Meeting of the Legislature. The Reporter of last week informs us that the Legislature will be called together on the 17th of Pebruary. This will be doubtless an interesting session; the discussion of the rail road question will, of itself, be sufficient to make it so: We could hope that the general character of the railway bills to be submitted, could be made known before the meeting of the House, so that the people might have some opportunity of discussing them.

There are a great variety of matters which might, and should, be brought before this Legislature, and which might much better occupy its attention than mere pseudo economical schemes of retrenchment, calculated to limit the circulation and consequently Bessen the influence of our Provincial newspapers.

It is about time the fate of that Bankrupt Bill was determined. We should like to see a measure discussed for doing away with imprisonment for members to the Assembly. A new Election Bill speech in full and our remarks, then let the people has been talked of, one to provide that vacant seats the session begins.
