I wake at last; I've dreamed too long; Where are my three-score years and ten? My eye is keen my limbs are strong; I well might vie with younger men. The world, its passion and its strife,
Is passing from its grasp away,
And though this pulse seems full of life,
I'm old to-day, I'm old to-day.

Strange that I never felt before That I have almost reached my gaol My Bark is nearing Death's dark shore,
Life's waters far beyond me roll;
And yet I love their murmuring swell,
Their distant breakers' proud array; And must I can I say "Farewell?"
I'm old to-day, I'm old to-day.

This bouse is mine, and those broad lands

That slumber 'neath you fervid sky; You brooklet, leaping o'er the sands,

Hath often met my beyish eye, loved those mountains when a child They still look young in green array, Ye rocky cliffs ye summits wild, I'm old to-day, I'm old to-day. Twixt yesterday's short hours and me A mighty gulph hath intervened; A man with men I seemed to be, But now 'tis meet I should be weaned

From those deep skies that landscape gay; From joys and hopes I've cherished here,

I'm old to day, I'm old to day. Look forward, onward, not behind Why dost thou lean on broken reeds Why still with earthly fetters bind Thine ardent soul? God give it wings 'Mid higher purer joys to stray, In heaven no happy spirit sings, I'm old to-day, I'm old to-day.
