Jottings in the country.

From Shaw's, in Northampton, to the Beekquinnick river road is of a character neither interesting to man or beast, and the traveller for pleasure had as well see the country, through which said road passes, from the opposite side of the river, with all the additional charms which distance lends, and thus avoid the unpoetical ascent of Acker's hill. However, the country referred to is interesting and, in many places, quite romantic, although the demoralizing effects of the lumber business are too apparent. From the beginning of McMillan's flats, or Hayden's, we are not quite sure as to by which name it is known, the road improves. Just below the mouth of the Beekquinn-ick a little village, comprising very creditable buildings, has sprung up. Here Mr. W. S. Nevers and S. H.
Shaw are engaged in trade and have, each, very well filled stores; all along the Beekquinn-ick stream to the mouth of the Coldstream and thence up the latter, as our business takes us, the country is thickly settled, and, as a general thing, the appearance of the farms prosperous. At the mouth of Coldstream, Mr. Samuel Dickinson has a milling establishment which is admirably located, but is not as thorough and effective as it might be, or as the wants of the country require. It is not, we believe, Mr. D.'s fault, however, and understand that he intends making some improvements. Mr.
James Everett, formerly of this town, has located on the Coldstream, and made very great improvements on his farm, where he is now enjoying himself surrounded by all the necessary comforts of life, as we were happy to realize. Passing by our friends James Bannan and Wm. Crandall, we arrive at the Knoleville Post Office which is kept by Mr. Wm. Cook, who has a fine establishment here, and at the hands of whose family, we have repeatedly been made to feel that we are in a home. Mr. Cook's reach a point where two miles branches of the Coldstream meet, and where is located Farley's mills, so called, most advantageously situated. The present proprietor, Mr. Gillmor of St. Stephen, proposes, we understand, very great additions and improvements. The stones and gear for a grist mill, being now on their way up. There exists strong necessity for a good saw and grist mill here, and it is to be hoped that Mr. Gillmor will supply this necessity. We now enter the far famed settlement of

GLASSVILLE, of which we wrote, from personal observation, two years ago; on which occasion we were able, with difficulty, to penetrate into the settlement three miles. On the present occasion we travelled, with horse and wagon, nearly seven miles, finding where two years ago there was no road, and where the forests stood in their unbroken wilderness and scarce penetrated gloom, vast clearings bearing the golden grain, or the evidence of a harvest already reaped. This visit afforded us peculiar pleasure, from the moment we entered the settlement. First we passed troops of fine, healthy, happy looking children, not "creeping like snails unwilling," but moving cheerfully along to their school, which is taught by Mr. Simpson, with whose conversation and deportment we were favorably impressed, and we are disappointed if Mr. S. is not a good teacher. Let us add that we noticed here, and in Knoleville, that the children were all remarkably good looking and attractive in their appearance.
Another source of pleasure was the improved appearance of the houses and barns, the latter, particularly, will compare favorably with those of any part of the County. Then, better still, we found many of these large barns filled to repletion with the harvest, and others being rapidly filled—one instance, where on our former visit there was no barn, on the farm at this time, we now find a good one, and a part of its contents comprised about ten tons of hay.
The universal testimony was that the crops were good, and a feeling of contentment and thankfulness general. The hay, oats, wheat, barley and potatoes which we saw were all most excellent. The houses, as a general thing, are of a superior class to those generally erected in new settlements, and we found frequent evidences of the taste of the settlers in garden plots fenced in, containing flowers of various kinds and vegetables. The road through the settlement was, all along, hard and dry, the greater part being good and some portions, even in the upper part of the settlement, superior. The settlers seem all desirous to do what they can for the general good and convenience of the whole settlement. Having thus referred to the good roads, to the fast extending farms, to the fertile and well cultivated fields, for some seven miles border the road, on either side, to the school and the children, to the improved barns and houses, and to the evidences of a taste for what is ornamental as well as necessary brought from beyond the seas, let us add that for frank, generous and thoughtful hospitality, the people of Glassville can not be excelled even among our very hospitable blue noses. We visited some fourteen houses, and at each received a repetition of the invitation to partake of the hospitality of the family. At Mr.
Archibald Scott's the yearnings of nature seconded the kind invitations of the good Lady and we indulged in the excellent cheer provided us. As far as we can judge Glassville contains some thirty families, and must become, judging from the soil and the character of the settlers, ultimately one of the most influential settlements in the County.
We heard some talk about the appointment of a magistrate. There is no J. P. nearer than the mouth of the Coldstream. At times the want of a magistrate, to qualify Parish officers, &c., must be felt, and one should be appointed; but we think that the best way would be for the people to agree upon some one person and recommend him, themselves, for the appointment. Of course, the majority of the settlers here are Scotch; it is very evident that the expectations here had formed of the nature of this country and of the soil before them were not realized, still notwithstanding their disappointment they appear contented and, so, happy.
May their contentedness increase, with their cleared acres, and great prosperity await them.

