AMBITION OF WOMEN TO GROW BEARDS .-The caprice of fashion with regard to woman's hair furnish a good deal of material for satire at the present day; but the most extravagant DRY GOODS AND FURS! of them now are tame compared with the capillary freaks of women in the olden times. Among the Roman women, at one period, there was a morbid ambition to grow beards, and they used to shave their faces and smear them with unguents to produce these inappropriate appen- HAS COMMENCED SELLING OFF Stoves Repaired at the New Foundry. lages. Cicero tells us that there was a law passed against this practice, which is a proof that it must have been carried to a great extent. Among the Greeks, too, a similar fancy appears at one time to have existed; for they represented their Cyprian Venus with a heard. and Suidas asserts that false beards were more than once in vogue with the Athenian women. The Lombard lasses, also, had the same notion. - SPRING but with more purpose in it; for we learn from old writers that the amazons of that nation, when levying war upon their neighbors, used to improvise beards by arranging their hair upon their cheeks, so that they might look, at a little distance, like warriors of the rougher sex, and so strike the more terror to their male foes - As they may rely on Bargains.

A NEW FASHION IN CHURCH. - Sunday evening last, an amusing little scene was witnessed by a portion of the audience at one of our fashionable churches. While the sermen was being delivered, a lady deliberately removed her hat, took down her back hair by the usual operation of removing the comb and taking out, one by one, seventy or eighty hair-pins. The raven locks fell upon her shoulders, and then people, instead of attending to the sermon, looked for the next movement. It came in several quiet, LEMONT'S VARIETY STORE satisfactory, enjoying movements of the comb down the back of the head and through the hair. Instead of attending to the sermen people still continued to watch the lady. The hair was then gathered in both hands, dexterously retwisted, the comb inserted, these seventy-five hair-pins (and it seemed as if they would never be all put it) replaced, one by one, the short hairs on the neck tucked under, and finally the hat was resumed, and then the lady turned her attention to the minister with greater ease and more zeal than did the amused audience. - Utica

WE PASS FOR WHAT WE ARE .- A man passes for what he is worth. Very idle is all curiosity concerning other people's estimate of us, and all fear of remaining unknown is less so. If a man knows that he can do anything -that he can do it better than any one elsehe has a pledge of acknowledgment of that fact by all persons. The world is full of judgment days, and into every assemblage that a man enters, in every action that he attempts. he is gauged and stamped. In every troop of boys that whoop and run in each yard and square, a new comer is well and accurately weighed in the course of a few days, and stamped with his right number, as if he had undergone a former trial of his speed and temper. Paris, which is always relating strange stores, sends us one of a Twelfth Night fete. In dividing the ring cake, a lady of the company requested that her share should be given to the poorest boy that could be found. Not far from the house was discovered an urchin, trembling with cold and hunger. He was brought into the aristocratic mansion and received his slice of cake. Strangely enough in his piece was found the prize, which made him king. On laid to cheen him king. On all of the best quality. Boots and Shoes on hand and being told to choose his queen he picked out made to order. the lady to whom he was indebted for his good luck, without being aware that she had relinquished her right in his favor. In cases where natural evaguations are difficult to secure, and a quick discharge is assoutial, take six of Radway's Pills and pulverize them,—take the pill powder in water or preserves,—in halt an hour they will operate. We have known the most distressing pains of Gastritis, Bilious Cholic, Inflammation, Congestion, &c., stopped, and the retained irritating humors expelled from the bowels in thirty minutes by this treatment. It is, however, better in chronic cases to take the pills as they are, and let them gradually dissolve in the stomach. These Pills possess in the highest degree cathartic, aperient, tonic, and diapharetic properties. They do not weaken or debilitate the system or any of its organs, and will leave the bowels regular and healthy. They purify and equalize the circulation of the blood.
