THERE are now three candidates publicly announced for the contemplated vacancy in the The local competition for the prizes of the could prove effective, but we sincerely trust that before the electors are again called upon to vote for representatives, whether to the local or general parliament, such steps will be taken as that the services of fitting men, judiciously chosen and nominated previously to the election, by a County convention, may be secured. As it is, upon the body of the electors will rest the responsibility of making the most wise choice of those who offer. Now when there will of necessity be a reorganization of the litical fabric; now when a - 1 ae provincial poto be introduced, and we new state of things is of that new state when at the inauguration have learne' .ry those men to whom the people when the de to look for advice and action; now e legislative halls are to be filled to a iderable extent by men untried and inexperienced in the mysteries of legislation and government, the responsibility attached to the Capt. R. B. Ketchum, selection of members for the local parliament be- Ensign R. Kirkpatrick, comes even greater than it formerly was.

It is time that the scope of legislation in the Province will be more narrow than it has been, but still there are sufficiently important interests, in which are involved the commercial and general well-being of the country, at stake to make it the imperative duty of the electors to select the wisest and most discreet, and most talented of their numbers to look after those interests Among the special interests, the control of and making laws respecting, which are to be retained by the local government and legislature, are direct taxation and export duties; borrowing money; etablishment and tenure of local officers and their appointment; agriculture; immigration; education; sea coast and inland fisheries penitentiaries and public and reformatory pr sons; municipal institutions; local works; admi nistration of justice, and last but not least, the sale and management of public lands.

It will thus be seen that interests the most important, and interests which relate to the happiness and prosperity of the public intellectually and morally, as well as pecuniarily, are to be entrusted to the keeping of the men who shall constitute our local legislature.

Not only so, but to the first legislature must be entrusted the making of any laws necessary in order to promote and preserve harmony in the relative workings of the general and local systems as well as such laws as from necessity may be required in the present transition state of

Among the physical and moral interests involved there are two of especial importance.-The Crown Lands and the Schools. From the former a large increase to the local revenue should be derived. They are a source of vast wealth if properly managed. That proper management requires intelligence of no ordinary character. If immigration is to flow into the Dominion, and if, upon the completion of the Intercolonial Railroad, our fertile lands may be expected to prove a strong inducement for a good portion of the immigrants to settle in this Province, that inducement may be greatly enhanced by wise and liberal regulations relating to the agricultural wild lands, while a necessity exists

Woodstock, Aug. 27, 1867. FOR THE CARLETON SENTINEL.

Dear Sentinel, -- That venerable individual, th ldest inhabitant, says that within his memory uch hot weather in August has never been felt is at present; close sultry nights and hot days with frequent showers, splendid weather poiling hay and rusting potatoes; for the pas six or eight days such weather has continued, and much hay will be injured if not absolutely spoil ed. The rust has made its appearance in severa places, and should this weather continue potatoe vill be but a poor crop.

Our people are beginning to rouse up as the election approaches, but as yet many of our elec tors are not positive as to the candidates who are to be in the field. Some of those who had a red heat for Ottawa have cooled off. Report says that John Emmerson, of Little Falls, has entered the course in good earnest to take the race with Costigan; he is an old resident, very popular, and we believe a staunch Confederate, and Costigan will find him a hard customer.

A Pic-Nic of the children attending the Grammar School, at Grand Falls, and their friends took place on the Cricket Ground last Thursday. It was a splendid affair, and both young and old who attended, came away highly delighted. These School Pic-Nics are productive of good, and should be more generally practised throughout the Province. We hear that grain crops have a very poor apearance in the lower sections of Canada, and he last year quite a scarcity prevailed, and several families moved to Madawaska, which circumstance was imputed to the rigor of Confederation; those Canadians have mostly purchased land or taken up new farms here, and make quite time.
