The new Town Council held their first meeting on Monday evening last. His Worship the siness, routine and otherwise, that would probably occupy attention during the year, made some Saloons, which in themselves being perhaps not objectionable, become accessories to leading the young into habits of vice and crime; the necessity of an institution such as a pravincial reform atory, to which persons of tender years, who committed crime, might be sent for discipline and education; the appointing of a constable in each a protection of life and property.

that $30 be the sum. Mr. Dibblee said his object was to increase the revenue. He would recommend that the Couneil should exercise a strict surveillance over the licensed taverns, and see that improper characters were not allowed license, and to a strict enforcement of the laws regarding persons selling without license. It was the poor men, engaged in the business, who were the most careful to pay for license, while the more independent class would evade the law, as in an instance mentioned by Councillor Balloch, where the "Cable House" had been selling for some time without license.

Mr. McCaffery agreed with Mr. Dibblee, except as to the sum proper to charge. $40 he considered reasonable. He thought the Tavern Keepers should pay more than Wholesale dealers, as it was the taverns which promoted most evil and crime in the community.

Mr. Baker explained the difficulty of proving the sale without license; the characters who sold without license and those who bought being unreliable. In his opinion there should be a difshould pay $50 and the taverns $30, because the wholesale dealers had the advantage, they not having to provide certain accommodations keepers, while at the same time they competed and which it was almost impossible to stop. Mr. Edgar thought the amount charged if license should be in proportion to the value the business done under it. He would, if he could, fix on the wholesale dealers a pretty round sum, but as they could not make a distinction he accepted the proposition for $30. If the could by their action stop drinking and tippling, and prevent crime, then he would consider the question of revenue unimportant. The vote being taken on the amendment i was lost by the casting vote of the Mayor, the division being: Yeas-Elgar, Dibblee, Balloch. Nays-McCaffery, Baker, Davis.
