matters, much suffering will be prevented, as well as time and money saved.—DR. JENNINGS, in Ohio Farmer.

TROUBLE.—BEECHER says we should brave them as the New England schoolboy braves winter. The school is a mile away over the hill, yet he lingers not by the fire—but with his books slung over his shoulders, and his cap tied closely under his chin, he sets forth to face the storm. And when he reaches the topmost ridge, where the powdered snow lies in drifts, and the north wind comes keen and biting, does he shrink and cower down beneath the fence, or run into the nearest house to warm himself? No, he buttons up his coat and rejoices to defy the blast, and tosses the snow wreaths with his foot, and, safe, and fearless, with strong heart and ready cheek, he goes on to his place at school. Now, when the fierce winds of adversity blow over you, and your life's summer lies buried beneath frost and snow, do not linger inactive, or sink cowardly down by the way, or turn aside from your course for momentary warmth and shelter, but with stout heart and firm step, go forward in God's strength to vanquish trouble and bid defiance to disaster. If there is ever a time to be ambitious, it is not when ambition is easy, but when it is hard. Fight in darkness; fight when you are down; die hard, and you won't die at all. That gelatinous man whose bones are not even mangled and whose muscles are pulp—that man is a coward.

The Rev. Mr. Martin, of Burlington Me., a man of decided talent and worth, was somewhat noted for his eccentricity and humor, which occasionally showed themselves in his public ministrations. In the time of the great land speculations in Maine, several of his prominent parishioners and church members were carried away with the mania of buying lumber tracts. Mr. Martin advised this speculating spirit, and more than once rebuked it in his sermons. One evening at his regular meeting, he noticed that several of his prominent men were absent, and he knew at once that they had gone to Bangor to attend a great land sale. After a hymn had been sung, he said—

“Brother Allen, will you lead us in prayer?”
Some one spoke up and said—
“He has gone to Bangor.”

Mr. Martin, not disconcerted in the least, called out—
“Deacon Barber, lead us in prayer!”
“He has gone to Bangor,” answered another.

Again the pastor asked—
“Squire Clark, will you pray?”

“The Squire has gone to Bangor,” said some one.

Mr. Martin, being now satisfied, looked round upon the little assembly as if the same reply would probably be given to every similar request, and very quietly said—

“The choir will sing Bangor, and then we will dismiss the meeting.”

Physicians say that Davis' Pain Killer is one of those nice little articles which is calculated to relieve an immense amount of suffering incident to human life. Its action on the system is many times like magic—so instantaneous—the pain is gone at once. Sold by all dealers in family medicines.

PITCHFARIN says in his Life of Alexander, that Babylonians used, during the dog-days, to sleep on skins filled with water. A Boston paper adds, that in these days men sleep on skins filled with bad rum.

“Yes, Mr. Robinson, men are tyrants. Poor wives can't even make their wills before they die.”

HUSBAND, (resignedly)—“Well, never mind, my dear; they manage to have their wills all their life-time.”

A testotter, the other day, asked a neighbor if he were not inclined to the Temperance Society, and he replied, “yes; for when he saw liquor his mouth watered.”

CUTANEOUS DISEASES.—Cutaneous diseases are more mortifying to the pride than any other human ill. Let those who value a fair skin, purify their blood by the use of Peruvian Syrup, which removes such affections by stimulating the absorbents to take up and expel the morbid elements, by the natural outlets of the system.

An auctioneer exclaimed, “really ladies and gentlemen, I am giving these things away!”

“Are you?” said an old lady, “well I'll thank you for that silver pitcher you have in your hand.”

That which I have found the best recreation, both to my mind and body, whenever either of them stand in need of it, is music.—BISHOP BEECHER.

IT IS THE CAUSE AND NOT THE STAKE, WHICH MAKES THE MARRY.

“You are ill, my friend.” “Yes, my eye is inflamed, very painful.” “Do as I did last week with a tooth—have it out.”

Mrs. WILLOWAY'S SOOTHING SYRUP, to be appreciated, must be used; and after it has been used it is sure to be appreciated.

A man who accosts himself never to be pleased is fortunate—as he can never be in want of subjects for his displeasure.

When you find a man willing to go without his dinner to serve you, you may safely conclude he is a true friend.

He who is false to present duty breaks a thread in the loom, and will find the flaw when he may have forgotten the cause.
