

A COMMON SENSE VIEW OF THE

MODE IN WHICH

HOSTETTER'S

STOMACH BITTERS

ACT UPON THE

HUMAN SYSTEM.

HIS is an age of enquiry. People want it is proposed to gratify them. Mouley they encounter in their practice is in conveying to the seat of a disease the medicament that will counteract and neutralize it. Electrieity has been tried for this purpose, but it is now generally admitted that the electric fluid is 100 subtle an agent to be made the vehicle of medication. It shocks the nerves, but can not distribute through the system anything except itself. Medicated electricity is, in short, an exploded humbug. But a liquid stimulant, as everybody knows, can be charged with the essential properties of any and every substance in the Materia Medica, and there is no berbial extract which will not hold in solution with all its preventative and curative virtues unimpaired. Now the pure liquid stimulant of which From 13 cents upwards.

Hostetter's Bitters

are in part composed, is charged with invaluable vegetable remedies, and these by reason of its powerful diffusive principle, it conveys to every organ and introduces into the circulation. To use a common expression, it goes to the spot, taking with it just what is wanted there. The essence of rye would undoubtedly diffuse itself through the organization as swiftly if administered pure and simple, as if mixed with the juices of tonic and alterative roots, barks and herbs. But of what use would it be without their healing, strengthening, life-sustaining balm? It would merely excite. It could neither protect nor cure. And herein lies the essential difference between the effect of the purest stimulant when given alone, and the same stimulant when administered in the medicinal form of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.

Good Monongabela spirit is doubtless the mildest and most innocuous of all the varieties of liquor, but it only becomes a healthful medicine when impregnated with the vegetable elements employed in the preparation of the Bitters.

To Dyspentic Sufferers.

Under the general head of Dyspepsia may be classed all the varieties of indigestion. Its symptoms are so various, and differ so much in different individuals, that it is almost impossible to classify them. In fact, some of them are utterly indescribable. It may be safely asserted, however, that half of the diseases of mankind spring from a disordered state of the stemach; and that the other half, whatever their origin, react upon that sensitive and important organ. Among the sore Goods must be sold before the 1st day of May that sensitive and important organ. Among the above Goods must be sold before the 1st day of May. ordinary indications of dyspepsia are flatulence, Come one! Come all! and buy your first-class a bloated and full feeling about the stomach and goods from abdomen immediately after eating a gnawing sensation, or a sense of hollowness at the pit of the stomach between meals, a heavy dull feeling in the head, feeble or unsteady appetite, occasional nausea, restlessness during the night, and a weary, Splendid SUIT of CIOTHES? unrefreshed feeling on rising in the morning, palpitation of the heart, depression of mind, sometimes amounting to monomania, loss of memory, confusion of thought, sour stomach, with raising of food, and a choking sensation in the throat, dimness of the eyes, pain in the diaphragm, feebleness and disinclination for exertion, and sometimes emaciation and a corpse-like pallor. These are a few of the direct signs of dyspepsia, but as it is generally complicated with specific affections of the bowels, the liver, and the nerves, its vicims have many additional torments which are technically attributed to other causes. The best abvice that can be given to any one who has the slightest predisposition to dyspepsia, is to fortify his or her digestive organs by the dully use of

Hostetter's Bitters.

The disease proceeds from a lack of vigor in the stomach, and this vitalizing preparation will tone and renovate that organ. If the gastric apparatus is in good working order, and can perfectly dissolve and thoroughly assimilate the food submitted to its operation, there will be no dyspepsia. If it cannot do this, it requires reindyspepsia. If it cannot do this, it requires rein-forcement, and the best of all reinforcing agents R is generally, that she has resumed the business of Goods. should be forthwith resorted to. The stomach is of the commissary of the system. It supplies the elements of life to the whole body. It is easier to prevent disease from getting into an organ than to expel it after it becomes a "chronic fixture." Consider the first indication of uneasiness in the stomach as a sign that dyspepsia is preparing to attack, and baffle it at once with this great repellant.

But if it is too late to prevent, remember that it is not too late to cure. It is believed that there as no case of chronic indigestion that can withstand the remedial operation of

But no, there is not one. The testimony extending over a period of more than a dozen years, is all of the same approving tenor. Certainly this is a sufficient warrant for claiming that the Bitters are a Specific for Indigestion in Low Rates & Regular Communication. TOWN for FREDERICTON EVERY MORNING
