A PRETTY LOVE STORY.—There is a story told in connection with the introduction of the manufactury of fine lace into Brussels. A poor young girl named Gertrude was dying for love of a young man whose wealth precluded all hopes of marriage. One night, as she was weeping, a lady entered her cottage, and without saying a word, placed in her lar a cushion with its bobbins filled with thread. The lady then, with perfect silence, showed her how to work the bobbins, and to make all sorts of delicate patterns and complicated stitches. As daylight approached, the maiden had learned Taken in all the different Styles and Sizes with all the art, and the mysterious visitor disappeared. The price of the maiden's luck made her rich in the line of Photography. Special attention paid on acount of its valuable patterns, and she to Coppying and Enlarging. was able to marry the object of her love. Many years after, while in luxury, with her numerous family about her, she was startled by the mysterious lady entering her comfortable feature and expression which cannot be replaced achome-this time not silent, but looking stern. She said : " Here you enjoy peace and comfort while without are famine and trouble. I help od you; you have not helped your neighbors. The angels weep for you and turn away their faces." So, the next day, Gertrude went forth, with her cushions and bobbins in hand and going from cottage to cottage, she offered to teach the art she had so mysteriously learned. So they all became rich, and their country
