Notwithstanding the gravity of the subject is amusing to note the position taken by a portion of the press of this Province, we need not mention which, with regard to the convicted Fenians now awaiting punishment in Canada. Some of the Editors cry out " theirs was a political offence," and that therefore they are proper subjects for the interference of the United States and England. Others suddenly discover that they are averse to capital punishment. If theirs was a political offence then all such acts of violence upon property and life may be reduced to the same standard, and any rascals who cross the line, stealing or for the purpose of stealing our horses, cattle, money or other property, or those who come killing, or with intent to kill our sons and daughters, lay waste our soil and destroy our homes, these may claim the same imunity, appeal to, and receive, the same protection.
