At Centreville, Simonds, we notice that quite | ion upon this point. D. In this Parish we had an opportunity of taking a drive over a portion of the very extensive farm of Robert Kerr, Esq., who is among the richest and most thorough farmers in the County. He has some two hundred acres of land all of it, except 50 acres, cleared. We mention Mr. Kerr's system of rotation which he has fully proved: Grain-two years; haytwo years; two years pasturage; following which his land never fails to give redundant crops. Mr Kerr employs all the most approved machines for the working and harvesting of his farm.

Passing over the river into Kent we find business beginning to crect its evidences at the mouth of the Monquart. Here Mr. John Giberson keeps a very excellent house of entertainment, which was long needed. Here Mr. Cummings has recently started a small but well filled store and competes with Mr. Tinker who has for a longer period been established, and J. A. Phillips, Esq, who is a veteran trader, in supplying the wants of the people of this populous district, which includes the flourishing settlement of Johnville into which our engagements would not allow us to penetrate, as we desired, and to do which we received many pressing invitations.

At Gillmor's mills, and at Hugh Miller's, Glassville, we met a large number of the people of Knolesville as well as Glassville, and the oral testimony and ocular evidence received goes to show that the settlers are amply satisfied with the productive character of their land but are only disatisfied with the difficulties they encounter in getting to or from market. This difficulty retards materially the increase of settlement and settlement. The wants most seriously felt in longer experienced.
