Common Sense View

OF THE

MODE IN WHICH

HOSTETTER'S

STOMACH BITTERS

ACT UPON THE HUMAN SYSTEM.

THIS is an age of enquiry. People want to know why and wherefore of all statements submitted to them as facts, and as far as this is concerned, it is proposed to gratify them.

All the physicians admit that the greatest difficulty they encounter in their practice is in conveying to the patient a disease the medicine which will counteract and neutralize it. Electricity has been tried for this purpose, but it is also generally admitted that the electric fluid is too subtle an agent to reach the nerves, but can not distribute through the system anything except ill-effects. Medicated electricity is, in short, an exploded humbug. But a liquid stimulant, as every body knows, can be charged with the essential properties of any and every substance in the Materia Medica, and there is no herbarial extract which will hold in solution with all its preventative and curative virtues unimpaired.

Now the pure liquid stimulant of which

Hostetter's Bitters

are in part composed, is charged with invaluable vegetable remedies, and these by reason of its powerful diffusive principle, it conveys to every organ and introduces into the circulation. To use a common expression, it goes to the spot, taking what it would be without their health, and it will undoubtedly diffuse itself through the organization as swiftly if administered pure and simple, as if mixed with the juices of tonic and aperient. It is not a question of what it would be without their health, but of what it would be with their health. It is a strengthening, life-sustaining balm; it is more than a tonic. It could neither protect nor cure. And herein lies the essential difference between the ordinary medicinal preparations when given alone, and the same stimulant when administered in the medicinal form of

Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.

Good Monogonophila spirit is doubtless the mildest and most innocuous of all the varieties of liquor, but it only becomes a vegetable medicine when impregnated with the vegetable elements employed in the preparation of the Bitters.

To Dyspeptic Sufferers.

Under the general head of Dyspepsia may be classed all the varieties of indigestion. Its symptoms are so various, and differ so much in different individuals, that it is almost impossible to classify them. In fact, some of them are utterly indescribable. It may be safely asserted, however, that half of the diseases of mankind spring from a disordered state of the stomach; and that the other half, whatever their origin, rest upon that sensitive and important organ. Among the ordinary indications of dyspepsia are: Bloating and full feeling about the stomach and abdomen immediately after eating a piping sensation, or a sense of hollowness at the pit of the stomach between meals, a heavy dull feeling in the head, feeble or unsteady appetite, occasional nausea, restlessness during the night, and a weary, painful feeling on rising in the morning, sometimes amounting to monomania, loss of memory, confusion of thought, sour stomach, with rising of food, and a choking sensation in the throat, dimness of the eyes, pain in the diaphragm, feebleness and disinclination for exertion, and sometimes emaciation and a corpse-like pallor. These are a few of the direct signs of dyspepsia, but as it is generally connected with special affections of the bowels, the liver, and the nerves, its victims have many additional torments which are technically attributed to other causes.

The best advice that can be given to any one who has the slightest suspicion of dyspepsia is to fortify his or her digestive organs by the daily use of

Hostetter's Bitters.

The disease proceeds from a lack of vigor in the stomach, and the best preparation will tone and renovate that organ. If the gastric apparatus is in good working order, and can perfectly dissolve and thoroughly assimilate the food submitted to its operation, there will be no dyspepsia, and the best of all reinforcing agents should be forthwith resorted to. The stomach is the commissary of the system. It supplies the elements of life to the whole body. In it is prepared the material of blood, muscle, bone and nerve, and if it fails to purvey that material in sufficient quantity, and of a proper kind, the whole body suffers, and with it the mental faculties. Therefore protect the "Commissary Department." Don't let the enemy obtain possession of it. It is easier to prevent disease from getting into an organ than to expel it after it becomes a "chronic fixture." Consider the first indication of uneasiness in the stomach as a sign that dyspepsia is preparing to attack, and battle it at once with this great repellent.

But if it is too late to prevent, remember that it is not too late to cure. It is believed that there is no case of chronic indigestion that can withstand the remedial operation of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.

This belief is grounded on twelve years' experience of the efficacy of the preparation. The first instance of its failure to give relief is yet unchronicled. If it ever had failed, the voluminous correspondence addressed to the proprietors from all parts of the United States and South America would at least mention the fact expressing dissatisfaction. But no, there is not one. The testimony extending over a period of more than a dozen years, is all of the same approving tenor. Certainly this is a sufficient warrant for claiming that the Bitters are a Specific for Indigestion in all its varieties.

AYER'S PILLS

Particularly adapted to the treatment of the digestive apparatus, and diseases arising from impurity of the blood. A large part of all the ailments which originate in the bowels, and consequently these pills are found to cure many of the most distressing affections of the human system.

Subscribed are the statements from some eminent physicians.

As a Family Physician.

From Dr. J. G. Green, of New Orleans.

"Your Pills are the price of peace. My excellent patients, who are afflicted with the bowels, and who are not infrequently in the daily treatment of dyspepsia, find them invaluable to them in the daily treatment of dyspepsia."

For JAUNDICE, BILIOUSNESS, &c.

From Dr. J. G. Green, of New York City.

"Not only are your Pills adapted to their purpose as an aperient, but they are also a most valuable remedy in the treatment of jaundice, and I have ever found them more effective for the cure of bilious complaints than any one I ever used. I sincerely rejoice that we have at last a remedy which is worthy of the confidence of the profession and of the people."

DYSPEPSIA—INDIGESTION.

From Dr. J. G. Green, of St. Louis.

"The Pills you were kind enough to send me have been used in my practice, and have satisfied me that they are truly an extraordinary remedy for the bowels, and that they are adapted to the treatment of the human system, that they seem to work upon the bowels, and to clear the system of all impurities, and to remove the cause of all the ailments which originate in the bowels, and to consequently these pills are found to cure many of the most distressing affections of the human system. I have ever found them more effective for the cure of bilious complaints than any one I ever used. I sincerely rejoice that we have at last a remedy which is worthy of the confidence of the profession and of the people."