KNOLEVILLE.

Returning to Farley's mills we proceeded to Knolesville, which, although it lies contiguous to, and runs parallel with, Glassville, is not connected with it by a carriage road. To reach the settlement we passed over three miles of most execrable road with and nearly to the hubs, most of the way. The road through the settlement though harder is still very bad and this, added to the lateness of day, when we reached it, caused our visit to be shorter, and our observations more hurried and superficial, than we could have wished. Knolesville is not so old by a year as Glassville and therefore is not, of course, so far advanced in improvement. We found however, the same spirit; the same energy of purpose; the same enterprise at work, and with these we expect, next year, to find this settlement rivalling in all respects its sister. The land here, we should judge, is rather better than that in Glass-ville. Some of our friends whom we desired to see were away from home; while others lived at such a distance that time would not permit us to visit them; but on some future occasion we trust it will be different. The settlers here are chiefly Nova Scotians and New Brunswickers. Mr. Wm. Mc-Graw came here last fall; he, this season, had ten acres under crop. We find the people most comfortably surrounded and kindly attentive to the stranger in tendering hospitality. Here we noticed an evidence of settlement in one lone grave in the reserved meeting house lot. In Glassville we saw the first child born there; here is the grave of the first dead. Let the clearing up of the land proceed fast or slow; let the seed sown be in large or small quantities this, "God's half acre," will surely reap its fruit of humanity, and death will surely reap its harvest.

By and by when we again visit Knolesville, and have become better acquainted with its people, our jottings concerning it will occupy more space than at present.

PERSONAL.

During this tour we have received abundant proof that Charles Connell directly, and through some whom we are surprised to know have allowed themselves to become his creatures, and others who are fit tools for such a workman, has been maligning and endeavoring to lessen the influence of the Sentinel. He has had his labor for his pains; and whatever of satisfaction or benefit has come of it has come to us. If the moral influence of the Sentinel to-day was as weak as is his in this County it would soon be what he desires of it, dead. But it lives and will live when he, it is to be hoped, will have perished in dust and ashes that blindness and folly and guile selfishness, which has, alas, not only ruined himself, politically and morally, but hundreds of those who have been the dupes of his unfeeling avariciousness. To our readers, in Glassville and Knolesville, particularly, we say if you find the Sentinel unchanged in tone, and at all events no less worthy support than it was two years ago, and you are canvassed against it by any person or persons who, two years ago, recommended it to your notice and support, you may readily determine that some sordid motive is at work, and that they either strove to mislead you then or are trying to do so now.

Tea Meetings.

