Miscellaneous.

THE STORY OF A ROSE.—An Indian chief of the seminole tribe taken prisoner by his enemies the Cherokees, and doomed to torture, became so seriously ill that it was necessary to wait for his restoration to health before committing him to the fire. As he lay prostrated in the cabin of the Cherokee warrior the daughter of the latter, a dusky-faced maiden, was his nurse. She fell in love with the young chieftain, and, wishing to save his life urged him to escape; but he would not do so unless she would flee with him, to which she consented. Before they had gone far, impelled by soft regrets at leaving home, she asked permission of her lover to return for the purpose of bearing away some memento of it. Retracing her footsteps, she broke a sprig from the white rose which grew near her father's tent, and, preserving it during her flight through the wilderness, planted it by the door of her new home in the land of the Seminoles, , and from that time to this the beautiful flower has been known throughout the Southern States as the Cheroke Rose.

SELF IMPORTANCE.—A great many of the mortifications we experience in life have their root in self-consciousness.—We think so much more about ourselves than anyone else thinks about us. How our ears tingled when we made that unlucky slip in grammar, but the person who was talking with us, intent on what he was to say presently, did not observe either our mistake or our embarrassment. Some one fails to bow to your sensitive man in the street, and he spends half the day in wondering why. He believes he has been cut and insulted, while the truth is that his acquaintance, absorbed in some scheme of his own, never even saw him. The sharpest-barbed arrow of scandal derives its most venomous sting from undue self-consciousness. We are of so great importance to ourselves that we fancy we are similarly important to others, and we wince at our own conception of what people are saying about us long after interests more immediate and personal have banished us from their minds altogether. In three years after the death of all but the very great men the general public has so far forgotten them that if they are recalled at all, you hear one say to the other: "Why, let us see he died a few years ago, didn't he?" It is a safe rule to conclude that we are no more important to other people than they are to us.

THE SACREDNESS OF MARRIAGE.—For the man and woman who purely and truly love each other, and are guided by laws of justice, marriage is not a state of bondage. Indeed, it is only when they become by this outward acknowledgement, publicly avowed lovers, that freedom is realized by them in its full significance. Thereafter they can be openly devoted to each other's interests, and avowedly chosen and intimate friends. Together they can plan life, and enter upon a path of progress. Together they can seek the charming avenue of culture, and strengthened by each other, can brave the world's frown in the rugged but heaven-lit path of reform. Home with all that is dearest in the sacred name, is their peaceful and cherished retreat, within whose sanctuary bloom the virtues that make it a temple of beneficence.

During a class meeting held several years since by the Methodist brethern of a Southern village, Brother Jones went among the colored portion of the congregation. Finding an old man notorious for his endeavor to serve God on the Sabbath and Satan the rest of the week, he said:

"Well, Brother Dick, I'm glad to see you here! Haven't stole any turkeys since I saw you last, Brother Dick?"

"No, no, Brudder Jones, no chickens."

"Thank the Lord, Brother Dick! That's doing well, my brother!" said Brother Jones, leaving Brother Dick who immediately relieved his over-burdened conscience by saying to a near neighbor with an immense sigh of relief:

"Ef he'd a said ducks, he'd a had me!"
—Hearth and Home.

SUPPOSE A CASE.—Suppose some cold morning you should go into a neighbor's house and find him busy at work on his windows, scratching away, and should ask him what he was up to, and he should reply; "Why, I am trying to remove the frost; but as fast as I get it off one square it comes on another," would you not say, "Why, man, let your windows alone, and kindle your fire, and the frost will soon come off." And have you not seen people who try to break off their bad habits, one after another, without avail? Well, they are like the man who tried to scratch the frost from his windows. Let the fire of love of God and men, kindled at the altar of prayer, burn in their hearts, and bad habits will soon melt away.—School-day Visitor.

Comfort and beauty are not the privileges of the rich alone. Those with slender means may have elegance about them, if they will only study the art of making the most of what they have, acting with a brave disregard of conventional demands. A person with good taste and good sense, on the smallest income, is more than a match for wealth, where these are absent, in making home happy and attractive, and extracting the truest enjoyment out of life.

GOOD ADVICE.—If you cannot speak well of your neighbors, do not speak of them at all. A cross neighbor may be made a kind one by kind treatment. The true way to be happy is to make others happy. To do good is a luxury. If you are not wiser and better at the end of the day, that day is lost. Practice kindness, even if it be but little each day. Learn something each day, even if it be but to spell one word. Do not seem to be what you are not. Learn to control your temper and your words. Say nothing behind one's back, that you would not say to his face.

A KNOWING SHEEP.—In a slaughter house in one of our cities, a pet sheep has been trained so that on the arrival of a fresh flock this sheep goes out meekly to meet the new comers, and then, taking the lead, makes directly for the slaughter pen the poor dupes following. The decoy sheep then slips out by a secret door, and repeats the operation on arrival of the next victims. She saves much labor of driving to her owner and her own mutton, but she destroys all the romance of the lamb character.

One pound of gold may be drawn into a wire that would extend around the globe. So one good deed may be felt through all eternity. Though done in the first flush of youth, it may gladden the last of a long life, and form the brightest and most glorious spot on it.

Life is a road of thorny preplexity and weary disappointments, and leads to a limitless eternity. Limitless! How the soul stands aghast, peering into the dim future, trying to divine the mysteries beyond—to pierce the vale that hides the "shoreless ocean" whose dark waves roll on, and on, and on, in never ceasing restlessness.

"Shon," said a Dutchman, "you may say what you please 'pout pad neighbors: I have had te vorst neighbors as never vas. Mine pigs and mine hens come home mit dere ears split, and todder day two of them come home missing."

Iron in the Blood

PERUVIAN SYRUP — AN IRON TONIC

MAKES THE WEAK STRONG.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low state of the system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

Watchmaking in Switzerland.

(From the Swiss Times of May 30th.)

We have already drawn attention to the annual meeting of the Society of Arts held on the 23rd current, under the presidentship of M. Theodore Saussure, and are now able to furnish some further details.

Professor Soret, in delivering a most interesting report, passed in review the operations of the industrial section, in reference to Commerce, laying great stress upon the competition that has taken place in the manufacture of chronometers. This competition was instituted with the object of testing the workmanship and precision of chronometers turned out by Genevese manufacturers, and none but those adopted for pocket use were admitted. They were deposited in charge of the authorities at the Observatory, and underwent the most searching ordeal possible to be applied to pocket instruments of this class. The jury specially retained to decide the difficult question as to whom to award the palm of excellence unanimously decided in favor of Messrs. J. M. Badollet & Co. This firm having carried off the sole prize by exhibiting a chronometer which fulfilled in the highest degree every condition required, crowned their first success by gaining honorable mention for two other chronometers. The allusion to this triple honor was received with enthusiastic applause, and Professor Humbert, President of the Fine Arts Section, closed the meeting with happy and humorous dissertation upon subjects connected with this department.

An assortment of Gold and Silver WATCHES of different grades, from the eminent manufacturers above referred to, always kept in stock by
