NEW PRINTING PRESS .- There has just been completed and put in running order at the government printing office at Washington one of the most wonderful pieces of mechanicism in the shape of a printing press that has ever been exhibited. The press is of the Bullock patent, and as an exhibition of some of its powers we will mention: The press will print in one hour 20,000 sheets of 64 pages of document matter. While doing this it feeds itself, the paper going in in rolls, wets the paper, cuts the sheets, folds them, and, by a dial attached to the press, keeps tally of the number of sheets printed. Only two men are required to have control of the press, thus doing away with the necessity of persons to sup-Dick swears, the rogue! at Poll, who'll toss ply it with sheets (or as it is called feeders.) The invention is certainly a wonderful one, and has been visited by a large number of persous, who could not realize the power and utility of the machino .- Am. paper,