As we predicted, the tea meeting at Williamstown, on Tuesday last, was a success in every sense of the word. If there were any there who did not enjoy themselves, why they must possess very unenviable dispositions. Indeed, it was difficult to imagine a human being, enjoying bodily health, who could mingle with such a happy throng as were there assembled, see and partake of the abundant and tempting supply of viands tending to incite and appease the appetite, witness the affable and anxious endeavors of the ladies presiding over the tables, without having his mind freed from everything that is selfish and sorrowful, and expanding with all those better and more generous feelings which cause the possessor to see good in everything. Over three hundred persons took tea; and notwithstanding the smallness of the building (the new Temperance Hall) rendered it impossible that all could be seated at once, still we heard not one word of complaint either at having to wait, or having waited, at not being able to find wherewithal to satisfy the cravings of nature. It was astonishing to see the rapidity with which the viands disappeared, but much more astonishing to see the way in which the dishes were replenished. We understand that the tables were furnished chiefly through the labors of three ladies, Mrs. C. Churchill, Mrs. Stewart, and Miss King; and these with their assistants presided at the tables in a manner that elicited the admiration of all. After tea the meeting adjourned to the F.C. Baptist Chapel where they were addressed by the following gentlemen:
Mr. S. B. Appleby, Chairman, Rev. Messrs. Huestis, Tuttle, and Sanderson, Messrs. Samuel Watts, G. W. White, Geo. Howard, W. D. Hartt and James Watt; the remarks of the several speakers were pertinent and interesting, and well received by the audience. The object of the meeting was the raising of funds to finish off the Temperance Hall recently erected by Williamstown Division S. of T., and it must indeed be gratifying to the members of that Division, this unmistakable evidence of the sympathy of the people, in their section, in their efforts for the furtherance of the principles of Temperance in their community. Mr. Calvin Churchill exerted himself successfully in making those from a distance comfortable.

On Thursday evening last, at Union Hall, Upper Woodstock, the Tea Meeting for the benefit of St.
Andrew's Church, at that place, came off, and we should judge that the manner in which the whole affair was carried through, must be particularly satisfactory to all interested therein. It is the first time we have had the pleasure of attending an occasion of the kind at Upper Woodstock, and if this be a fair sample of the way the ladies in that place generally conduct such meetings, we hope this will not be our last visit there for a similar purpose.
The Hall itself was tastefully decorated with evergreens; the tables, three in number, were burdened with everything tempting, luscious, and substantial, and most tastefully decorated and arranged.
We should judge there were in the neighborhood of three hundred persons present, and these gave the most convincing proof of their appreciation of the good things provided by the zest and eagerness with which they devoured them. The tables, we believe, were provided by the following ladies: Mrs. Broderick, Mrs. McIntosh, Miss Sawyer, Miss Hamilton, Mrs. McLardy, Mrs. R. G.
English and Mrs. Robert Brown; and as most bountifully and temperately they supplied their tables, so, as good naturedly and attentively did they and their assistants provide over them. After tea and after Mr. McLardy had offered a few remarks of thanks, &c., a table containing all the requisites for a sumptuous dessert was spread from which might be obtained, for from a cent up, anything from a slice of melon to a luscious peach. While these who wished were enjoying the delicacies of this table, a choir, under the direction of Rev. Mr.
Nelson and Mr. Cupples, led by a piano, presided over by Miss Garden, furnished some excellent music.
This latter portion of the programme, we think, gave much more general satisfaction than though the managers had followed the old plan of having it close with speeches. We have but room to add that the Upper Corner ladies certainly understand the mode, not only of getting up a good tea meeting, but likewise of making all who attend enjoy themselves.

The Rev. Benjamin Hows will preach in the Baptist Chapel in this town, to-morrow (Sunday) at 11 a. m., and 3 p. m.

Temperance Jubilee.

On the 29th inst., the Order of Sons of Temperance will have entered upon its manhood, being then twenty-one years old. By recommendation of the National Division it is intended, by subordinate Divisions, very generally, to celebrate this event.
A variety of ways have been determined upon for this purpose. The grand central demonstration will be in New York where, in connection with some of the leading orators of the States, our Mr. Tilley is to speak. In this County preparations are being made, at Canterbury Station for a dinner to members of Iron Horse Division. At the new Temperance Hall, three miles above Bel River, for a public dinner by Garibaldi Division; at Upper Woodstock on the beautiful grounds of John Fisher, Esq., for a social picnic, by Melancthon and Carleton Divisions, and for a public meeting in Woodstock in the evening by the same. Doubtless other Divisions make some special demonstration, but of their nature we have not heard. At all of these meetings we hope a pleasing time will be enjoyed. It is well thus to celebrate the origin of an institution which has proved so great a blessing to mankind; how greatly our omniscience can discover, and eternity reveal. Nor should we forget that while we are indisputably claim this much for the Order of Sons of Temperance, the world may be challenged to show from its existence, during the long period of twenty-one years, any direct or indirect harm has been produced. And this establishes it a reputation that which no other social institution can show as fair or good a one.

