HUMAN SYSTEM.

HIS is an age of enquiry. People want to Gents' Rubbers, know why and wherefore of all statements submitted to them as facts, and as far as this Great Protective and Invigorant is concerned, it is proposed to gratify them.

All the physicians admit that the greatest difficulty they encounter in their practice is in conveying to the seat of a disease the medicament that will counteract and neutralize it. Electricity has been tried for this purpose, but it is now generally admitted that the electric fluid is too subtle an agent to be made the vehicle of medication. It shocks the nerves, but can not distribute through the system anything except itself. Medicated electricity is, in short, an exploded humbug. But a liquid stimulant, as everybody knows, can be charged with the essential properties of any and every substance in the Materia Medica, and there is no herbial extract which will not hold in solution with all its prerentative and curative virtues unimpaired. Now the pure liquid stimulant of which are in part composed, is charged with invaluable vegetable remedies, and these by reason of its powerful diffusive principle, it conveys to every organ and introduces into the circulation. To use a common expression, it goes to the spot, taking with it just what is wanted there. The essence of rye would undoubtedly diffuse itself through the organization as swiftly if administered pure and simple, as if mixed with the juices of tonic and alterative roots, barks and berbs. But of what use would it be without their healing, strengthening, life-sustaining balm? It would merely excite. It could neither protect nor cure. And herein lies the essential difference between the effect of the purest stimulant wien given alone, and the same stimulant when administered in the medicinal form of

Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.

Good Monongabela spirit is doubtless the mildest and most innocuous of all the varieties of liquor, but it only becomes a healthful medicine when impregnated with the vegetable elements employed in the preparation of the Bitters.

To Dyspeptic Sufferers.

Under the general head of Dyspepsia may be lassed all the varieties of indigestion. Its sympms are so various, and differ so much in different individuals, that it is almost impossible to classily them. In fact, some of them are utterly indescribable. It may be safely asserted, however, that half of the diseases of mankind spring Balance of Stock daily ex- from a disordered state of the stemach; and that the other half, whatever their origin, react upon that sensitive and important organ. Among the ordinary indications of dyspepsia are flatulence, a bloated and full feeling about the stomach and abdomen immediately after eating a gnawing sensation, or a sense of bollowness at the pit of the stomach between meals, a heavy dull feeling in the head, feeble or unsteady appetite, occasional causea, restlessness during the night, and a weary, unretreshed feeling on rising in the morning, palpitation of the heart, depression of mind, some-TUST RECEIVED and for sale at the Medical times amounting to monomania, loss of memory, Hall, next door to the "Post Office," a full sup- confusion of thought, sour stomach, with raising of food, and a choking sensation in the throat, dimness of the eyes, pain in the diaphragm, feebleness and dismermation for exertion, and sometimes emaciation and a corpse-like patior. These are a lew of the direct signs of dyspepsia, but as it is generally complicated with specific affections of the bowers, the liver, and the nerves, its vicims have many additional torments which are reclimically attributed to other causes. The best abvice that can be given to any one who has the slightest predisposition to dyspepsia, is to fortify his or her digestive organs by the daily use of

Hostetter's Bitters.

The disease proceeds from a lack of vigor in he stomach, and this vitalizing preparation will one and renovate that organ. If the gastric apparatus is in good working order, and can perlectly dissolve and thoroughly assimilate the food submitted to its operation, there will be no dyspepsia. If it cannot do this, it requires reinforcement, and the best of all reinforcing agents should be forthwith resorted to. The stomach is the commissary of the system. It supplies the elements of life to the whole body. In it is prepared the maternal of blood, muscie, bone and fibre, and if it fails to purvey that material in sufficient quantity, and of a proper kind, the whole body suffers, and with it the mental faculties. Therefore protect the " Commissary Department." Don't let the enemy obtain possession of it. It is easier to prevent disease from getting into an organ than to expel it after it becomes a "chronic fixture." Consider the first indication of uneasiness in the stomach as a sign that dyspepsia is preparing to attack, and baffle it at once with this great repellant. But if it is too late to prevent, remember that it is not too late to cure. It is believed that there is no case of chronic indigestion that can withstand the remedial operation of

Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.

This belief is grounded on twelve year's experience of the efficacy of the preparation. The first BRITISH WORKMAN, instance of its failure to give relief is yet unchronicled.
