Poetry.

RESPECTFULLY announces to the inhabitants of Woodstock and vicinity, that he has Tell us something sweet to think of,

> "Tell the very sweetest story That you ever heard or read, And you'll see that we'll remember Every single word you've said."

Then I told them of a midnight In the very long ago,
When the sky was full of angels,
And from every shining row,

In a voice of heavenly music, Came a lovely message, given For the sake of one sweet baby That had come that night from heaven.

"Now please tell us just another,

Tell the saddest one you know,

And I told of One who suffered, And who wandered to and fro: Doing good to all around Him. Without fear, or sin, or pride;

Blessing those who most ill used Him For whose sake at last he died. "Now, please, just one more, dear mother, Tell us now the strangest one;"

So I told them of a journey, On a mountain top begun: Through the azure, in a body, Just as here on earth He trod, Up through shining ranks of angels,

To the very throne of God.

Four blue eyes and two sweet voices Waited till my tale was done. Then they cried, "Why, that was Jesus-Those three stories are but one!"
