Confederation the Sole Issue. by their ballots an opinion on the question of to Mr. Tilley and Union. Confederation. While we write, it is unadvisedly, so far as any determination on the part of the idation of revenues, of credit, of power; which Fenians in this quarter. means expansion of trade, and extension of commerce; which means development of resources, and fostering of industries; which means a nationality that, in extent of territory, in amount and value of resources of the mine, the forest, the field and the sea, in population, in public works, in wealth, will rival many and eclipse some of the older nations of either continent; it means an Intercolonial Railroad costing New Brunswick little, giving her a great deal-these are some of the things which Confederation means -some of the things that our people, at the next general election, may choose or may reject.

It is an easy thing to say "rest where we are," it is an easy thing to throw an adverse ballot and thus prevent the consummation of union, but it is not an easy matter when this has been done retrieve the wrong. The tall in saw ladt

What if we reject Union? We place ourselvenue of £200,000 we have a debt the interest of which is now £90,000, and which will in a year or so be £115,000, leaving a balance of £85,000 per annum to meet all our Provincial meet the appropriations provided for by law, leaving the road and school money to be raised by direct taxation or not raised at all.
