Thrills in the royal breast. Then up rose the noble host And smiling cried, " A toast! a toast! To all our lady's tair; Here, before all I pledge the name Of Stanton's proud and beauteous dame, The Ladye Gundemere!"

Then to his feet each gallant sprung, And joyous was the shout that rung As Stanley gave the word; And every cup was raised on high. Nor ceased the loud and gladsou e cry,... Till Stanley's voice was heard.

" Enough, enough," he smiling said, And lowly bent his haughty head, "That all may have their due, Now each in turn may play his part, And pledge the ladye of his heart, Like gallant knight and true!" Then one by one each guest sprung un

And named the loved one's name; And each, as hand on high he raised, His ladye's grace or beauty praised, Her constancy and fame. 'Tis now St. Leon's turn to rise;

And drained in turn the brimming cup,

On him are fixed those countless eyes-A gallant knight is he; Envied by some, admired by all, Far-famed in lady's bower and hall, The flower of chivalry. St. Leon raised his kindling eye,

And litted the sparkling cup on high : " I drink to ONE." he said. "Whose image here may ne'er depart, Deep graven on this grateful heart, Till memory is dead. To one whose love for me shall last When lighter passions long have passed, So holy 'us and true;

To one whose love bath longer dwelt, More deeply fixed, more keenly felt, Than any pledged by you." Each guest upstarted at the word, And laid a hand upon his sword, With fury flishing eye; And Stanley said : " We crave the name

Proud knight, of this most peerless dame, Whose love you count so high." St Leon paused, as if he would Not breathe her name in careless prood Thus lightly to another; Then bent his noble head as though To give that word the reverence due. And gently said, "MY MOTHER!"
