Carleton Grammar School.
The annual examination of this school took place on the 5th of July, inst., and was conducted by Dr. J. A. McMillan, Principal of the University of New Brunswick, and Dr. Bennett, Chief Superintendent of Schools, assisted by Mr. McCoy, Principal of the School, and his son, Assistant Teacher. There were present a considerable gathering of ladies and gentlemen, relatives of the pupils, and others interested in the work of Education. The addition which was made to this school of a French department, adds much not only to its usefulness, but to the interest which the public take in its periodical examinations.

The examination covered Classics, French, English, Roman and Grecian History, Natural Philosophy, Chemistry, Geography, and the Use of the Globes, and Mathematics. In the latter branch the examination was by written questions and answers, which were previously prepared, and now submitted to the examiners.

The numerous prizes provided for by the liberality of the friends of the examination, were presented at the close of the examination, by Dr. Jack, in the kindly manner which has made that gentleman a favorite among school boys. The Jacob Medal was awarded to Rupert Grover, for his Essay on "The Nile and its Commerce." David Long, for his Essay on "The Nile and its Commerce." James R. Tupper, for his Essay on "The Nile and its Commerce." Herbert J. Dibble, and Charles Collins, on the same subject, being considered as alike in merit, a second prize was awarded each. The Parker Medal was awarded to Simon W. Parsons, for proficiency in Mathematics. Other awards were:
