THE OLD HOUSE FAR AWAY. The wild birds warble, the silvery rills Sing cheerfully around the spot, And the peaceful shades of the purple hills Fall dim on my mother's cot; Its windows are low, and its thatch is low And its ancient walls are gray, O, I see it! I love it where'er I go! The old house far away.

The little clock tieks on the parlour wall, Recording the passing hours; And the pet geranium grows rank and tall, With its brilliant scarlet flowers; And the old straw chair, so cozy and low, Where mother sat knitting all day; O, I see it! I love it where'er I go, The old house far away!

Dear mother! how plainly I see her now, Reclining in that old arm-chair, With the sunset resting upon her brow, That was once so smooth and fair; With her crimpled border white as snow And her once dark hair now gray, O. I see it! I love it! where'er I go-In that old house far away!

Not all the treasures the world affords. The riches of land and sea, Nor all the wealth of earth's proud lords, Can blot from my memory The roof that sheltered each dear, dear head And the humble floor of clay. Where the feet I loved were wont to tread In the old house far away!

NCIDENTS OF THE OHIO RIVER STEAMBOAT ALAMITY -A touching appeal was made by liss Jones to a gentleman on board As the ood work was becoming too heated to bear, nd the flames were forcing their way gradually nto the cabin, she went to him saying. "Oh, Mr .-- , you have talked to me this evening, you have danced with me, you know who I am and where I came from; save me! Oh, save me! Oh. save me!" He told her he had a wife to save, and could not save her. Poor gill she is beyond earthly help now.

One of the gentlemen on board had the presence of mind to unhinge a door, which he threw into the river; and, after his wife and be had jumped in, he placed her in position to reach the shore. "Now stay here, dear," was his request, " until I can fix myself some way, and we can both be saved " Imagine the husband's agony, just as he had procured something that would float, to see a man swim toward the frail support of his wife and knock her away from it.
