is concerned, it is proposed to gratify them.
All the physicians admit that the greatest difficulty they encounter in their practice is in conveying to the seat of a disease the medicament that will counteract and neutralize it. Electricity has been tried for this purpose, but it is now generally admitted that the electric fluid is too subtle an agent to be made the vehicle of medication. It shocks the nerves, but can not distribute through the system anything except itself. Medicated electricity is, in short, an exploded humbug. But a liquid stimulant, as everybody knows, can be charged with the essential properties of any and every substance in the Materia Medica, and there is no herbial extract which will not hold in solution with all its preventative and curative virtues unimpaired. Now the pure liquid stimulant of which are in part composed, is charged with invaluable vegetable remedies, and these by reason of its powerful diffusive principle, it conveys to every organ and introduces into the circulation. To use a common expression, it goes to the spot, taking with it just what is wanted there. The essence of rye would undoubtedly diffuse itself through the organization as swiftly if administered pure and simple, as if mixed with the juices of tonic and alterative roots, barks and herbs. But of what use would it be without their healing, strengthening, life-sustaining balm? It direct from the Manufactory, at a lower price than any Good Machine can be imported for. would merely excite. It could neither protect nor cure. And herein lies the essential difference between the effect of the purest stimulant when given alone, and the same stimulant when It is a Shuttle Machine, making the tight lock stich both sides alike. administered in the medicinal form of

Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.

Good Monongabela spirit is doubtless the mildest and most innocuous of all the varieties of liquor, but it only becomes a healthful medicine when impregnated with the vegetable elements employed in the preparation of the Bitters. TUST RECEIVED. - 1200 cide

Among the tf-39. ordinary indications of dyspepsia are flatulence, a bloated and full feeling about the stomach and abdomen immediately after eating a gnawing sensation, or a sense of hollowness at the pit of the stomach between meals, a heavy dull feeling in the head, feeble or unsteady appetite, occasional nausea, restlessness during the night, and a weary, unrefreshed feeling on rising in the morning, palpitation of the heart, depression of mind, sometimes amounting to monomania, loss of memory, confusion of thought, sour stomach, with raising of food, and a choking sensation in the throat, dimness of the eyes, pain in the diaphragm, fecbleness and disinclination for exertion, and sometimes emaciation and a corpse-like pallor. These are a few of the direct signs of dyspepsia, but as it is generally complicated with specific affections of the bowels, the liver, and the nerves, its victims have many additional torments which are technically attributed to other causes. The best abvice that can be given to any one

If the gastric apparatus is in good working order, and can perfeetly dissolve and thoroughly assimilate the food submitted to its operation, there will be no Ti forcement, and the best of all reinforcing agents should be forthwith resorted to. The stomach is the commissary of the system. It supplies the elements of life to the whole body. In it is prepared the material of blood, muscle, bone and fibre, and if it fails to purvey that material in sufficient quantity, and of a proper kind, the whole body suffers, and with it the mental facpartment." Don't let the enemy obtain possession of it. It is easier to prevent disease from getting into an organ than to expel it after it becomes a "chronic fixture." Consider the first indication of uneasiness in the stomach as a sign that dyspepsia is preparing to attack, and baffle it at once with this great repellant. But if it is too late to prevent, remember that it is not too late to cure. It is believed that there is no case of chronic indigestion that can with-