On Tuesday evening next, 29th inst., being the twenty-first anniversary of the Order of Sons of Temperance, the Rev. Wm. Wilson will deliver a lecture in Connell's Hall, on the rise and progress of the Order. Members of the Order and the public generally are cordially invited to attend. Admission free. Lecture will commence at 8 o'clock.

The Rev. Mr. Wilson did not deliver his Temperance address on Sabbath evening, owing to the unfavorable state of the weather. He purposes should the weather permit, to fulfil this engagement on next Sunday week. The intention of the Rev. gentleman is to discuss the subject of Temperance thoroughly in the light of the gospel.

Through the kindness of Mr. Johnson, of the Telegraph Office, we learn that at the shooting at Toryburn, Mr. Malcolm McLeod of this town, was the winner of the "Cup," making 23 points. Mr.
Jones, the winner of the cup last year, made 22 points. We have but room to add, "hurrah for Woodstock!" and let us be prepared to give Mr.
McLeod a suitable "welcome home."

THOUGHTFUL AND GENEROUS.—Lord Lyons was so well pleased with the treatment he received at the "Blanchard House," that he sent to the proprietor, from Fredericton, in addition to the amount of his bill, a twenty dollar gold piece as a present.

We have received from W. T. Baird, Esq., a copy of the words and music of that popular song "When this cruel war is over." It is printed in St. John by F. W. Clear, and does that gentleman credit.

On Saturday night and during all of Sunday it rained heavily. This storm came opportunely as, we presume, the harvesting was pretty well through with, and the rain was needed as the ground was very much parched.

Since the above was in type the river has come up to such a pitch that on Wednesday evening last the steamer Gazette arrived from Fredericton. We trust that there may be sufficient water to enable the steamers to run during the remainder of the fall.

On Friday evening of last week a wind came from the South on a spree, and made a terrible noise in this town, kicking up the dust with a vengeance. We don't know of any great harm done by his pranks except that he struck the Blanchard House building with a side wiper, bursting off its one eye (lamp) and carrying its forehead (sign) away and smashing it up generally.

GORDY'S LADY'S BOOK for October is already received. This number of the Lady's Book must prove a peculiarly interesting one to its female readers.
There being no less than seven colored figures in steel and ten wood engravings. A new and interesting story by Marion Harland appears in this number. There are other new features apparent in the present number of this popular magazine, which go to show that improvement is the aim of the publisher.

GRAND FALLS CORRESPONDENCE.

GRAND FALLS, Sept. 21, '63.
DEAR SENTINEL.—Scarcely an event worthy of record has transpired among us since my last letter. Everything has been going on in the same quiet monotony as heretofore; business is very slack in the village; less than in the same season of the last year. In common with the rest of the Province, however, can we congratulate ourselves on the beautiful crops everywhere stored up; the harvest has been excellent, and the weather as propitious as could be desired. Truly, as regards the state of the weather, in this part of the country, it is a blessing in disguise, and left their ministers to do as they pleased. The Provincial politician, too, if he is a stirring, active man, and has opponents as stirring and active as himself, must find much enjoyment in the turmoil of political life. If he is misaligned or misrepresented he has opportunities to clear himself, and to "demonstrate" his innocence. In the game of politics he much pleasure of winning, with the no less pleasant notion of an occasional defeat. The Government has none of these enjoyments.—He is often made the scape-goat for the sins of the ministry; his chances of explanation are few, indeed; and he may often be compelled to submit to the dictation of men in every way his inferior. We don't write this for the purpose of frightening Mr. Tilley out of his Governorship. At his present time of life, however, he would care very little for such an office. Doubtless he will never get it, if he has not from our small circle of Colonial statesmen, of whom we have a very few in these Provinces, though the school of mere politicians is numerous enough.
