What I saw on this Tocaido a good New York fancy reporter could make a on to make a thousand more: but a man don't see much when riding backwards in provisions of the 8th section of the Act 31 Vic., Cap. don't see much when riding backwards in an American Minister's carriage, in the hi, hi, hi style we were going, with guardsmen and betto. All the way, more or less, are planted pleasant tea-houses. We "tea" here, when we must stop by that I could drink the contents of twenty and erected into a Port of Entry to be designated to an Act as pection of the Act 31 Vic., Cap. Cap. (and American Act as the Customs, 'and Act respecting the Customs,' and it is Lis Excellency has been pleased to order, and it is Lis Excellency has been pleased that I could drink the contents of twenty of America, be and the same is hereby constituted and erected into a Port of Entry to be designated and known as the "Port of McAdam Junction." tea-girls stand by the entrance, and 3i-43 (their teeth not yet blackened) with pretty ways and courtesies so fascinating that tea, even without sugar or milk, becomes 1871. agreeable. Tea-houses are the grogshops of Japan. On pretty lacquered waiters the tea-girls hand you little tiny cups, with a mouthful in them, and you squat down on the nice clean mats, if squat you can, (I have to stretch out at length, and fill up half a tea-room) and you sip, and sip, and sip this mouthful of hot tea, as if the gods' nectar was going down your throat in infinitesimal drops of micros pie invisibility. Tea, like sleep, is a great invention. There's Bass's beer, all the way from London, stuck up in the corner ofatea-house shop, for beer drinking, travelling Englishmen; but what's Bass's beer to tea-, if you can only get enough of it, this hot weather, with the thermometer over 90? A Japan ten-house keeper picks out as preety a place for the teahouse as he or she (the keeper) can get. The keeper covets, if possible, a view of, and the air of, the Bay of Yeddo, along which, the most of the way here, runs the Tocaido, The grand tea-house is cut up into numerous little rooms, with paper partitions between to part them, running on slides, but all removable at will, to restore the whole to one grand room, Cakes sweetmeats and candies are brought in with the tea, all put on the clean matted floor (there are no seats), and we all squat or stretch out on that floor. It is UST opened at the above establishment, the and a stretch out is a great relief to the this market, consisting in part of :-

BEWARE OF COLORING YOUR HAIR .--An amusing incident occurred lately on a Mississippi steamer, according to a narrative in the New Orleans Picagune .- A large lot of OVERCOATS and Just below Vicksburg a family got on board, on their way to Texas. During the Ready Made Clothing, together with afternoon, the pater familias concluded he under Clothing, Fancy Shirts, Fine Shirts; would enjoy the luxury of a good shave, Paper and Linen Fronts, Paper Collars; shampooing, etc., and for this purpose applied to the tonsorial artsit of the steamer. The luxury was speedily supplied him; and at his request, hair, eyebrows, and whiskers, were converted from fiery red to raven blackness by the use of the artist's dye. The traveller was hugely pleased at the idea of surprising his wife se wind machine, the cheapest and at the transformation, and hurried to demand the price. On the Eastern Railroad, the other day a newsboy entered a car with a bundle of dailies and acosted a crusty old chap who sat crouched in a seat near the stove :-"Paper, sir? only five cents!" "No!" growled the passenger, "but I'd give five dollars if there was a fire in that stove?" "Did you say you'd give five dollars if you had a fire in that stove?" said the boy, turning back. "Yes, and d-d quick too." The boy in the twinkling of an eye opened the stove door, thrust in his bundle of fresh newspapers, touched a lighted match to them and demanded his pay.— The passengers who had been watching the manœuver shouted with laughter, and the old fellow, after hesitating a moment, sheepishly drew a $5 bill from his pocket and paid the bill.
