LONDON, 30th.—The French troops now occupy Civita Vecche; more are embarking at Toulon for Italy. Regarding the report that the Italian army had crossed the Roman frontier, it is reported that the Pope has informed the French Government that if King Victor Emmanuel enters Rome, he, the Pope, will leave. Gen. Garibaldi has been ordered by the commander of the Italian forces to disarm and disperse his forces. A new Italian Cabinet has been formed with Gen. Menabrea at the head. Owing to the serious aspect of political affairs a national diet will be called together at an early day. The news from Rome is exciting. Telegraphic communication from Rome to Florence is broken, the insurgents having cut the wires. The latest despatches received from Rome before the destruction of telegraphic communication was highly important; the insurgents in the city were actively engaged and an outbreak was momentarily expected; the victorious army of Garibaldi was only six miles away, organizing for an attack on the city. Orsini shells were being fired in the streets by the party of action, who seemed to be impatiently awaiting the arrival of Garibaldi. The precautions of the authorities for the preservation of peace were apparently ineffectual.

LIVERPOOL is now the centre of Fenian panic reports. Mysterious proceedings among the Irish inhabitants have caused the authorities to take extraordinary precautions. The armories of the volunteers and the gun-shops in the city are guarded, and the police patrols have been doubled. Digby Seymour, Esq., principal counsel for the defence has made another application for the removal to London of the Fenian trials just commenced at Manchester, on the ground of hostility of public feeling against the accused in the latter city, but the Government has refused to grant the request.
